LABOR PLAYING HOOKY, PERILS ARMS OUTPUT

Cash Burns Pockets; Absentees Increase.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21 [Special].—Workers in war plants here are creating a serious new obstacle to the maintenance of top production by an alarming increase in "voluntary absenteeism," a survey of employment records revealed today.

Best defined as "playing hooky," voluntary absenteeism has jumped 50 per cent in the last three months in plants of the General Motors corporation. Corporation records showed that for the six working days of the week ending Sept. 13 there were 173 days off taken for each 1,000 employés.

Workers who failed to appear on schedule either reported sick or offered no excuse to their foremen, company officials said.

Big Increase in August.

A year ago there was a loss of only 1.3 per cent in scheduled working hours of male employés, but by last May the figure had risen to 1.8 per cent and in August had reached 2.7 per cent, it was said.

Blame for the mounting prevalence of layoffs is a matter for debate between management and labor officials. The representatives of labor say management is expecting too much in human endurance and that absenteeism is inevitable under present conditions of six and seven day weeks with frequent overtime.

Management counters with the assertion that labor is simply taking too much time off from the vital task of turning out weapons, and has sought to check the tendency by building up morale thru pep talks and display of posters emphasizing the importance of the work to the war effort.

Problem of Spending Earnings.

Some representatives of management are contending that many workmen are laying off simply because they do not know what to do with all the money they are earning. Tool makers who, in many instances, work seven days a week, 10 hours a day, earn more than $100 a week, it was said, while the average man on the production line finds $55 in his pay envelope, $15 above the "good pay" standard of a year ago.

Less aggressive employés are feeling no desire to utilize their increased earning capacity to enhance their standard of living, but instead are content to work only enough to earn what they formerly made by working steadily, according to one theory. Such men are satisfied to work only four of six scheduled working days in a week.

Linked to Labor Drafting.

Significance of the problem is growing as increasing pressure is being applied in Washington, D. C., to give President Roosevelt full authority to draft labor to provide needed man power in war factories. Donald M. Nelson, War Production board chairman, said last week that if adequate man power to sustain maximum production is not made available voluntarily "it must be done some other way."

Andrew T. Court of the General Motors labor economics section said a study of statistics on absenteeism shows that peak figures often coincide with such occasions as the opening of the Michigan deer hunting season. Two years ago so many key men were absent on this occasion that departments of several plants were forced to shut down for lack of man power, he said.

REPORT REVOLT WAVE MOUNTS AGAINST LAVAL

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 21 (AP).—A "revolutionary wave of opposition" to the Petain-Laval régime in Vichy was reported mounting today in France because of the plan to deport workers to Germany.

The Marseille correspondent of the Zurich Socialist newspaper Volksrecht said bluntly that "the feeling toward the government has worsened generally and rapidly" because of Laval's axis collaboration.

NURSE REVEALS HOPE IN DEPTHS OF CORREGIDOR

(This is the third in a series of an army nurse's diary describing the first 167 days of the war in the Philippines.)

BY LIEUT. RUTH STRAUB, as told to MARCIA WINN.

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Corregidor had been such a beautiful little island. It was three miles wide and seven miles long, in the shape of a polliwog, with beautiful, winding roads leading from one level to another, gardenias blooming everywhere and trees and shrubs acting as camouflage for the gun emplacements.

It had three different elevations—Bottomside, Middleside, and Topside. Topside, which was about 700 feet above sea level, had beautiful officers' quarters on it. Our enormous modern hospital and the barracks, 440 feet long and the longest in the world, were on Middleside. The tunnels were on Bottomside.

Caught in Open.

The first day the Japs bombed Corregidor, Dec. 29, they wiped out almost everything. It was to me the most terrifying day I experienced, for with three other nurses I was caught out in the open on Middleside when the attack came. We huddled in a drainage ditch until a break in the bombing.

One, Queen's tunnel, was for the navy. The other, Malinta tunnel, was for the army. It had three entrances. One was for the quartermaster, one for ammunition and the third for the emergency hospital. Luckily, all the patients from Middleside had been moved into it a few days before the bombing and were safe there beneath a 400 foot roof of rock.

Live in Tunnel.

From the day of the first bombing on, we lived in the tunnel hospital. It consisted of a main passageway from which led many laterals. Each lateral was a ward. We could get about 25 beds to a ward, all in a straight row. It was lighted and air conditioned, but sometimes when the bombs or the shells landed too close, we would get a lot of dust thru the air conditioning.

There seems to have been a week after that first bombing when I didn't write anything in my diary. I don't know why. Maybe it was because it was the week of the new year, and it brought back too many painful memories.

I had joined the army nurses on New Year's eve, 1936, and then there were the two New Year's eves in the Philippines when Glen and I were so happy. With Glen dead, nothing mattered.

Wounded Pour In.

The wounded and dying continued to pour in. All the time we expected help momentarily. We lived for it. Every day we heard that help would be there the next day, and then the next day, too, came and passed, as you will see:

Jan. 6—Time passes. Much has happened, but nothing seems to matter any more. I am to report as night

HUNDREDS OF HITLER'S SHOCK TROOPS FALL

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Sept. 22 (Tuesday)—(AP).—The German radio reported today that the Russians had broken thru German positions at two points south of Rzhev but declared the soviet forces now had been encircled. Rzhev is 130 miles northwest of Moscow and marked the center of an offensive on a 70 mile front launched Aug. 11 by the Russians to relieve other fronts.

MOSCOW, Sept. 22 [Tuesday] (AP).—The Russian high command announced today on the 29th day of Stalingrad's gallant stand that hundreds of additional German shock troops had fallen in violent street fighting, which has found the Nazis too hard pressed to bury their dead or rescue their badly wounded.

A midnight communique said the Red army had even improved its position in one sector of the battered city where "our forces pressed back the enemy and destroyed 12 tanks and about two German companies."

[The Reuters (British) news agency quoted the Vichy radio as saying German troops had crossed the Volga river five days ago, but did not disclose the point of the reported bridgehead. The Germans had claimed some time ago to have reached the Volga banks both north and south of Stalingrad, but Russian reports have not borne out any such development.]

Hurl Tanks Across Dead.

Dispatches from the front said the Germans were hurling men and tanks across the crumpled bodies of their own dead in an increasingly frenzied attempt to reduce the badly wounded Volga river city named for Stalin—"man of steel."

German heavy guns were pumping shells incessantly into the squares and thorofares of Stalingrad, but the latest official bulletin said of the fight:

"Several attacks were launched in one sector by a regiment of German infantry supported by tanks, but they were all repulsed with severe losses for the enemy."

One Red unit wiped out 230 Germans and destroyed 24 motor vehicles and three mortar batteries in the house-to-house fighting, the communique added.

Heavy Losses in Caucasus.

Dispatches said that all the women and children had been sent out of the city and that every able bodied man was under arms and helping in the city's defense.

In the Mozdok area of the mid-Caucasus the Russians said their outnumbered troops had inflicted heavy losses on the enemy in continued successful defensive fighting.

In the Voronezh area of the upper Don river, the Russians were said in unofficial accounts to be throwing heavy artillery, planes, and tanks into fighting.

Scores of German dugouts were reported destroyed. One soviet infantry unit was said to have forced a crossing of the Don under heavy fire, pushed the Germans back on the western bank and gained one position after another.

Claim 2 Towns in Caucasus.

BERLIN, Sept. 21 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command announced today that Nazi troops driving toward the rich Grozny oil fields in the eastern Caucasus had stormed and captured the towns of Terek and Vladimirovka.

[Vladimirovka is 90 miles northwest of Grozny and approximately the same distance from the shores of the Caspian. It is north of the Terek river. Terek is about six miles east of Mozdok and about 50 miles northwest of Grozny.]

The high command said the two places were taken by storm after the overcoming "of difficult and mined terrain."

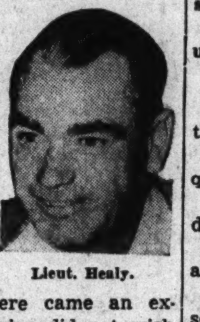
"In some districts of Stalingrad which the enemy is desperately trying to hold with the help of fresh reenforcements violent street fighting is now going on," the communique said.

SOBERING EFFECT

New Highway Chief Is In—But Modestly

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Lieut. John J. Healy of the county police department told callers yesterday he was acting as chief of the force, succeeding James J. Fleming who died Friday. Healy's appointment was not announced by Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien, boss of the highway police.



Lieut. Healy.

From Sheriff O'Brien's office there came an explanation that O'Brien did not wish to name any one as a permanent chief of the county bluecoats because his own term as sheriff ends on the first Monday in December.

Second Interim Term.

It was recalled that Healy had been chief during another interim. A year ago Lester Laird was discovered at dinner with William R. Skidmore, the collector of huge sums of cash from Cook county gamblers. The consequent embarrassment to Sheriff O'Brien was more than the sheriff could stand. Laird was fired and Sergt. Healy took over the command.

Healy's record was explored by the Chicago Crime commission, which said he had made only one arrest and that was of a gambler who had dared testify before a federal grand jury against Skidmore. Healy was a defense witness for Skidmore, who was accused of defrauding the government of $500,000 in income tax. [He was convicted and is now in prison.]

"Healy testified that he was Laird's chauffeur and that he drove Laird to Skidmore's office six times a month for many years," the crime commission reported.

Promised to Ape Laird.

"I'm going to carry out the policies of this office as Lester Laird did in the past," said Acting Chief Healy on the occasion of his assuming the office in 1941. "We'll continue to keep after gamblers."

The crime commission's protest cut short the interim of Healy's chiefship. Within a week Fleming, a retired city police captain, was appointed.

Calls at the three county highway police stations last night disclosed that apparently Healy was the only policeman who knew who was chief. It was the guess of many that Healy would be in command, but all said there was no official notice.

CRIME IS GAINING, HOOVER ASSERTS; ASKS PREVENTION

New York, Sept. 21 (AP).—Crime definitely is increasing, and enforcement alone is not the answer, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said today in a speech prepared for the war conference convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

"Juvenile delinquency is mounting rapidly and unless we all do our jobs better, we can expect another era of lawlessness such as swept the country after the last war," Hoover added in the address read by his assistant, Hugh Clegg.

He declared that "compromise with indecency" is the greatest crime of our age and said the best weapon "is to constantly emphasize prevention." He stressed the home's rôle in preventing crime.

Hoover hit at "weaknesses in law enforcement agencies" and asked for correction of them, saying "tomorrow may be too late." He cited as an example the parole of Adolf Hitler against the judgment of a Bavarian police director.

91 NORWEGIANS FLEE OVER MOUNTAINS TO SWEDEN; 62 ARRIVE

[By Wireless to New York Times and Chicago Tribune.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 21.—Sixty-two Norwegian refugees, including women and babies, have arrived on Swedish territory, according to the Soedra Dalarnas Tidning. The party had consisted of 91 persons, but 29 died from exposure on the way across the snow covered mountains. It was a 15 day trip.

The party originally numbered four, the others successively joining them to fight cold, hunger and the perils of the mountains. When they arrived in Sweden they were in rags and starving.

They were assigned quarters in mid-Sweden, where they found work and new homes.

Chemist Found Strangled with Ties, Stabbed

Police turned to a young blonde woman and her husband last night for information on the private life of Gustave Redemske which might aid in solving the mystery of his murder in a Beverly Hills bungalow at 9732 Prospect avenue.

Redemske was found, strangled and stabbed, yesterday afternoon after he failed to appear for work as a research chemist at Armour & Co.

The woman, Mrs. Marie Doorley, 25 years old, 5736 Stony Island avenue, went to the Gresham police station for questioning with her husband, John, 41, a war plant watchman, after police found a letter from her in the chemist's home. In the letter she asked to see him Saturday.

Tells of Visiting Home.

Mrs. Doorley was questioned by Capt. John Egan and Assistant State's Attorney Francis McCurrie. They said she told them she had been in Redemske's home from 10:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. last Saturday—believed to be Redemske's last day alive.

Capt. Egan said that Mrs. Doorley told him she met Redemske in 1934 in a south side dance hall. Altho she married Doorley five years ago, she said her husband did not object to her seeing Redemske occasionally and cleaning up his house. Redemske paid her dentist's bill and purchased a Persian lamb coat for her, Mrs. Doorley told Capt. Egan.

She said she met Redemske in front of her home last Saturday morning, went bowling with him, and then to his bungalow after making some purchases in a nearby store. In his home, she said, she cooked a meal. Redemske took her back to her home by 5 o'clock, she said.

Taken to Scene of Slaying.

Capt. Egan and McCurrie took Mrs. Doorley to the home of the 58 year old chemist last night to show her the circumstances in which his body was found by Minton Atkisson, Redemske's superior at Armour's, and Arthur Schneider of Itasca, Du Page county, another Armour employé.

Completely dressed except for a shoe which had fallen to the floor, Redemske's body was found with three neckties knotted tightly around his neck. He had been stabbed in the heart, but police believed death was caused by strangulation. A blood-stained bedspread covered his head. A half-empty bottle of beer stood near by.

The house had been upset by the marauder, with the contents of a bedroom dresser strewn on the floor, a vase tipped over and furniture disarranged.

At the scene of the crime Mrs. Doorley insisted she knew no reason why Redemske should have been murdered. She took a lie detector test early today.

Question Two Brothers.

Neighbors of Redemske, one of whom said he had told her he built the bungalow for his mother, now dead, said the slain man lived alone, kept his shades drawn, and apparently had few parties or visitors.

Police questioned the slain man's two brothers, Emil Redemske, 6531 South Mozart street, and Herbert Redemske, 5942 South Albany avenue, and his sister, Mrs. Ann Hayes, 5818 South Albany. They told Capt. Egan the brother dealt in first mortgages thru a real estate firm.

Redemske came here from Germany as a youth and started as an office boy for Morris & Co., meat packers. He joined Armour & Co. in 1923 when the latter absorbed the Morris company.

REPORT WOMEN IN FIFTH COLUMN TRAILING YANKS

LONDON, Sept. 22 [Tuesday]—(AP).—The British Press association, quoting an unidentified American officer, said today women figure largely in a fifth column organization trailing American troops in Northern Ireland. The fifth column, he said, was financed by Germany and its activities carried out by the illegal Irish Republican army.

Many of the women are believed to have crossed the border from neutral Ireland and to have settled in Londonderry, the site of the American naval base.

Quoting the officer, the press association said "The Americans have been given a strict lecture" about the IRA and have been "disillusioned of the idea that it is composed of outlaws fighting English oppression." Irish politics, according to the "lecturer" who was not named, is being used by IRA agents "to cause friction between the British people and American forces."

BATTLE ON FARM FOILS KIDNAPING OF PLOW QUEEN

Kin Held 5 Hours; Nab 2 Terrorists.

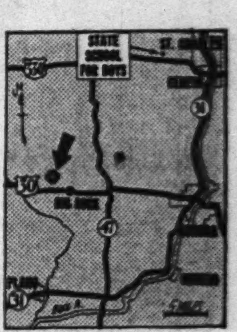
A farmer's wife, her husband, her father and her sister were terrorized by two youths with guns for five hours yesterday on a Kane county farm in a strange drama of juvenile crime. The youths were workers on the farm. State's Attorney Charles G. Seidel and Sheriff Marcus W. Damisch said their motive was the kidnaping of the daughter of the family, 14 years old.



Arrow locates O'Connell farm.

The scene of the bizarre imprisonment was the farm of Edward F. O'Connell, four miles northwest of Big Rock on a country road north of United States route 30. Members of the family who faced constant threats of death are O'Connell, who is 44 years old; his wife, Jessie, 43; her sister, Miss Harriet Brackett, 35, and the women's father, Charles Brackett, 75.

Girl Won Plowing Honors.

The girl the authorities believe was to have been kidnaped is Mary Catherine O'Connell, an eighth grade student at the Big Rock school, who entered the boys' division of the celebrated Big Rock plowing match last year and won second place. She was not present during the trouble.

The gunmen are Fred [Lucky] Dubay, 16, who boasts that he is an escaped convict from a Maine reformatory, and Merle Smith, 17, a member of a respected family living at 172 Northeast avenue, Aurora.

This is the story, as told chronologically by the principals:

BRACKETT: "I found Lucky hitchhiking two weeks ago and got him a job on Ed's farm."

O'CONNELL: "I let Lucky live here, but I didn't trust him. He always had his eyes on Mary Catherine. But I needed help. I told him Saturday night to find me another man. He got Smith. I drove to Big Rock this morning and brought them both out. I told them to dig potatoes, and went to Kaneville to the blacksmith. But I worried when I left."

Wife "Didn't Like Their Looks."

MRS. O'CONNELL: "I didn't like those fellows' looks. When they went to the potato patch, I locked myself in. That was about 8 o'clock. Fifteen minutes later I saw them coming to the house. They knocked and I asked them what they wanted. They said they wanted a drink, and I let them in to get it. Lucky asked where his cigarets were. I said maybe in the shirt I was washing for him. They were. He lit one, but they didn't leave.

"I asked, 'Aren't you going to dig those potatoes?' Lucky answered, 'It's wet out there. You could swim.' He and Smith went into the living room and began to read the paper. I was scared.

"In a few minutes Smith came out with the shotgun from the closet. 'Stick 'em up and start walking,' he said. Lucky had the repeating rifle. 'Why you don't mean that, boy,' I said. 'No? How'd you like a slug in your belly?' asked Lucky. Then they made me sit down in a chair and tied me in with clothesline.

"The phone rang. It was my father. Lucky answered it. 'She's out in the back yard,' he said. 'I can't get her now.'

Passes Word to Father.

"In a little while it rang again. They pointed their guns at me and said, 'You answer it. But be careful what you say.' I hobbled over with the chair tied to me. There wasn't much I could say but when my dad asked if he should come over I said yes.

"'What do you want?' I asked the boys when I hung up the phone. 'If it's a car, there's one in the lot.' But they wouldn't talk to me.

"The man came to read the electric meter. They made me sit still and he left without knowing anything was wrong. When he was gone they took turns running out in the lane to see if any one was coming."

phone calls I knew something was wrong. I told my wife to telephone Ed at the blacksmith's, and my daughter and I jumped in the car. I took my shotgun. When I drove up, I saw those fellows inside with their guns. My daughter and I started in. I was slipping a shell into my gun when Lucky caught me at the back door. He began shooting at my feet. Then I saw Ed coming."

O'CONNELL—"I saw Lucky shooting and ran up. 'Put down the gun, Pa,' I told Brackett. 'Lucky will kill you.' He would have, too; he had his gun pointing right at Pa's head. The boys put guns on all of us and took us in. They made us sit down. I tried to talk to them.

"Wanted My Girl," Says Dad.

"They wanted money and they wanted my girl. They said they'd wait till she came home on the school bus at 3:30 and then they'd take her away in my car. 'If you'll let us get 24 hours' start,' they told us, 'we'll let her out safe.' Yes they would. That Lucky is a dangerous man. I knew I had to save her.

"If I could only get them separated, I thought, I could take care of 'em. But they kept pointing those guns at us. So I kept talking.

"A neighbor drove up and asked to borrow a truck. They made my wife go out and tell him it was O.K.

"Finally I said, 'Why don't you let us do our work? My wife didn't finish her washing. Let her hang it up and I'll cook some dinner.' Lucky took her out in the yard to hang up the clothes and kept the shotgun on her. Smith sat in the kitchen with his rifle on a stool while I cooked. He was always pointing it at me and then swinging it around at the rest of the folks sitting in the dining room. room.

Gunmen Too Nervous to Eat

"'I'll fry a lot of bacon,' I thought, 'and blind him with the hot grease.' But he watched me too close. I couldn't. I put the food on the table and we all tried to eat. The boys couldn't. Too nervous.

"Then I said I'd wash the dishes. My wife went back out to the clothesline with Lucky. I got a potato masher, one of those heavy ones, and put it under a tablecloth in a frying pan.

"Then Smith looked the other way. I let him have it, right across the head. It knocked him down. He shot but missed me. We wrestled on the floor, with the gun going off. I pounded his head with the masher maybe a dozen times.

"One shot broke a window. One cut the telephone wire. I kept on beating him till he yelled for help. Lucky came running in, pointing the shotgun at me."

BRACKETT—"I jumped up and knocked the gun upward just as Lucky pulled the trigger on Ed. The charge went thru the ceiling. Lucky tried to pull the trigger again. I hit him over the head with a cane and the gun jammed. Lucky ran out of the house. Ed grabbed the rifle and shot at him but missed. Then Ed got good aim and pulled the trigger, but the gun was empty.

"Smith got up with his hands above his head. 'I give up,' he said, walking out. But suddenly he ran around my car. Ed chased him with the rifle and clubbed him over the head. Smith fell, but when Ed tried to grab him Smith made a football tackle and brought Ed down."

MRS. O'CONNELL—"Ed yelled at me to hit him again. I took the gun and clubbed Smith down. Then Ed and dad really hog tied him—tied his hands to one tree and his feet to another. I drove to a neighbor's and telephoned the sheriff. Deputies Harry Crawford and Byron Scott came. They formed a posse to catch Lucky. We found him hiding under the wheat in the bin."

The deputies took Smith to St. Joseph's Mercy hospital in Aurora and locked Lucky up in jail at Geneva on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Boy's Father a Chicagoan.

SMITH [from his hospital bed, where he was under guard and also charged with assault with intent to kill]—"My father is a Chicago insurance man, Roy Smith. I ran away from home Saturday night and left a note saying I was going to New Mexico. About 2 a. m. Sunday I met Lucky in Aurora. He boasted that he had raped several women in Maine and asked me if I wanted to go out to work at the O'Connell farm. Lucky said we could make enough money to go west.

"Then he told me his plan. He said we would rob the O'Connells and kidnap Mary Catherine. We would tell her folks we woudl let her loose after we got away, but Lucky said we'd keep her with us about a week as a hostage, and use her as a shield against the police. He said we'd kill her if the police got us in a spot. I didn't want to get mixed up in this, but Lucky talked me into it. I was a sophomore in the East Aurora High school until I ran away from home."

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith, parents of the Smith boy, did not know of his arrest until they were informed early today. They had believed him hitchhiking to New Mexico. Both were shocked. They said he had "always been a good boy."

Two days ago, they said, he ran away, leaving a note stating he was going to New Mexico, and asking them to sell his car and send him the money as soon as he had established himself.

The elder Smith works as an insurance and real estate salesman for a Chicago concern.

J. L. PALMER GETS COMMUNITY FUND DIVISION POST

James L. Palmer, vice president and controler of Marshall Field & Co., yesterday was appointed chairman of the industrial division in the 1942 Community fund campaign.

The appointment was made by Charles Y. Freeman, general chairman of the drive, who announced that Palmer's nomination completed the panel of leaders this year.

Palmer appointed chairmen for 21 of 69 groups in his division and declared a preliminary meeting of workers would be held in the Palmer house tomorrow evening.

HOSTILE THRONG SEES RAPE KILLER PLEAD GUILTY

Authorities Anxious for a Quick Sentence.

Sparta, Wis., Sept. 21 [Special].—While a hostile crowd of 300 persons watched in grim silence, Robert T. Bailey, 20 year old army deserter, defiantly pleaded guilty today to charges of murdering two Wisconsin women social workers near Tomah two weeks ago.

Robert T. Bailey.

He was bound over to the Circuit court for sentencing, probably this week.

Bailey remained handcuffed to Sheriff Hallett Jenkins during the brief arraignment before Justice of the Peace Harry Beckman in the city clerk's office in the city hall. The defendant, who has gloated over the attention he is receiving, smirked at the crowd.

Shouts Guilty, Grins.

Asked for his plea, he first mumbled so inaudibly Justice Beckman was unable to hear him and told him to speak up. Bailey shouted "guilty," and grinned. Authorities said he has shown no remorse since he was arrested in Santa Maria, Cal., on Sept. 12.

He entered separate pleas of guilty to charges of first degree murder in the rape slaying of first Miss Neil J. Pietrangeli, then Miss Dorothy Baun. He had confessed both slayings but had told conflicting stories relative to an accomplice.

Soldiers Vindictive.

When the five minute hearing ended and Bailey had been led back to the county jail to remain under heavy guard until sentenced, the crowd began murmuring about "what ought to be done with an animal like that." Each suggested his pet form of capital punishment.

It was reported that soldiers at nearby Camp McCoy are even more hostile in their attitude toward Bailey than townsfolk, asserting that life imprisonment is too good for a man who has so disgraced the United States army uniform.

HIGHWAY DRIVERS GET WORDS; 127 IN CITY GET TICKETS

Illinois state police have begun informally to enforce the 35 mile per hour speed limit on highways as requested recently by President Roosevelt in the rubber conservation program.

Thus far they have merely stopped motorists exceeding that speed, warning them that further violations will mean arrest.

The story was different in Chicago proper as park district police began strict enforcement of the 35 mile speed limit. In the 16 hours ended at 4 p. m. yesterday 127 motorists received traffic tickets. The park district's campaign followed a general warning issued last week. Chief Roger F. Shanahan warned that the enforcement of the 35 mile speed limit will continue.

NEAR EAST FACES FAMINE IN THE MIDST OF PLENTY

Profiteers Hoard Wheat; Bread $1 a Loaf.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ANKARA, Turkey, Sept. 21.—The near east faces famine this winter unless America provides grain. The next few weeks are the critical period when it will be seen whether the harvest is sufficient to carry Syrians and Lebanese thru the winter.

It is an artificial shortage caused by hoarding and profiteering, but the poor get just as hungry as if the bread did not exist. I have just finished a trip from Egypt via Palestine, Lebanon, and Syria, and everywhere the situation is the same.

The authorities must find some means to halt profiteering and hoarding, and even then they probably will have to import some grain. The Lebanese are talking about the last war, when, under Turkish rule, 20 to 25 per cent of the population of Lebanon starved to death. The Turks and Germans bled the country's stocks and profiteers cornered what was left.

Living Costs Trebled.

All living costs have gone up three or four times over what they were a year and a half ago. At Beirut, Syria, the food director said fruit merchants are making a 60 per cent net profit, and he is establishing municipal fruit shops to sell at reasonable prices. One merchant told me he sold beer for three times what it cost him, a net profit of 200 per cent.

For Americans bread is an accessory to the diet; for eastern peasants it is everything. No bread means no dinner. They live on bread with a little goat cheese, a little goat milk, and a few olives.

European bread in Beirut now costs exactly 16 times what it cost three years ago, and four times as much as in May, 1941. It is $1 for a 2 pound loaf. Leathery, unleavened Arab bread is 12⅓ times the prewar price, and costs 35 cents a pound.

Three Classes of Flour.

Beirut authorities are helping the situation with distribution of cheap flour. There are three classes, according to incomes. The poorest get 26 pounds monthly each at 8 cents a pound. The middle class gets 23 pounds at 10 cents, and the "rich," getting over $15 weekly, get only 13 pounds of flour at 16 cents a pound. Those are reasonable arrangements while they can be kept up.

There is a black [illegal] market in wheat despite anything the authorities can do. I asked why hoarding could not be prevented. An official said wheat is produced by thousands of small farmers in more than 6,000 communities. They all hold out a few sacks against hard times. When they are offered extra money, poverty drives them to take it, and thus the profiteer gets his stock.

The legal price of wheat is now about $175 a ton. Speculators bootleg it at $500 and even $750 per ton. The prewar cost was $75 per ton.

British Sell to Middlemen.

Normally Syria and Lebanon produce just about enough to cover their own consumption, some half a million tons. In a good year they export nearly 200,000 tons.

A few thousand tons of wheat can make all the difference between starvation or survival if it is well distributed. Bad communications can mean famine in the cities and wheatless districts while there is enough wheat in the country for everybody.

The British shipped 80,000 tons of wheat into Syria this year, but made the mistake of allowing middlemen to buy it, and it has now vanished. Officials say plenty of grain is available but authorities are reluctant to allow tonnage precious for military use to be employed in feeding a country that should be able to feed itself.

Officials told me the next few weeks will determine whether the harvest is adequate. If it isn't, they say, America and Britain must decide whether to ship wheat and supervise its distribution or leave the poor to be starved while the profiteers wax fat.

U. S. Woman Ambulance Driver Shoots Herself

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP).—Mrs. Juanita Pagella, 29, of Palo Alto, Cal., a driver for the American women's ambulance corps, was found in her room at Tunbridge Wells, Kent, with a bullet wound in her stomach today. Mrs. Pagella, whose husband is an officer in the British marines, was reported making progress against the wound tonight. A revolver found on the floor apparently had been accidentally discharged.

DREISER SLURS BRITISH; CANADA BARS HIS SPEECH

English Called Snobs by U. S. Author.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 21.—Theodore Dreiser, American author, left Toronto late today, leaving behind a government ban on his scheduled Town Forum address tonight, and on any other public statement he might wish to make in Canada. Dreiser's statement, "I would rather see Germans in England than the damn snobs we have there now," given in an interview shortly after his arrival in this city, brought an avalanche of protests.

Justice Minister Louis St. Laurent, at Ottawa, studied royal Canadian mounted police reports, and issued an order directing that Dreiser be prohibited from making any public speech or comment for the press.

His Meeting Canceled.

D. Ross, chairman of the Town Forum committee, under whose auspices Dreiser had been brought here, canceled the meeting, but his move was unnecessary as the police commission, in special session, had announced the meeting would not take place.

The Canadian Corps association [World war veterans] had sent telegrams to Attorney General G. D. Conant of Ontario and Justice Minister St. Laurent, demanding action "to rid the country of this man before he is allowed to make a public address."

Conant wired to St. Laurent asking an investigation with a view to prosecution and to preventing Dreiser from speaking in Toronto.

Says English Do Nothing.

Dreiser told reporters soon after his arrival here that should Russia go down to defeat he hoped the Germans would invade England. He referred to "the unbelievable gall and brass of the English," and asserted they had done nothing in this war "except borrow money, planes, and men from the United States."

Reaction of the public to his statements in the afternoon press was immediate. Telegrams and telephone calls poured into provincial, federal, and municipal authorities demanding that the author be interned for the duration; that he be deported at once; that he be arrested and put on trial, and that his Town Forum meeting be banned.

The author was to have spoken at the Forum on "Democracy on the Offensive."

AUTHOR AN INDIANAN.

Dreiser, 71 years old and one of the first American realists among American writers, frequently has been the target of attacks because of his outspokenness. His works have reflected an obsession with the "brittle cruelty" of life. In 1935 the Nazi Gestapo seized his "An American Tragedy" and "The Genius," because the third reich considered them "morally dangerous." He was born in Terre Haute, Ind.

FRENCH ARREST JEWS HIDING IN MOUNTAIN CAVES

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 21.—French gendarmes have just made man hunts on Mont Saleve, where many Jews had sought refuge, and a number of arrests were made, says a French dispatch to Swiss newspapers.

Mont Saleve is a high plateau with woods and caves in which fugitives have been concealing themselves. Since it is close to the Swiss border, "guides" pilot refugees across the frontier for a consideration.

Two Jews who recently arrived in this country reported that they had been despoiled of 55,000 French francs at the crossing point. They preferred to lose their money rather than return to France.

FRANCE BEGINS MERGER OF ALL UNIONS IN ONE

Member Census Taken; State to Arbitrate.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Sept. 21.—A census is under way in every industrial and commercial center of France, occupied or unoccupied, of all labor unions for the purpose of amalgamating all into what is to be known as the "unique syndicate," or single union.

Until now French industrial and commercial workers were organized into rival unions and confederations which had varying tendencies and differing outlooks toward moderation or radicalism.

The big organization was the famous General Confederation of Workers, headed by Leon Jouhaux.

Rival Unions Outlawed.

Minister of Labor Hubert Lagardelle now proposes to reform all unions into a single group. Rival unions won't be permitted.

As soon as the present census is completed, the reorganization of all workers into the new union will be started. Membership will be obligatory for all workers.

The new institution is provided for in the French labor charter promulgated in October, 1941, to redefine French social relationships with respect to workers and employers. The labor charter requires that the unions must keep out of politics and function only in the interests of workers.

Plan "Social Committees."

It is stated that in taking the local censuses for the formation of the new single union, account will be taken in each locality of the different syndical tendencies which had existed there. That is, if one union was stronger than its rivals, one of its former members likely would become the local representative in the new union.

"Social committees" will be formed, each having 12 members, representing employers, workers, and technicians. They will be organized on local, regional, and national lines to provide a framework within which to settle differences between workers and employers. The state will arbitrate whenever agreements cannot be reached.

RIVERA, Uruguay, Sept. 21 (AP).—Delegates to a special conference on frontier precautions were told by local authorities here today that 200 Uruguayans recently crossed the border into the Brazilian town of Santa Anna do Livramento and took part in lynching a German.

The lynching was said to have occurred during anti-German outbreaks in protest against the sinking of Brazilian ships.

PLANES' BOMBS MISS JAP SHIP; BULLETS DON'T

U. S. Airmen Shoot Foe Out of Bed.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Sept. 21 [Passed by military censor]. — Angered when bombs narrowly missed a squirming Japanese ship off the north coast of New Guinea, a group of Flying Fortresses swooped down to a low level and poured hundreds of rounds of machine gun bullets into the vessel.

The crews of these giant bombers, which usually operate at altitudes of 20,000 to 30,000 feet, were on their first combat mission as a unit. Determined to do as much damage as possible, they flew their aircraft as tho they were light pursuit ships.

For 15 minutes they circled around the 2,000 ton supply vessel in Vitiaz strait with the side and bottom turret gunners pouring in the lead. All but one of the ship's gun positions were silenced as the Japanese gunners were cut down by the hail of lead, and when the Fortresses departed the ship had come to a standstill. Several fires were burning on the decks. Only enough ammunition was held back to take care of any Zeros encountered on the way back to the base.

Desk Job to Battle.

The lead ship was commanded by Maj. William G. Benn of Washington, Pa. I knew Benn at allied general headquarters when he was the right hand man of Maj. Gen. George C. Kenney, new commander of allied air forces in the southwest Pacific. Benn was a clean shaven, smooth, efficient executive.

Today I found him sitting on a five gallon oil can in the jungle along a New Guinea airstrip. Wearing a battered sun helmet, he needed a shave and had on a dirty, wrinkled tropical uniform—but he was grinning all over.

As squadron leader he is getting a greater kick out of combat than he ever did out of a desk job. The only complaint he had was about the vessel's cargo.

"We started a lot of fires," he said, "but the ship didn't burn very well. The cargo must have been noninflammable."

Shell Pierces Ship's Wing.

Benn praised Capt. C. A. Husted of Minneapolis, Minn., who commanded one of the ships of his squadron, and Side Gunner George E. Dirr of Indianapolis, Ind. Lieut. Kenneth W. Beckstrom of Vaughn, Mont., was the navigator in Benn's ship.

A pom-pom shell from the ship's guns pierced the left wing of Benn's ship but failed to halt the Flying Fortress, which can stand tremendous punishment. The hole in the wing was repaired a few hours after landing.

The Japanese force now 32 miles from Port Moresby is facing a difficult supply problem. Repeated strafing raids by American airmen rake the enemy supply line between Kokoda and Buna. Their blazing machine guns firing into grass huts rolled the Japanese out of bed. Many were picked off as they strapped on ammunition belts.

Fly at Treetop Height.

One of the pilots was Capt. William Hennon of Mound, Minn., whose plane carries seven small rising suns, denoting seven victories over enemy planes. Another was Lieut. Robert Ferner of Michigan City, Ind.

"We came thru the gap [in the Owen Stanley mountains] and slid downgrade all the way to Kokoda at treetop height," Hennon said. "We saw a lot of Japs rolling out of huts and strapping on their gear."

The pilots said the road which runs down the long valley seems fairly wide, altho not much traffic was observed today. Some of the pilots thought it might have been oiled, since natives and coolies are reported to have been working on the jungle track ever since the Japs began their thrust toward Port Moresby.

Give Japs Back a Clock.

The Japanese got back one of their cheap clocks today in a way they weren't expecting. It was dropped from an American attack bomber as it roared across the Lae airdrome in New Guinea at an altitude of 10 feet. With the clock went a note warning the Japanese to watch it, as "we'll be over every hour."

Several months ago the boys of the squadron paid the equivalent of $10 for the clock, which they said was a poor imitation of an American $1 model.

"It never worked," said Sergt. Tim Le Blanc of Plaquemine, La. "So we decided something would have to be done about it."

Look for Return Gift.

Le Blanc packed the clock in a red box sealed with paper tape and attached two parachutes to it. On the outside the following note was written:

"This clock has never run since we bought it. It's a poor imitation of a Waltham. We give it back to you to compensate you for your desperate shortage of metal. Watch it—we'll be over every hour on the hour."

Capt. J. R. Smith of Fort Wayne, Ind., piloted the plane, which strafed the Lae airdrome, and Sergt. Roger Martin of Manchester, N. H., dropped the clock out the door.

"It floated right down in front of Japanese headquarters," Martin said.

Blows Against the Japanese in China

Down 28 Planes

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 21 (AP).—American airmen made 23 bombing raids on Japanese installations in occupied China, French Indo-China and Burma in July and August, shot down 28 Japanese planes and probably six more and destroyed 30 enemy craft on the ground without the loss of a single bomber in combat.

These figures were given in a summary today by Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters, which listed the loss of five American fighters during the two month period. The pilot of one fighter was known to be safe, it added.

The Chinese air force provided ground personnel for the American planes and the Chinese air warning service contributed considerable aid. The bomber crews and technical personnel were all of the United States army air forces, as were the fighter pilots, including a small number of Flying Tigers who joined up after the AVG was disbanded July 4.

The Chinese high command's communique today told of minor fighting in Kwangtung, Honan, and Kiangsi provinces. It said the Japanese, attacking from Samshue, a river and railway town west of Canton, had advanced thru Hengtang. A Japanese foraging expedition was severely beaten in a three hour battle southwest of Sinyang in Honan, north of Hankow, the communique said, while another column was ambushed north of Anyi, near Nanchang in Kiangsi.

The official Central Daily News reported that the Japanese were double-tracking the railway between Tientsin and Peiping.

FLYER BAILS OUT, KILLS FOUR JAPS TO REJOIN UNIT

GUADALCANAL, Solomon Islands, Sept. 7 [Delayed]—(AP).—Lieut. Richard Ronald Amerine [Dick Amerine of University of Kansas football fame] didn't have to wait long for a close look at the Japanese after flying a marine fighter plane at Guadalcanal Island.

The oxygen failed on his first flight and he spent a week under the noses of enemy troops still holding a point on the beach. He said he killed four Japs on the way back to his own lines.

[United States marines landed on Guadalcanal Island Aug. 7, captured the almost completed airfield and killed, captured or drove the Janaese defenders into the jungles. The Japanese since have tried, with some success, to reënforce the remnants of the defenders.]

Amerine is 21 years old and is from Lawrence, Kas. When he went up on the morning of Aug. 31 Amerine said he got woozy when the oxygen failed and bailed out, alighting on the water within the sight of coconut trees. He kept going until picked up by a marine patrol.

CANADA REVEALS LOSS OF 113 MEN WITH DESTROYER

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 21 (AP).—A German torpedo sent the Canadian destroyer Ottawa to the bottom of the Atlantic with the loss of 113 lives, Naval Minister Angus MacDonald announced today. Seventy-six of the crew were rescued.

It was the third naval loss announced in a week and the 10th ship lost by Canada's navy in the present war. In the death toll it approached the loss of the destroyer Margaree in 1940 when 142 lives were lost.

The Ottawa was a modern destroyer, one of the six with which the Canadian navy was equipped on the outbreak of war. Formerly the Crusader, she was built in 1931. The Ottawa gave much useful service in convoy and other operations and survived many clashes with enemy submarines and aircraft.

DOOM 4 INDIANS TO DEATH FOR DERAILING TRAIN

KARACHI, India, Sept. 21 (AP).—Four Hurs, members of a fanatical Mohammedan cult in western India, were sentenced to death at Hyderabad today for derailing the Karachi-Lahore mail, killing 22 persons and injuring 26. Twelve others were acquitted but rearrested under defense regulations.

Some 200 persons have been arrested under the defense of India regulations in Assam province, which borders Burma, since the start of Mohandas K. Gandhi's campaign against British rule.

Planes Bomb Rebels.

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 21 (AP).—Airplanes sprayed incendiary bombs on the dens and encampments of the fanatical Mohammedan Hurs in western India in suppressing the recent disorders in which they tore up railways and killed many Indians, Sir Alan Hartley told a council of state today. Parachute troops also were used.

ODT Calls for Reduction in Week-End Traveling

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP).—Too many people still are traveling on week-ends by bus and train. Sounding this complaint today, the Office of Defense Transportation said that a further shift to midweek travel of at least 8 per cent was necessary to eliminate the week-end travel load. The report showed heaviest ticket sales on Saturday, when 21 per cent of the week's entire sales take place.

37 JAP PLANES BOMB MORESBY; DO NO DAMAGE

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 22 [Tuesday] —(AP).—Thirty-seven Japanese planes bombed the area northwest of Port Moresby today but inflicted no damage, the allied command said. Allied fliers struck back, bombing and strafing Buna, Japanese base on the northeast coast of New Guinea, and Buka Island.

There was no change in the Owen Stanley area, thru which the Japanese are trying to smash their way to Port Moresby.

Aussies Hold in Timor.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 21 (AP).—High up in the mountains of Portuguese Timor, a force of Australians well stocked with good food and tobacco is still defying the Japanese, who announced occupation of the island Feb. 19.

Reports reaching Australia say the Japanese repeatedly have sent strong searching parties into the interior after the Australians, and each time the Japanese have been ambushed and have suffered severely.

TOBRUK BOMBED BY BRITISH 7TH TIME IN 8 NIGHTS

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 21 (AP).—British medium bombers pounded the axis supply port of Tobruk last night for the seventh time in eight nights. South African light bombers attacked axis planes at a landing field in the El Daba area, causing one large fire and three smaller ones. Other objectives were hit at Matruh and on the road west of El Daba.

British fighters and bombers also were active over the battle lines yesterday, shooting down at least two enemy planes. Two other axis planes were reported shot down over Sicily by British fighters operating from Malta and schooners east of Tripoli were attacked.

Claim Four Planes Downed.

ROME, Sept. 21 [from Italian broadcasts] (AP).—German fighter planes shot down four allied planes yesterday as axis aircraft bombed and machine-gunned allied formations in the rear of the Egyptian front, the Italian high command said today. Numerous allied motor vehicles were reported set on fire.

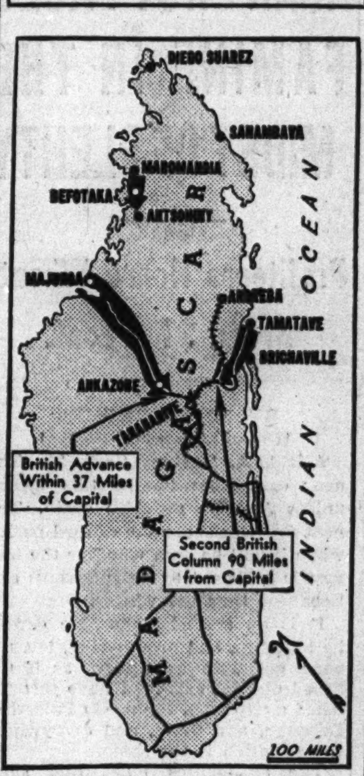
British Advance



Captions tell progress of the drives against the French in Madagascar.

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP).—British forces, hampered more by road demolitions than actual French resistance, were reported today within 37 miles of Tananarive, capital of Madagascar which the French governor general has quit for a provisional headquarters at the south of the island.

The Madagascar radio, heard at Port Louis on the British island of Mauritius, said the nearest British approach was made along the twisting road from Majunga, where the British landed on the northwest coast Sept. 10. A British communique said the troops closing in from this direction "are advancing south of Ankazobe, which was taken Sept. 19 after a short engagement." Ankazobe is 50 miles airline from the capital.

The Madagascar broadcast said a second British force pushing in from the east coast was about 90 miles from Tananarive. This was the column which occupied the road and rail junction of Brichaville, the capital's principal communications link with the east coast.

Yes, you read and hear a lot about what a fine job railroads are doing in this war.

But Pennsylvania Railroad believes in giving credit where credit is due.

How far do you think we would get without your cooperation? Help from you, the traveling public—as well as from the Government, Army and Navy, the shippers of America.

It is teamwork that will win. That is why we are taking "time out" to thank you for all you have done, and are doing, to help us meet Uncle Sam's many needs.

Let us keep that cooperation rolling!

How your cooperation enables us to do a better job for Uncle Sam!

By traveling the middle of the week—Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday—you not only make it possible for us to give you better accommodations, as travel is lighter then, but you help "spread the traffic load" more evenly.

By vacating seats promptly in Dining Cars, after your meal, waiting fellow passengers can be served more quickly. Patronage has about doubled but no new dining cars can be built until after the war, so the present supply must do.

By canceling accommodations promptly when your plans change, you release "space" to another who might not be able to travel but for your action. You also prevent waste of "space"—and waste of anything is harmful these days.

By traveling light, taking just what you need on the train and checking other luggage to destination, you help make more room for yourself and fellow passengers. And, you help us make capacity use of cars.

NEW CONFIDENCE ARISES OF ABILITY TO HOLD ROMMEL

Air Strength Grows After Failure of Axis Push.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 21 [Passed by United States military censor].—Three weeks after the axis forces started an offensive all along the line in the western desert with the obvious purpose of getting to the Nile delta, and then were forced back to their "original positions," the situation in the Egyptian war area may be described as temporarily stablized.

The allied side is exteremly active in patrol activity to get information and to cause confusion behind the enemy's lines, and it is especially active in the air, where no doubt results are being obtained.

The axis forces are reported busy consolidating their defenses and repairing tanks and other motorized material damaged in their offensive.

Attemped a Break-Thru.

Now that the offensive can be viewed in perspective, it is clear that Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel put everything he had into an attempt to break thru. The axis story is that they were only experimenting, but it is obvious that if they had found a weak point in the line they would have poured thru it.

The feeling here regarding the outcome of the operations is different from what it was a month ago, and radically different from that of two months ago. What uneasiness there was before the last attack—and it cannot be denied there was some—has vanished. Rommel's failure to dent the line—at least to keep it dented—was the last element needed to give confidence that the axis forces will never get to Cairo.

Lest any one think this confidence is another error in judgment, it should be noted the confidence is based on a number of factors, some of which are evident to any one who looks at the map.

Morale and Geography.

Perhaps the most important is morale. The British and their allies after Rommel's last advance had their backs to the wall, the position in which they fight best. They realized what loss of the Nile valley would mean to them and to the general course of the war. They fought with determination and took earnest steps to make their hold secure and avoid and correct past mistakes.

A second important factor is geographic. After their spectacular advance in midsummer the axis forces were unable to go further when they reached the bottleneck between the sea at the coastal village of El Alamein and the Qattara depression, a front less than 60 miles wide.

To a person simply viewing the map will occur the natural question: Why doesn't the enemy go thru the depression? The answer is that the word "depression" gives only a vague idea of what that geographical phenomenon is like.

Barrier Like Grand Canyon.

You might as well think of going thru the Grand Canyon. Qattara's walls in most places are sheer cliffs hundreds of feet high. Few tracks lead down to the bottom and there they go thru salt marshes in which any wheeled vehicle would get bogged. It is out of the question for tanks and armored cars to go thru it.

A surprise dash thru here is the kind of stunt which an 18th century army might have done. A modern army, supposedly so mobile in such a situation, is inferior to its predecessors. It must ponderously drag its brontosaurus armor with it—and it is exposed to the vigilant eyes of the opposing air force, which will detect the slightest sign of movement in the bottom of the depression.

Another factor in the present confidence is the systematic way in which the allied forces have taken command of the air. They are tirelessly spying out enemy movements, bombing and shooting up enemy concentrations, depots and supply lines.

Their Goal: To Avenge the Lexington

MAP THE WORLD TO PACE FLIGHT, EDUCATORS URGE

Plan Air Courses in All Schools Here.

Minneapolis is closer than San Diego, Cal., to Tokio. Geographies divide the world into the wrong two hemispheres. Flat maps are the wrong kind. The shortest distance between any two points that matter much is over the north pole. The arctic, far from being a region of terror, is a friendly place. Teachers ought to drop the "Idylls of the King" and "The Lady of the Lake" into the lake.

These are a few of the things that principals and teachers of the Chicago public high schools were told yesterday by two airminded educators at a conference in Lane Technical High school auditorium.

William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, announced at the close of yesterday's meeting that an air training program will be organized in Chicago elementary and high schools before the close of the present semester.

Urges Training Girls, Too.

The conference was sponsored by organizations which advocate preflight air training in high schools. One of the speakers, Dr. Edgar Fuller of Harvard university, urged that the training be given to both boys and girls in the high schools. He predicted that two million persons will be needed in the nation's air forces and said that no physical examination should be required of the students in high school since a large percentage of the two million will be wanted in nonflying aviation work.

The criticism of methods of teaching geography came from Dr. Ben Wood, chairman of the Institute of Aeronautical Science at Columbia university. He and Dr. Fuller both emphasized the importance of geography and better ways of teaching it in a world that has been revolutionized by aviation.

"The big fault in our geography teaching is the flat map of the eastern and western hemispheres," Dr. Wood said.

The Aeronautical View.

He showed as an improvement a polar extension map from which the student can look over the world as if from above.

Dividing the world into the eastern and western hemispheres is wrong, according to Dr. Wood, because it should be divided into the northern and southern hemispheres, the north with most of the land, and the south with most of the water.

Much international air traffic will henceforth be over the north pole, he said, because the distances are vastly shorter than around the world. By the polar route, Dr. Wood told the teachers, Tokio is closer to Minneapolis than is San Diego, and the polar route makes New York as close as Seattle to Moscow.

Dr. Wood said that stratosphere flying is much easier over the north pole than at the equator.

Dr. Wood recommended that aviation be made one of the most important high school courses, with modern geography as a vital background.

Progress of the "Fly for Navy" recruiting campaign and the army aviation cadet recruiting campaign.

SKIPPER OF LOST LEXINGTON WILL HONOR THE NEW

Quincy, Mass., Sept. 21 (AP).—Rear Adm. Frederick C. Sherman, who as commander of the USS Lexington was last to leave her as she sank in the battle of the Coral sea, will deliver the launching address when the new aircraft carrier of the same name slides down the ways.

Two other persons who were associated with the Lexington will have official rôles in the ceremonies, which will take place Saturday at the Bethlehem Steel corporation's Fore river yard, the navy announced today.

The two are Rear Adm. Wilson Brown Jr., commandant of the 1st naval district, and Mrs. Theodore Douglas Robinson of Mohawk, N. Y., who sponsored the first carrier and will christen its successor. Adm. Brown was commander of the task force with which the Lexington operated.

MARINES CHANGE THEIR TACTICS TO ENLIST RECRUITS

Abandon High Pressure System of Last War.

Marine recruiting is no longer the old "high-pressure" selling process that it used to be, with stalwart leathernecks stationed at signboards before postoffices to persuade men to join, Lieut. Col. Chester L. Fordney, Marine recruiting officer of the Chicago area, told members of the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion at the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

The Corps' modern recruiting methods, he said, follow well defined advertising principles, with appeals appearing in newspapers, magazines and over the radio. Col. Fordney said the Marine corps now numbers more than 150,000 men—about twice the number enlisted during the last war.

25 Enlist in Lexington Group.

Enlistment of the first naval air squadron from the Chicago area to be organized in tribute to the personnel of the aircraft carrier Lexington lost in the Coral Sea was announced yesterday by the naval aviation cadet selection board.

To be known as "Chicago's Lexington Squadron No. 1," the 25 youths comprise the first of a group of special units to be formed in this area during the next two weeks in line with the navy's nation-wide drive to enlist 5,000 flying cadets before the launching Saturday of the new U. S. Carrier Lexington at Quincy, Mass. Slogan for the national drive is "Avenge the Lexington."

Near Goal for Navy Cadets.

The Chicago area's own drive to recruit 2,000 flying seamen by Sept. 30 moved closer to its goal yesterday, with 1,760 accepted applicants enrolled by noon. A special recruiting drive for sailors who will be known as "Lexington Volunteers" was announced yesterday by Lieut. Comm. David N. Goldenson, in charge of navy recruiting in Chicago. A certificate will be awarded all sailors enlisted as "Lexington Volunteers," the commander said.

Her first flight in a plane was taken yesterday by Mrs. George J. Aste, 754 Buena avenue, newly appointed director of the Women's Air Army, auxiliary to the Air Force Sponsors of Chicago, civilian aids in the army's campaign to enlist 20,000 flying cadets by Jan. 1.

New Coast Guard Service.

Mrs. Aste said that seven Chicago women have accepted appointments as executive directors in the Women's Air Army.

The army's cadet recruiting drive yesterday had chalked up 10,462 accepted applicants.

The coast guard yesterday announced inauguration of a part-time service plan for civilians which will release regular officers and enlisted men for combat duty at sea. The service, the announcement said, is for "super-patriots," and it will call upon volunteer duty of one or more days a week by civilians who will serve without pay, and whose draft status will not be changed.

$2,750 BRACELET STOLEN OR LOST.

Mrs. Edward F. Schoeneck of the Georgian hotel, 422 Davis street, Evanston, reported to police yesterday that her purse, containing her $2,750 diamond and ruby set bracelet, was stolen or lost while she was shopping in the loop Friday.

HUNT CRACK NAZI BATTLESHIP ON PROWL IN ARCTIC

Major Sea Fight Expected When Tirpitz Is Found.

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP).—Word that the great German battleship Tirpitz is on the prowl along the Russian convoy route raised the possibility tonight of the first major Atlantic sea battle since the sinking of the Bismarck, the Tirpitz' sister ship, on May 27, 1941.

Unofficial reports said the Tirpitz, biggest ship in Hitler's navy, stole away from her hideaway at Trondheim, Norway, more than a week ago under cover of autumn fog and the 12 hours of darkness now prevalent in the northern seas.

There was official silence here on the question of whether the Tirpitz might have participated in the Arctic battle in which the Germans claimed their submarine and air forces sank 38 or 45 British and American merchantmen out of the biggest allied convoy ever sent to Russia.

While these Nazi claims were branded exaggerated as usual, unofficial sources expressed the belief that allied losses likely had been heavy.

New British Warships in Hunt?

In view of the disclosure yesterday by A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, that Britain's battleship losses had been made up it was possible that the royal navy had sent one or more new capital ships hunting for the Tirpitz.

Alexander's statement was interpreted as indicating that the fleet's newest battleships, the Anson and Howe, were ready for action. Both of 35,000 tons, they are considered capable of standing up to anything afloat. The Tirpitz is listed by the Germans at 35,000 tons but the British say she is 40,000 tons or more.

The Russians reported they torpedoed the Tirpitz last July 9 in the Arctic and broke up a Nazi effort to tear into a big convoy. Earlier, in March, British torpedo planes caught her off Norway and drove her back to shelter at another time when she was believed starting on a convoy hunt.

Favored by Longer Nights.

But for the most part Hitler's superbattleship kept to Trondheim fjord during the long summer days when her movements could be easily observed by British scout planes.

Now with longer hours of darkness and thicker fogs it would be easier for her to slip up the Norwegian coast and into the Arctic shipping lanes leading to Russia, or into the Atlantic.

The Tripitz was launched at Wilhelmshaven on April 1, 1939, the most costly man-'o-war in the German navy.

Claim 3 More Ships Sunk.

BERLIN, Sept. 21 [from German broadcasts] (AP).—The German high command said today that Nazi airmen hit three more ships yesterday out of a big Russia-bound American and British convoy in which it claimed previously that 38 merchant ships totaling 270,000 tons were sunk and six accompanying warships destroyed or damaged.

The Nazi war bulletin said this latest action took place in Dvinskaya bay, near the soviet port of Archangel. German planes and submarines were declared to have taken part in the running fight starting a week ago and covering hundreds of miles of Arctic waters.

VICHY REPORTS 8 KILLED IN BRITISH RAID NEAR NANCY

VICHY, France, Sept. 21 (AP).—Dispatches from Paris reported today that eight persons had been killed "in a British air raid over the Nancy region" of northeastern France.

[The British have reported no raids on the Nancy area, but the Saar region, just across the German border, was attacked Saturday night.]

Bomb Southeast England.

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP).—Two German raiders dived out of clouds this morning and dropped high explosive bombs on a residential area in a southeast coast town. An apartment building suffered a direct hit. RAF fighters set a German anti-aircraft ship afire off the Dutch coast.

There was no indication that the RAF was over Germany again last night after Saturday's big raids on Munich and the Saar and British sources said that unsuitable weather over the continent presumably had limited operations to patrols. No German activity was reported over Britain during the night.

Tirpitz Reported at Sea Again

The German battleship Tirpitz was reported yesterday to have left her refuge at Trondheim (A), Norway and to be searching for allied convoys in the Arctic. Map shows allied convoy route to Russia. Berlin claimed German airmen had hit three more ships near Archangel out of a convoy in which it claimed previously 38 freighters were sunk by planes and submarines and six warships destroyed or damaged.

ITALIAN COUNT IS SEIZED IN RIO AS RADIO SHIP SPY

Admits Sending Data on Queen Mary.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 21 (AP).—The Italian Count Edmondo Di Robilant, dashing official of the Italian Lati airline, has confessed after weeks of inquiry that he operated an espionage ring which has been telling the axis about ship movements in the South Atlantic, police announced today.

Count Edmondo Di Robilant.

Di Robilant and a number of other persons were under arrest, and police hinted their inquiries promise to uncover other details of extensive activities of spies in South America.

The 41-year-old count confessed, police said, that he operated a radio transmitter which communicated with Rome. One of the most sensational reports it sent out was the vital news that the British transport Queen Mary, former luxury liner, touched this port several months ago.

[The Rome radio on last March 14 quoted Argentine circles as saying the Queen Mary had been damaged by axis action off the Falkland Islands while she was carrying troops. There was no allied confirmation.]

Wed American Woman.

Di Robilant, who once was an aid to the late Gen. Italo Balbo, famous Italian flyer, was married on Sept. 29, 1931, to Mrs. Helen Westervelt Wilson, a native of Salt Lake City, Mayor James J. Walker officiated at the ceremony in New York's city hall. The former Mrs. Wilson's family is reported to be living in Goshen, N. Y.

The police report said Di Robilant acted in Brazil under instructions of the Italian naval commander, Enzo Di Vicino, who directed that a radio sender be established.

Transmitter Found.

Di Robilant persuaded an Italian technician, Amleto Albieri, to set up a station at Jacarepagua, in Rio de Janeiro state. From the outside the plant presented the innocent appearance of a rabbit and guinea pig farm.

After each transmission Albieri hid the radio apparatus in an iron box and buried it.

This transmitter was found Sept. 9, a day after police had seized another sender in the attic of the house occupied by Albieri in Rio.

The police said the Italian Guido Corti, representing Commander Di Vicino, paid Di Robilant ten contos [$500] monthly, half of which went to Albieri. In Corti's home authorities found 109 contos [$5,450] in Brazilian money and $102 in United States money.

2 ALLIED SHIPS SUB VICTIMS IN NORTH ATLANTIC

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP).—The navy announced today that submarines had torpedoed a United States ship in the north Atlantic in July and a British vessel in the north Atlantic in March. Survivors of both have been landed at an east coast port.

Sixteen men from the British ship died of exposure during four days in a lifeboat, naval officials disclosed. Twenty-seven men were lost in the attack, and 10 survivors reached port.

Aboard the vessel were 16 survivors of another ship, the navy said.

Thirty-eight survivors of the United States ship reached port. The crew spent eight days in lifeboats, and one man died after landing.

The German high command previously had announced this vessel as sunk in an Arctic convoy.

HEMINGWAY MUM ON WAR UNTIL HE TAKES PART IN IT

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 21 (AP).—Ernest Hemingway, the novelist, disclosed today he is planning to go to war. At his farm home near Havana, Hemingway told a reporter who asked him to talk about the war:

"I'll talk about that when I get back from it, if I come out alive from this struggle for the liberty and the dignity of man.

"I am and always have been a soldier. For that reason I prefer action to talking about the war."

EXECUTION TOLL IN NAZI EUROPE REACHES 207,000

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP).—The known number of executions carried out by the Germans in conquered Europe is now 207,373, the inter-allied information committee reported tonight. Included in the growing list were 116 Frenchmen put to death last week, making the known total of executions in France and North Africa 1,866.

The Polish government in exile reported 200,000 persons executed in Poland since the German invasion three years ago. In old Czecho-Slovakia 1,756 have been slain since the assassination last May of Reinhard Heydrich, and thousands of others have died as the result of Nazi treatment.

Other reports by exiled governments were: Greece and Crete, 3,080 slain plus several thousand others killed by the Bulgarians in Macedonia; Belgium, 130 executed for sabotage or as hostages; Netherlands, 200 executed; Norway, 106 shot and "thousands" dead of ill treatment; Jugo-Slavia, "over 5,000" shot by the Germans in September and November, 1941; Luxembourg, four persons executed.

NAZI ARMY TELLS HORRORS OF FIGHT FOR STALINGRAD

Soldier Writers Say Reds Use Boiling Oil.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 21.—Under a hail of Nazi bombs and from smoke blackened ruins the stubborn defenders of Stalingrad are reported tonight by German Propaganda Kompanie [P. K.] front line reporters to have brought into play the medieval use of boiling oil to supplement the efforts of their latest model tanks.

Complaining of this "grotesque" method of answering an invader one German army reporter said it has become "rather general." He drew none of the potential conclusions regarding the Russian reserves of that precious product if they have enough to "waste" to "fry their enemies," as he so delicately puts it.

Call Reds "Unorthodox."

Other "complaints" of the soldier correspondents refer to the "unorthodox" manner in which the Russians are defending their positions. Principal among these, one reporter said, is the "seemingly artless withdrawals of the Russians from some positions before our heavy pressure . . .. After our troops have advanced to a certain depth into a new sector of the city they suddenly discover themselves surrounded by 'hellions,' who ask and give no quarter."

"While the fall of Stalingrad cannot be expected for the next few minutes in view of the Russians' increasing stubbornness," a P. K. reporter said, "it must be remembered that our troops are doing their utmost in advancing wherever they can.

"Our infantry presses forward relentlessly, often without rest or sleep for days on end. Sleeping in the open to be ready for orders, it endures inconceivable hardships. It is all part of the war game. Our ranks have thinned out and this dry brown earth of the steppes covers many an unknown German hero who died for Germany in this vast and distant solitude.

"Death has lost its terrors for the German infantryman. He accepts it on these long marches as a comrade in his ranks."

Tells of Attack on Airport.

The attack on the Stalingrad airport was described thus by a P. K. correspondent:

"In front of us on a slight elevation lies the airport of Stalingrad. The runways have been plowed up by German shells. Now our bombs are raining down on its barracks and the aviators' school from which the Russians are still bombing us. The city is literally emitting heavy pillars of black smoke, while intermittently huge flames flash, illuminate the scene of destruction. It all seems so close at hand and still we are not yet there."

Another correspondent who has taken part in seven assaults on the city, reported the fighting as follows:

"It is a veritable hell, this medley of crashing shells of all calibers. Showers of blind dirt spurt up as shells bury themselves in the earth but thru it all our infantry presses forward—tenaciously, coolly indifferent to death, which is ever present.

Army Differs with Goebbels.

"The stench of rotting bodies mingles with the fury of noises and a wounded Russian cavalry pony on the wayside is struggling to get on his feet—an unforgettable picture of mute helplessness in this abysmal drama of uprooting war."

Meanwhile, the losses suffered by the German army in storming the city have been the occasion of another "misunderstanding" between the services of Dr. Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, and the army. The "misunderstanding" threatens to assume gigantic proportions as the high command, disdaining further concealment, stresses its losses, while Dr. Goebbels' agencies term them "moderate."

Apparently the high command fears that the rank and file—if it ever gets to learn from its press—will resent this cavalier treatment.

NEGRO RED CROSS AIDS JOIN AEF; ONE IS CHICAGOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The first Negro Red Cross workers to serve with American troops in the European theater of operations arrived in London today. They were three smartly dressed young women and two men who will staff and supervise a Red Cross club for colored soldiers in a south England city.

These newest arrivals were Miss Henryne Ward of Chicago, Miss Magnolia Lattimer of Minneapolis, Minn.; Miss Gladys Martin of Topeka, Kas., and William E. Temple and Milton C. Larry, both of Washington, D. C. All are trained social service workers.

More colored workers are expected soon and within three weeks a second club will be opened in another city near other colored troops. The Misses Ward, Lattimer and Martin are the first colored women to be assigned to work with American Negro troops in Great Britain.

BERLIN FUMES AS REDS IN SWEDEN WIN IN ELECTION

Nazis Lose Their Only Five Seats.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 21 (AP).—Swedish Nazis lost their only five seats and Communists won 39, a gain of 17, in nation-wide town and country council elections yesterday, a tabulation of returns showed tonight.

The dominant Social Democratic party lost 34 seats in the rickadag, but still maintained its overwhelming majority with a total of 829. Conservatives were next with 266, losing 15; the Farmers' party 212, a gain of 36, and the Liberals 170, an increase of seven.

OUTBURSTS FROM BERLIN.

The Germans pounced upon the Swedish elections as a cue for the most violent outburst yet in their current propaganda campaign against Sweden, which the Nazi foreign office has called "the Communist center of Europe."

"The increase in the number of Communist mandates deserves, in the opinion of local political circles, to be looked upon from the European point of view," the Berlin radio asserted. "This development will have to be carefully watched by European powers fighting against the common bolshevist enemy."

The Berlin broadcast accused the Swedish Conservative press of trying to "disguise" the Communist gains, but added it still was the conviction of the Nazi foreign office that "bolshevism" has been able to establish new bases in Sweden and tries to consolidate them by all means."

May Be Planning Attack.

There could be one of any number of reasons why the Germans have directed their propaganda guns at the last remaining Scandinavian neutral. It would appear to Hitler's advantage for Sweden to stay neutral. She virtually is cut off from the rest of the world by the German occupation of Norway, and her mines provide the German war machine with vital iron ore.

But it could be that Hitler is preparing for an attack and is using the bolshevik bogie as an excuse. Or he could be roused by the fear that Sweden might be the center of hostilities originating from some other quarter.

Whatever happens, Sweden is going ahead building an army which now numbers 600,000, and is conducting vast military maneuvers, including practice against theoretical enemy landings on the southern coast, across the Baltic from Germany.

SLUGGED IN ROBBERY ATTEMPT.

AIRPORT TRACK FUND GETS O. K. FROM HIGH COURT

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday reversed a Circuit court decision which held illegal an $800,000 appropriation for relocation of railroad tracks at Chicago airport, and remanded the case with directions that the Circuit court overrule objections to the appropriation filed by Howard Ames.

The $800,000 was voted by the city council Oct. 26, 1938, but immediately was enveloped in legal tangles. The funds were to increase the size of the airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue by removing the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad tracks from the field to a new site. Removal of the tracks began April 30, 1941.

The court upheld a Circuit court ruling by Judge Harry Fisher permanently restraining the state from collecting the retailers occupational [sales] tax from building contractors and material dealers and held those businesses are entitled to tax refunds. It remanded the case, however, for further hearings to determine whether tax refunds are due.

The injunction in this case was won by the Material Service corporation. It was carried to the high court by Attorney General George Barrett.

The court affirmed a Will county Circuit court decision holding Hugo Mattei guilty of violating the medical practice act and upheld an Edgar County court decision dismissing a suit challenging an $820,000 bond issue for acquisition of a municipal power plant at Paris.

WILLKIE IS JUST ANOTHER TOURIST TO THE RUSSIANS

Gets Two Paragraphs in Press on Arrival.

BY EDDY GILMORE.

MOSCOW, Sept. 21 (AP).—There's a considerable difference between Wendell L. Willkie in Moscow and Willkie in London.

When he went to Britain in January, 1941, there was much the same scene as there was upon his arrival in the soviet capital yesterday, but from then on things changed.

Newsreels cranked at both places and government officials were present.

But King George greeted Willkie in London. Neither Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov nor President Michael Kalinin nor Premier Josef Stalin met him here.

In London Willkie put up at one of the most fashionable hotels. Here he's staying at the soviet guest house.

They Feed Him Well.

His first meal was a beauty—caviar, chicken, lamb, vodka, cognac, two plates heaped with fruit. Rationing didn't prevail.

Pravda, the communist newspaper, didn't awaken him in the middle of the night asking him to write a series. The government journal Izvestia didn't send a representative requesting an exclusive story; no lady reporters asked him what he thought of Russian women.

He got up bright and early this morning and walked out the front door. There was no crowd outside. He walked alone, except for bodyguards. People stared because of his foreign clothes and his bodyguards, but nobody knew who he was.

Barred at the Kremlin.

He stopped before Lenin's tomb, but was told it was closed for the day. He walked past the Kremlin, but didn't go in. There was a man at the entrance with gun and bayonet.

Later he went into a bookstore, but did not attract as much attention as a new booklet just placed on sale.

Only one paper was published here today. It didn't have a picture of Willkie, but gave a couple of paragraphs to his arrival.

Willkie said he hoped to have a long, frank talk with Stalin, because "I understand he is a man who likes frankness and I like frankness too."

He planned to deliver to Stalin a written message from President Roosevelt.

Tours Factories.

Before coming here Willkie toured Russian factories and collective farms.

"We all pride ourselves on little things of life," he asserted. "I pride myself on the thought that I know how to ask questions. I asked plenty, and I found nothing to indicate there is the slightest letdown."

Noting how often he has been asked about a second front, Willkie said: "They think that is the kind of aid they are entitled to. The second front has become almost like a symbol to them."

SOURDOUGHS JOIN GUERRILLA UNIT TO SAVE ALASKA

Members Limited to Klondike Vets.

JUNEAU, Alaska, Sept. 21 (AP).—Alaska's sourdoughs are being organized as fighting guerrillas to defend their homeland.

Gov. Ernest Gruening described the new organization as "a fighting, shooting outfit that will play the same part in Alaska that the minute men of '76 played in our war of independence."

To become a member of Gruening's guerrillas, an Alaskan must know how to shoot, be exempt from the draft, and should know the north country from living off the land on at least one prospecting or trapping trip alone.

They constitute the new Alaska territorial guard, authorized by congress.

Will Fight Invasion.

Altho technically they aren't guerrillas, Adjt. Gen. Jay Williams of Juneau says they will be trained to carry on guerrilla warfare. Each unit will be drilled to cope with conditions peculiar to the terrain.

They will be called to meet any invasion attempt in their own communities, Gen. Williams said, and in emergencies will fight along with members of the regular army.

Most of them are old time Alaskans and many furnish their own rifles, altho the war department issued uniforms and rifles.

"Bulwark Against Attack."

"For the first time in history Alaska is a vital combat zone," commented Gov. Gruening, who is on an organization trip thru the territory. "Alaska looms up increasingly as the key to the strategy of the Pacific, as the bulwark for our entire hemisphere against attack from the west, and we hope soon it will loom as the great spearhead of our attack against Japan."

The governor said formation of the fighting civilian organization grew from a "desire for the closest coöperation in our common effort for the all-out defense of Alaska."

JUGO-SLAV REBELS SHOOT 300, DOWN SIX AXIS PLANES

MOSCOW, Sept. 21 (AP).—Jugo-Slav patriots, carrying on guerrilla warfare against the Italian army of occupation, have killed or wounded 300 of Mussolini's soldiers in the last few days near Banjaluka, 150 miles west of Belgrade, the Soviet Information bureau reported today.

The guerrillas also captured an axis ammunition train bearing 250,000 cartridges and many hand grenades and shells, the bureau said.

It added that in the last two weeks Jugo-Slav machine gunners and riflemen brought down six axis planes.

DESCRIBES LIFE IN CORREGIDOR'S TUNNEL HOSPITAL

Nurse Writes of Hunger and Hopes of Aid.

supervisor tonight. What difference does it make?

* *

[Diary entry for Jan. 8 deleted by censor.]

* *

Jan. 11—Feel badly today. Chaplain Brown came over from Bataan. Said he was with my darling when he died. They wouldn't let him tell me. I really had intended to use this little book to jot down episodes of the war, but it is always Glen I am thinking of. . . . One of the radio wires was cut outside the tunnel at midnight. The guards combed the area and found nothing.

* *

"Help on Way."

Jan. 16—"Help is on its way." So the bulletin reads today. The boys are doing nobly in Bataan.

* *

Jan. 18—Rumors, rumors, and more rumors. No official news of importance. Our lines are holding in Bataan.

* *

Jan. 19—People appear to be a little more depressed. Wouldn't it be wonderful to hear from home? Or wear a dress again? I am so tired of these army shirts and skirts.

I heard a rumor that more of us are going to Bataan. It would be a welcome change. Life in the tunnel is safe, physically, but it is so very lonesome, no matter how many are around. How long will we be here? . . . We can hear the artillery fire over Bataan. Those poor boys—fighting, dying, killing, suffering—[Thirteen words deleted by censor].

* *

Jan. 20—Nothing much to report. It is unwise to write of the events of actual warfare. . . . They tell us the general morale is much higher at Bataan than here on the Rock. One boy wrote that his men at Bataan are eating monkeys they catch in the hills. A commanding officer of the 26th cavalry killed a horse for his men. After all the carabao [water buffalo] are used up for food, dog meat will be used. . . . We fear for Singapore. The Japs are said to be 50 miles from there.

* *

Get Two Meals Daily.

Jan. 21—No more coffee. Last of supply was had at noon. Late today we boldly ventured forth and drove around what once was our beautiful island. Went up to the library and found nothing but débris. Buildings are splinters with only steel rafters standing. Later we drove to Kingsley field and saw a few camouflaged planes and machine gun nests. Took a walk to the area that formerly was the barrio [village] and stopped at the bakery, thinking we might get a dhobie cookie or two. We didn't. O, but I'm hungry. We're on two meals a day now, the first at 7 a. m., the second at 3:30. Most of us fix a little jelly sandwich and carry it with us until bedtime. . . . The poor bed patients. They haven't seen daylight since the 28th.

* *

Jan. 23—No Japs. . . . The navy boys come back occasionally with tales of their efforts. Bob Kelley [Lieut. Robert K. Kelley, who was awarded the navy cross] did some nice work with a mosquito boat. . . . My hour on my private little rock by the sea, where I try and get an hour's rest every day, ended noisily today. Watched three Jap dive bombers bomb the flying field at Cabcaben. Anti-aircraft was active, but the enemy escaped and came back and bombed again. We were sorry not to see one of our guns make a direct hit. . . . Firing on the front lines can be heard tonight. Wonder what is going on over there.

* *

Mail Is Wild Rumor.

Jan. 30—Wildest rumor of the day: The Republic has arrived with 2,000 bags of mail. Some people actually believed that story. . . . The Japs are now 30 miles from Singapore.

* *

Feb. 1—Tonight from my private little rock by the sea I watched our five P-40's take off from Cabcaben. Less than 15 minutes later the Japs bombed it. Anti-aircraft was active, but I didn't see any more bombs falling. . . . The Japs are now 13 miles from Singapore.

* *

Feb. 2—The Japs are now about on Singapore. . . . Many rumors today. One is that the navy is about to retake Wake. We are all terribly hungry. I still am losing weight. I weighed 127 pounds on Dec. 7. I weighed 110 on Jan. 7. I can't possibly weigh 100 now.

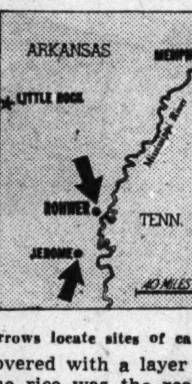
WEST'S JAPS FIND ARKANSAS ODD—AND VICE VERSA

Early Arrivals Work to Complete Camps.

Rohwer, Ark., Sept. 21 [Wide World].—The former Golden Gloves lightweight champion of Stockton, Cal., banged a kitchen ladle against a dishpan and shouted: "Fish and rice! Come and get it!"



Arrows locate sites of camps.

The "fish" were hot dogs, split down the middle and covered with a layer of cabbage, but the rice was the real stuff, piled in huge individual helpings.

The boxer, Ralph Tsutsui, and his 248 fellow Japanese-Americans from the Pacific coast made quick work of the noon meal.

Prepare Place for Others.

They were the first of some 20,000 of their race to be moved to Arkansas by the War Relocation authority, and they were readying the bare but efficient accommodations for the others scheduled to begin arriving this week.

An almost identical camp is being completed at Jerome, 35 miles south of here. Each colony takes in some 10,000 acres and will be occupied by 10,000 evacuees.

First arrivals were volunteers from the Stockton center, where thousands of the west coast Japanese have been housed temporarily pending completion of 10 inland relocation centers.

The pioneers were cheerful but a bit bewildered by the climate and the curiosity of the natives.

Many of the local people never had seen a Japanese, and were almost as bewildered as the new arrivals.

Report Japs Will Harvest Beets.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP).—Sen. George W. Norris [Ind., Neb.] said today he was informed that Japanese being transported from a California camp to a permanent location in Arkansas would be rerouted to work in western sugar beet harvests. They will continue to Arkansas later.

REPORT DISEASE CRACKS GERMAN 'HEALTH FRONT'

New York, Sept. 21 (AP).—War conditions in Germany have created a health situation which is threatening calamity, trustworthy dispatches reaching the United States said today.

A shortage of doctors, equipment, and medicines, the strain of war, deficiencies in diet, an influx of foreign workers of uncertain health, and return of soldiers from the battlefields where they have come into contact with disease and vermin, were said to be creating a serious problem for Germany.

Reports from Germany thru neutral channels said Nazi medical circles were alarmed by the number of cases of dysentery, tuberculosis, physical exhaustion, and spotted typhus,

Surgeons were said now to prefer amputation of seriously injured legs and arms rather than risk infection from poor quality bandages and limited disinfectants during a long treatment.

Stimson Is 75; Gives No Indication He'll Retire

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP).—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson became 75 years old today. If he had any thought of retiring, to turn over to a younger man the task of directing the war department's vast activities, and supervising the expansion of an army already grown to 4 million or more, he gave no indication of it.

Report French Admiral Hurt in Bicycle Accident

VICHY, France, Sept. 21 (AP).—Adm. Charles Richard, who commanded the French fleet in the battle with the British at Mers-El-Kebir in July, 1940, was seriously injured recently in a bicycle accident in Brittany, Paris newspapers reported today. The admiral, 62 years old, suffered a fractured skull.

LEARN NAZIS PUT 4 NEW PLANES ON QUANTITY BASIS

3 of Fighters Fly Above Anti-Aircraft Fire.

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP).—Qualified British observers said today that the appearance of four new German high performance warplanes on the world's battlefronts in the last few weeks indicated that Reichsmarshal Goering had achieved a major retooling "swap over" in the German aircraft industry.

They said the use of the new model fighters and bombers in battle showed that they were in mass production despite the opinions expressed by some air experts that the Germans would be unable to make major changes in models during the heat of the Russian campaign.

The latest German fighter was reported by the Russians yesterday to have made its appearance in action on the Russian front. It is the Messerschmitt 109-G, described as a high altitude, partly armored plane with a liquid cooled 1,700 horse power engine.

Already an Improved Model.

Experts here said such a plane would be a formidable addition to the Nazi air force's vaunted Focke-Wulf 190, already reported followed up by an improved model.

It has been confirmed that the Germans have used a new Heinkel 177 four motor, two propeller heavy bomber over Britain recently.

Unofficial sources have reported the appearance, also, of a pressure cabin Junkers 86-P bomber reconnaissance plane with a ceiling above 40,000 feet.

Regarded as a significant feature common to the JU-86-P, the new FW-190 and the ME-109-G was the fact that they all were reported capable of operating above 35,000 feet—out of anti-aircraft range.

Bombs from 23,000 Feet.

Sources here said the Heinkel 177 can operate at about 23,000 feet on bombing missions, and that this was about the height from which the Flying Fortresses of the United States army air forces bombed German held territory in Europe successfully by daylight.

Against the new model German fighters the United States army air forces have to offer the Republic Thunderbolt and the Lockheed P-38 Lightning, both up to now untried in this theater of the war. Despite the new model German motors, air experts here said that neither the ME-109-G nor the FW-190 touches the power of the Thunderbolt's 2,000 horse power aircooled engine.

British Spitfires still claim control of the air over the invasion coast, and the RAF has unannounced new models of its own.

2 DEAD, 18 HURT IN EXPLOSION AT FLYING SCHOOL

Coleman, Tex., Sept. 21 (AP).—Two persons were killed and 18 others injured today in an explosion which demolished the administration building of the Coleman flying school.

No official reason was immediately announced as to the cause.

The dead were George Kneit, Austin, Tex., office manager for the Odom Construction company, and Mrs. Arch Yarbro, about 25 years old, office manager for the civilian operator of the school.

CHINATOWN FETE TO HAVE DRAGON MADE IN CHICAGO

The 130 foot dragon required for the Festival of the Dragon, Oct. 9, 10, and 11, in Chicago's Chinatown, will be made in Chicago. James Moy, festival chairman, said one was ordered from Hongkong almost a year ago, but the committee never learned whether it was finished before the Japs captured that city.

There will also be a 60 foot dragon, two 12 foot elephants whose ears flap and trunks move mechanically, and a camel of similar height in the festival. All are being built by the Modern Art Studios, 1201 Madison street.

The main section of the festival will be held on 22d place, between Wentworth and Princeton avenues. Proceeds will go to the Chinese Emergency Relief society.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—THAT WOULD CONFUSE CONFUCIUS

12 NEGRO CHIEFS SEIZED BY FBI IN SEDITION RAIDS

Arrest 68 Others for Draft Evasion.

Arrest of more than 80 Negroes, members and leaders of three organizations, on charges of sedition, conspiracy, and violation of the draft laws, was announced yesterday by the Federal Bureau of Investigation here.

Twelve of those arrested are considered leaders in the groups. They were charged with sedition and "conspiracy to promote the success of the enemy, making false statements to those about to be inducted into the armed forces, disrupting morale and causing mutiny."

The members, exclusive of those named as leaders of the three groups, have been charged with violations of the draft act.

Flamboyant Claims.

According to Albert Johnson, Chicago FBI chief, the three organizations are known as the "Peace Movement of Ethiopia," which boasts membership of 4 million Negroes in 46 states; the "Brotherhood of Liberty for Black People of America," and an organization known as "The Temple of Islam."

Heading the "Peace Movement" is a woman known as Mme. Mittie Maud Lena Gordon, a Louisiana Negro, 53 years old, who calls herself the president general. Arrested and charged with her as principals in the group are her husband, William, 4451 South State street; Seon Jones, chairman of a main chapter, 3511 Wabash avenue, and David Logan, 1444 Filmore street, a "personal representative."

Choose Fancy "Aliases."

Leading the "Brotherhood" group, according to the FBI, is Stokely Delmar Hart, 3801 South State street. Others arrested with him as principals are Charles Newby, alias Father Divine Naassam, 5715 Indiana avenue, who is organizer of the Colored American National organization; a Mrs. A. Moore, 5339 Indiana avenue, secretary of the Brotherhood of Liberty; F. H. Hammurabi Robb, 3653 Michigan avenue, a director of the World Wide Friends of Africa, and James Graves, vice president of the Brotherhood.

Elijah Poole, who calls himself Elijah Mohammed, was arrested at 6026 Vernon avenue, under his mother's bed and wrapped in a carpet. The "temple" is at 104 East 51st street. Elijah is also known as Elijah Muck Muhd and as "The Prophet." Arrested as his aid was Lenzie Karien, 6117 Rhodes avenue, "minister" of the group.

Elijah, "the prophet," said his real name is Gulam Bogans when he was arraigned with Karien. Both pleaded not guilty and were held in bonds of $10,000 for a hearing Sept. 30. William J. Connor and John Kelly, assistant United States attorneys, said that both advocated an alliance with Japan.

The bonds of the others charged with sedition were fixed at $5,000 and $10,000 and their cases set for hearing on Oct. 6 and 7. Thirty-one of those arrested charged with evading the draft law were held to the grand jury in bonds of $5,000. Most of them pleaded guilty to failing to register. The rest will be arraigned today.

Several, who pleaded not guilty, said that they did not register because they were not citizens. They admitted, however, that they were born in this country.

Sing Hitler's Praises.

Among the statements attributed by the federal men to various of the leaders arrested were "God bless Hitler!", "the American government is heading for a fall," that "our prayers were answered by the bombing of Pearl Harbor," and "Tojo will be the savior for American Negroes."

Another remark quoted from a speech by one of the 12 was that "on Dec. 7 1 billion black people struck for freedom."

Johnson said that no definite connection had been found by his men between the Negro organizations and Japanese activities in this country.

UPHOLD VIERECK CONVICTION ON 'AGENT' CHARGE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP).—The federal circuit court of appeals today upheld the conviction of George Sylvester Viereck, New York publicist, on a charge of failing to report fully to the state department his activities as an alleged Nazi agent.

The court noted that Viereck did not attack the sufficiency of the evidence against him, which it said was strong, but only the trial court's rulings on questions of law, and it upheld the lower court's interpretations.

Viereck was sentenced to two to six years and fined $1,500 and costs. He faces trial soon on another indictment charging him and others with conspiring to undermine the morale of the armed forces.

WOMAN DENIES SEDITIOUS TALK; HELD FOR TRIAL

Mrs. Margaret Remus Drossell, 35 years old, 1516 Augusta boulevard, was held for Oct. 2 hearing yesterday by United States Commissioner E. K. Walker on a charge of seditious speech.

Police said she told a soldier in a northwest side saloon: "American mothers are crazy to send their kids overseas to be killed."

Mrs. Drossell denied the charge and was sent to jail in failure of $2,500 bonds set by Commissioner Walker.

LEGION DEMANDS ARMED TRAINING FOR ALL YOUTHS

Urges Post-War Course of One Year.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 21.—The American Legion today adjourned its national convention—the first ever held in wartime and probably the most important in the organization's 24 year history. In its closing sessions the Legion:

1. Passed by an overwhelming vote a resolution demanding one year's compulsory military service for all youths under 22 years old. Also urged conscription of both man power and industry for war production and lowering of draft age to 18 years.

2. Elected as national commander Roane Waring of Memphis, Tenn., who pledged full wartime support to the government, but made it clear the Legion would not become a rubber stamp for the administration.

3. Heard Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production board, warn that the American standard of living must be reduced drastically and that civilian economy may soon be upset to a greater degree even than the British, but was given the assurance that there will be no food shortage in this country during the war.

4. Took a resolute stand against any legislation that may seek to bring back prohibition nationally, locally, or in any guise whatsoever.

Committee Urges Training.

The universal service resolution was part of the national defense committee's report, presented by Chairman Warren H. Atherton, Stockton, Cal., who has been agreed upon as national commander for 1943-'44.

The document asserted that military training would reduce unemployment and crime, increase loyalty to country, improve public health, that it is the best hope of preventing future wars, and would have prevented or materially shortened World Wars I. and II. The service program should be put into operation immediately after cessation of present hostilities, the Legion urged.

Waring's Election Colorful.

Waring's elevation to the Legion command precipitated the most colorful scenes of the convention. When it became obvious during the roll call of states that Waring was elected, delegations swarmed to the stage bearing their placards and state banners and halted the voting. The convention then made the election unanimous.

As Waring stepped forward with his wife, Grace, and two daughters, a hilarious delegate from Hawaii flung a large pink lei around his neck. Another took the scarlet overseas cap of office from the retiring national commander, Lynn U. Stambaugh, Fargo, N. D., and put it on the new commander's head. Still wearing these, Waring delivered his speech of acceptance.

"In this war the country is looking to the Legion as never before for leadership, counsel, and guidance," he said. "We accept these responsibilities and stand with our full support behind the government, but at the same time we will speak and act constructively in the protection of human liberties and to the end that the government continue to function along constitutional lines.

Warns Those Impeding Effort.

"And I have a warning for any man or group, whether it be labor, squabbling over jurisdictional disputes, or politicians, juggling and waiting for election day. Any group that slows down war production and threatens the security of this nation and prevents the regular movement of supplies and equipment to our soldiers, who, without these supplies, will die—that group is made up of saboteurs and traitors and should be dealt with as such without mercy."

Waring, who is 60 years old, is president and general counsel of the Memphis Street Railway. In the World war, he commanded the 2d Tennessee infantry of the 30th division and later, as a colonel, was assigned as assistant chief of staff, G-3, of the 33d division and saw action in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne battles.

The convention also elected five national vice commanders: John T. Batton, Birmingham, Ala.; Jefferson Davis Atwood, Roswell, N. M.; Arthur J. Connell, Middleton, Conn.; Fred G. Fraser, District of Columbia, and Herman Lark, Steelville, Mo. The Rev. Paul Mortimer, Methodist clergyman of Pocatello, Idaho, was chosen to succeed Father Frederick J. Halloran of Trenton, N. J., as national chaplain. Mrs. Alfred J. Mathebat of Alameda, Cal., was elected head of the Legion auxiliary.

Award Medal to MacArthur.

Thundering cheers that traveled by short wave radio to Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Australia marked presentation to MacArthur of the Legion's distinguished service medal. At the general's request, the medal was accepted in his behalf by Maj. Gen. James A. Ulio, adjutant general of the army. In making the presentation, National Commander Stambaugh said:

"This medal is a simple object, Gen. MacArthur; a ribbon, a medal in blue and gold with the insignia of the American Legion and a bar, bearing the legend; 'For Distinguished Service.' A simple thing, but you will be one of only 12 men in the world entitled to wear it. A simple thing, but it carries the feeling of a million and more Legionnaires."

"In accepting this medal," responded Gen. Ulio, "I am authorized to say to you in Gen. MacArthur's name: 'Carry on. With all the strength and courage that have made and shall preserve America—carry on.'"

Nelson Calls for Sacrifice.

Nelson acknowledged that is is only natural that Americans should want to hold the comforts they have won, the incomes they have achieved, and the business advantages they have built thru the years.

"It is our right as free American citizens to stand up for these interests of ours," he said. "But remember, if we lose this war we lose everything. We can't expect to protect these interests while we're fighting.

"All we can ask is that we fight and win. Then we can exercise our rights again as free men. I emphasize that to farmers, labor, business, and professional groups. Your country's needs come first and the needs of your group come second.

"That means sacrifice. . . . We have hardly begun to feel the pinch. We are going to feel it very acutely before we are a year older. It is my considered opinion that we are going to have to cut more deeply into our civilian economy than even the British people have done so far—with the single exception of food.

No Restrictions on Food.

"We are going to have plenty to eat thruout this war, and we probably will not have to put any drastic limitations on our range of choice in that regard; but in almost every other respect we are going to have to be ready to do without, and do without, and do without—until this war is won.

"We haven't felt the pinch yet because our shelves were full," he concluded. "So far we have been living on our fat. Believe me, we aren't going to have another ounce of fat left in another year. We'll be down to bone and muscle, because we have to get down to bone and muscle to win."

Makes Other Recommendations.

The national defense resolution which contained the universal service proposal also made a number of recommendations concerning the army, navy, and military and civil aeronautics. The Legion urged that all future geographic limits on movements of the nation's armed forces be removed; that the military take over the air raid warning service, and that women physicians be commissioned into the medical corps.

Expansion of American flag air transport internationally was advocated as was construction of dirigibles—such as the ill-fated Akron and Macon—to serve as "air ship aircraft carriers." The convention approved a plan just accepted by the navy which provides navy-Legion collaboration in obtaining enlistments of seamen. The Legion also advocated keeping navy, marine corps, and coast guard enlistment on a voluntary basis.

Annual Awards Made.

Tho there were no contests at the 1942 convention there were the annual awards for records made during the year. The Harold A. Taylor post No. 47, Chicago, was awarded the A. A. Mitten trophy for winning the Legion Junior Rifle match and the National Gallery trophy for winning the Sons of American Legion 50 foot gallery match.

The department of Illinois was awarded the National Service trophy for exceiling in welfare work among World War I. veterans.

Charges of impersonating federal agents against four Evanston young men were dismissed yesterday when the defendants were arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. Mary D. Bailey, assistant United States attorney, said that the government was dismissing the charges on recommendation of the attorney general.

The four young men are James Conway Ringling, 16 years old, 1200 Forest avenue; John Kirby Roche, 16, of 1315 Lake street; Joseph Knox Sparrow, 17, of 1214 Forest avenue, and Eugene Glass, 18, of 1422 Wesley avenue.

They were arrested six weeks ago when they are alleged to have called the New Trier High school, represented themselves as FBI agents, and obtained the names of girls seeking employment. They pleaded not guilty when arraigned.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department will answer questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries.]

Mrs. R. T. asks: "My husband has just joined the navy. Friends have told me that because we were married after Dec. 7, he will not be able to file an application for an allowance for me. Is that true?"

ANSWER: No. The date of your marriage would not affect your eligibility for benefits under the service men's dependents bill.

M. M. writes: "My fiancé is in the army. He hopes to have a furlough in a very short time and we plan to be married when he comes home. I have been told that he must get permission from his commanding officer in order to be married. He hasn't mentioned it, and I wonder if it is really necessary."

ANSWER: Yes. The chaplain at the camp at which he is stationed can advise him on obtaining such permission.

G. M. writes: "Why is it that friends of mine have already received allotment checks even tho their husbands have been in the army a shorter time than mine, and I have received none? I understood that the wives of men who had been in the army for the longest period would be the first to receive checks. Would you advise me to write to Washington?"

ANSWER: Length of service does not guarantee prompt payment of allotments. The service men's dependents bill has been in effect only since June. If your husband filed an application and he is in one of the four lower grades you will receive your check, and it will consist of any funds which have accumulated. Don't write to Washington — write to your husband and ask if he filed an application, and forward documentary proof of your marriage to him.

Mrs. M. N. G. writes: "My only son is in the navy. I have a mortgage on my home and owe a large doctor's bill. I am 60 years old and it is hard for me to find work on account of my age. Could I get a government allowance?

ANSWER: If your son contributed to your support prior to his entry into service, you would be eligible for benefits if your son is in one of the four lowest pay grades in the navy. Write to him and ask him to make out an application for you. If you are not able to get in touch with him, or are in emergent need, write to Chaplain Andrews, Naval Relief society, Great Lakes, Ill. Explain your situation, give your son's full name, rating, and last known naval address, and you can obtain any necessary advice and assistance.

F. K. writes: "Why are some working wives being paid, when working mothers are not? I earn my own living, but would like to have an allowance from the government. My son, who is in the army, said that I had to be a dependent and I would have to prove that in order to get such help."

ANSWER: Your son is correct. Wives are class "A" dependents and do not have to prove dependency. Mothers are class "B" and all relatives in that class must prove both relationship and dependency. Persons misrepresenting the facts in order to obtain benefits are subject to severe penalties—fine or imprisonment, or both.

BIG TALK AT KANSAS CITY.

Conventions are notoriously places where people go to talk rather than to act, but the delegates of the American Legion convention assembled in Kansas City have been unnecessarily abused in this respect. Their convention was opened by the most discredited man in the United States and made a sounding board for a series of bombastic announcements by various other public officials—all warning of dire things to come—and reached a climax in the warning from the victor of the "yoo-hoo" battle of Memphis that our war losses may run as high as three million men.

Secretary Knox harped on the theme song of the incompetent public official, that it is unpatriotic in time of war to criticize, disloyal to disagree with the President. The secretary needs to be reminded that so far as damage to the national cause is concerned there is no whit of difference between the traitor who betrays and the bungler who wastes the national resources and clings to office long after his incompetence has been demonstrated.

Administrator McNutt was full of threats about the conscripting of man power. Lieut. Gen. Lear might well have curbed his disposition to talk a salty battle in view of the relatively few troops that we have delivered to the battle front as yet. Instead of talking about three million casualties the leaders of the army could better devote themselves to training men and getting them to the various fronts, where at present we have in all arms of the service only about a fifth of the number the general says we might lose before the fight is over.

None of the speakers has done anything to warrant public confidence in anything he had to say. The public is at this time far more interested in what he does. The sound and fury signifying nothing which burst forth in the Legion hall can only diminish further the waning public confidence in the cocktail drinkers and entertainers of royalty in Washington.

The country well knows that if rhetoric could have won the war we would have been dictating the peace by now. Its discouragement at the progress of the war is based on the predilection of those in authority for words.

Word of Mr. Roosevelt's and Mr. Churchill's trans-Atlantic debate in June over the rhetoric to be used in the joint announcement of the "urgency" of the second front only serves to remind that September has brought no action in that field beyond the fiasco of Dieppe. The advisability of opening up an assault on Europe is debatable. There may be the best reasons in the world for having delayed a second front, but that is not the point. The point is it is a situation in which deeds alone count and not words, and in which so far we have only had words. It is natural, of course, that men who made words their trade should in time possess some exaggerated idea of their power and importance. What is overlooked is that if deeds do not correspond to words the words lose their power. The discrepancy between words from Europe and the deeds done there, as disclosed by the small passage of time, has been such that any dispatch from that front lately becomes open to suspicion. No amount of rhetoric can cover up the fact that Hitler's foes are in far less favorable position as the end of the fighting season approaches than they were at the beginning. The only manner in which the gains that he has registered can be minimized is by taking the cold comfort that he hasn't won complete victory.

It is equally obvious that there has been a lot of wishful thinking in the reports from the Pacific, when occasionally the veil of rhetoric is lifted and the cold and discomforting truth shines thru, as in Correspondent Jack Turcott's dispatch of yesterday, filed thru the American censorship in Australia. He discloses that Gen. MacArthur has in his six months in Australia been almost completely stymied by lack of men and materials; that he has hardly more combat troops than can be found in a single training camp in the United States; that his air force is less than American plants are now turning out in two days, and that his flyers are overworked and come to him undertrained.

Words cannot win the war on the Pacific, any more than they can establish a second front across the Atlantic. These projects demand men and ships and planes and MacArthur has not been furnished them. Why not? The nation has a right to know.

America wants action. It gets words, words, and more words, from men whose assurances it is learning by bitter experience can be trusted less and less.

WHY TO KEEP WELL —AND HOW!

According to Dr. Cutter, in a recent article, you can acquire a longing for operations. Instances of the addiction are familiar to the medical profession. The addict no doubt started out, as many others of different appetite, thinking he could take it or leave it, and when it was too late found he was in the clutches.

Unfortunately the first step may be unavoidable. The ill fated person receives the unwelcome news from his physician that an operation is indicated. He calls upon his resolution, reconciles himself and submits. The compensation comes in convalescence and conversation about himself. The habit forming drug is probably in the conversation.

Even the most susceptible person will not dream that he is not strong willed enough to resist an inclination to return for another. He does not feel that he has had something which will make him an unstable member of society. Addiction to operations apparently steals up under the cover of another weakness, the narcissic. In a hospital the patient may have either one of two experiences; one which will make him feel that he is a depersonalized item, the other that he has become the mighty atom. The first is humiliating and safe; the second is seductive and destructive. More dangerous than strong drink is the professional solicitude of kind attendants and the amiable attention of kind friends.

When health has returned the ex-patient is again a negligible being. He is back in the world of the perfunctory "How are you?" He knows it is not important to that world how he is. It is hard to bear. The world, strange to say, has other preoccupations. If the person can reconcile himself to inconsequentiality he is safe. If his sense of loss is insufferable he is in a dangerous way. He is on his way to addiction. Presently he is back in his doctor's office, not feeling well.

If the medical man is as good as Dr. Cutter says he is he knows from obvious signs what's wanted. The doctor's dilemma may be a struggle between professional impulses and professional scruples. Here's a subject who should be told to be on his way, but the patient's hungry look may break down the doctor's resistance. After all the fellow is asking for it and if he doesn't get it he may go into a morbid decline. From here the descent of man is swift.

The victim of obsession becomes furtive. His faraway look gives evidence of an unknown ill to his distressed family. He eludes his friends. Operative symptoms multiply in his sensations. Appendectomy is a blessed word. We leave this unfortunate frequenting the alley trying to bootleg an operation, hoping to sneak in the back way and establish himself anew in the warm world of the hospital with a thermometer in his mouth and a nurse's fingers on his wrist, again an important personage whose ego is paramount for all the people he sees. Poor wretch.

It is a heroic hypochondria which seeks the surgeon for its satisfaction. People may wonder whether such morbidity is catching. Is it something the war psychosis is likely to spread? You'd better keep well.

LAGGING REGISTRATION.

Downstate registration was disappointingly light Saturday, the first of two days set aside for voters to register in their home precincts under the new state-wide permanent registration law which becomes effective with the Nov. 3 general election. There will be a second precinct registration day Oct. 6. Meanwhile unregistered downstate voters can register any day at the office of the county clerk or with deputies where the clerk has established branch offices outside the county seat.

A canvass of 12 representative counties, none of which includes election board cities which already had permanent registration, has shown that to date there has been an average registration of only 47 per cent of the total vote in 1938, when the last off-year election was held.

The exercise of the franchise is one of the most precious of American rights, and its value should be enhanced by the knowledge that we are fighting enemy nations that have taken away the voice in government of their citizens and would do the same thing to us if they were able. The necessity of registering can, for that reason, be urged without partisan considerations.

The November election, however, offers the people the only opportunity they will have for another two years of registering their attitude toward the conduct of the war. They must ask themselves whether there is cause for dissatisfaction, whether the authoritarian drift in Washington is to be permitted to continue unchecked, and whether the administration is cognizant of the desires of the public, and, even if it is, whether it is responsive to them.

If the decision is that there is room for improvement in the conduct of the war and that the public will can be more ably and faithfully represented in congress, the people must make sure between now and Oct. 6 that their votes will be effective in November. They can only do so by registering. If they let their votes go by default, they will have no cause for complaint if and when things go badly.

Editorial of the Day

NOT GOOD ENOUGH.
[London News Chronicle.]

On Tuesday of this week the United States visiting forces bill, which had already received the assent of the house of lords, was introduced in the house of commons and passed thru all its stages in one day.

Several members protested against this summary treatment of a measure which, in its application, will raise issues of the greatest juridical importance. Their protests are justified.

The house of commons, as the guardian of personal liberties in this country, has always exercised, and must continue to exercise, the utmost vigilance in respect of legislation by which personal liberties are affected. And M. P.s cannot discharge their responsibilities effectively if, when new and far reaching legislation is proposed, they are not given ample opportunity to consider it.

The purpose of this bill is to provide that all criminal offenses on the part of members of the armed forces of the United States stationed in this country shall be removed from the jurisdiction of our own courts and transferred to military courts set up by the United States authorities.

That is, doubtless, a very necessary step already agreed in principle by the British and United States governments. The presence in this country of large numbers of Americans subject to military discipline makes it desirable that they should, for all purposes, be subject to one authority only.

No one quarrels with this principle. But that is not the point. The point is that because not only American subjects but British subjects, too, are affected by this novel legislation, parliament should have been given proper opportunities to discuss it. British subjects cannot, of course, be tried by American military courts, but they will be seeking redress in them. They are entitled to be satisfied that that redress will be comparable to the redress afforded by our own civil courts. And while on this point the government is reassuring, it would have been much better to allow parliament to give the bill the consideration it deserves.

In time of war it is often necessary to rush legislation thru parliament. This is not a case in point. The situation which this bill is designed to meet must have been foreseen months ago. All encroachments by the executive upon the responsibilities of parliament ought to be resisted; especially where—as in this case—the rights of the individual are directly affected.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

IN THE WAKE OF R. L. S.

We have often wondered, when tracing the news of amphibious warfare on maps of the Pacific ocean, if the cruises of Robert Louis Stevenson ever crossed the present zones of combat. Since the fathers of American soldiers now in the Solomons and New Caledonia cut their literary eyeteeth, if any, on the South Sea tales of Stevenson, we decided that this question should be investigated. We are now ready to report.

* * *

Stevenson's Pacific cruises were extensive, but were largely outside the areas where bombs have been dropping on "flat tops." However, he left his footprints around the edges. Hawaii, of course, he did not miss, and altho he never saw Midway Island he was its literary discoverer. [See "The Wrecker."] He hobnobbed with the natives of various Gilbert Islands, including Makin, whose Japanese interlopers have had furious visits from American task forces. He spent a few days on New Caledonia, around its convict settlement at Noumea. He reached Sydney, Australia, and Auckland, New Zealand. Then he settled down on Samoa where, after three happy and productive years, he died.

* * *

When Stevenson visited the Gilberts he sailed in a trading schooner of 62 tons called the Equator, which he had chartered. In this archipelago he became familiar with the beachcomber types that appear in some of his stories, such as "The Ebb Tide" and "The Beach at Falesa." The latter is placed in the Gilberts.

See "In the South Seas," a collection of travel articles whose first publication was in the New York Sun, for a full account of these voyages.

NEVER BEEN TO MILWAUKEE!

I've sailed on ships to southern seas—
I've winged my way on a northern breeze—
But I've never been to Milwaukee!

I've jogged thru jungle dense and deep—
I've climbed up mountains straight and steep—
But I've never been to Milwaukee!

Milwaukee's a place of lakes and beer—
Milwaukee's a place of right good cheer—
Milwaukee's a place to have fun, I hear—
But you couldn't prove it by me!
No!
You couldn't learn it from me!

I've traveled by train to eastern shore—
Been carried by car to Cal. and more—
But I've never been to Milwaukee!

I've hitched and hiked to Mexico—
And bugled at walls of Jericho—
But I've never been to Milwaukee!

Some day I'll reach Milwaukee or bust—
The reason I've missed before is just
It's too darn close for wanderlust—
And I'm a rover, you see—
Yes!
The far away places for me!

A Dream of Dogs for Defense.

Mr. Mac, my big collie [with a touch of Dane], was standing idly on the lawn when I sensed something wrong with the picture. I watched him closely for a moment, and Holy Cow! he was wagging his tail up and down! Now Mr. Mac had always lived where there was plenty of tail-wagging room, so I had to delve into this weird move.

"How come this up-and-down wagging business, Mr. Mac?"

"Dogs for Defense are seeking high class pooches for army service, and I want to do my share. This new type tail-waggle I'm practicing ought to get me in the signal corps or the railroad battalion. You know—I scout a position, waggle up and down, that means 'highball' or 'come ahead,' and if I wigwag straight across, red board,' or 'stand where you are'."

"How about retreat?" I asked.

"I suppose I could develop a circular movement, but on the other hand I don't think our boys will need a retreat signal, so why wear out a good tail?"

His cold nose nudged my palm and I awakened to find that my arm was over the side of the bed again—always an invitation to him to nuzzle.

Adrian of Arizona.

SWELL BUSINESS.

The summer is waning, which gives me no pain,
A summer of summers for sending us rain
By buckets and barrels, and even by tanks
(We hope raincoat makers have rendered due thanks).

Now with all this rain ev'rything's very moist,
And houses hold dampness in most ev'ry joist.
Can that be a bomb? Hear that terrible roar!
No, son, it's a neighbor who's closing his door.

W. L. Hudson.

The Palette of Autumn.

The countryside has begun to wear its fall coloring in masses of goldenrod, sunflowers, and purple asters. Here and there in ragged fields are great patches of the blazing star, with its long, purplish pink racemes, a blaze of color worth traveling miles to see, especially effective when the goldenrod mingles with it. The white, bushy tops of the sturdy boneset are found with the purple thistles and occasionally the charming, pinkish bells of the false dragon-head.

Red haws of the wild rose show along the sandy cut and the thorn apples are loaded with ruby fruit. The old fence is hung with orange bittersweet berries, and the nightshade with purple black fruit has taken over an old stump. Down in the dead leaves jack-in-the-pulpit shows its bright scarlet berries, crowded close as kernels on a cob, and with it are the red berries of the false Solomon's seal.

Soothing to jangled nerves is a trip thru the countryside at its fall showing. S'Amuser.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Cutter will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MENINGITIS AND CROWDS.

MENINGITIS is a disease of crowds and nearly every autumn we encounter a rise in the number of cases. This year particularly, with the concentration of soldiers in camps, army medical authorities will be on the alert against this unwelcome and dangerous malady. More than a century ago the affliction swept the New England states in waves. It was then known as "spotted fever," because of the characteristic eruption.

The causative organism, the meningococcus, thrives unusually well in the nose and throat. It may persist in this locality without disturbing the carrier. In other words, these growing germs may not bring on illness. Nevertheless, the one who is susceptible may, upon close contact, acquire the infection from one who is apparently well. Should the disorder develop, it will follow exposure within three to five days.

It has been estimated that more than 2 per cent of the population plays host to these germs routinely. When they are scattered widely thru coughing and sneezing, others may pick them up. This explains how and why an epidemic may start. It is not unusual, if the disease is prevalent in a given community, to find 20 per cent of the inhabitants harboring the microbes.

Let us assume that the bacteria have taken hold. How will the patient react? As a rule, the onset is abrupt with some fever and a general feeling of malaise. The most striking manifestation is a persistent headache which drugs fail to relieve. Gastric upsets are common and vomiting may come on without a sense of nausea. In fact, the victim may have no warning. Later mental irritability, confusion, and drowsiness appear in sequence. The sufferer resents being disturbed and is frequently extremely uncoöperative.

How often will signs of a cold precede the ailment? About 10 per cent of those who feel ill will exhibit symptoms of catarrhal inflammation of the air passages. Even in this stage, the discharges should be collected on paper tissue and burned. This is a good rule to observe as one never knows when a more serious condition may be ushered in by an acute coryza.

During World War I. our physicians relied largely upon antitoxin, which was given directly into a vein and into the spinal canal. Thanks to the sulfonamide drugs, we are now in a better position to combat this powerful enemy. Rather large doses are administered and, within two or three days, the effect will be noted in the dropping of temperature and general improvement of the victim's condition.

Even if the sufferer is unconscious, a tube may be passed via the nostrils, into the stomach and the compound introduced. After the third day, the dosage may be greatly reduced or omitted entirely as long continued administration may give rise to a chemical fever which has no relation to the disorder itself.

The least we can do is to watch children and young people who complain of intense headache and vomiting, and call the doctor soon enough to safeguard the patient.

A LITTLE JOB FOR JOE.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—The day your paper ran the full spread picture of Joe Louis, we had a visitor here from Excelsior, Minn. After looking at Joe's picture for several minutes, he came up with an idea for cleaning up the war debt after we get thru cleaning up the axis. We thought it pretty good.

He suggested when we finally get our hands on the trio that we bring Adolf, Benito, and Tojo to this country, make them tour the country with Joe, book them each night in a different stadium, sell tickets at $10 apiece, and each night let the Brown Bomber go to work on all three of them at once. This would kill several birds with one stone. It would rehabilitate Joe in the ring, get rid of three rats, and the proceeds from the sale of tickets would undoubtedly clean up the war debt. H. E. STABILIZE ON PEARL HARBOR LEVELS.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 17.—Why stabilize farm, labor, salaries, and commodity prices as of the present time when they are all very high and out of line with one another? Why not set them as of Dec. 6, 1941, the day before Pearl Harbor, when all were much lower and not nearly as much out of line with one another?

Stability cannot possibly be obtained as long as the 40 hour week, with time and one-half for 48 hours and double time for 56, is operative.

A good example of this is the handling of steel and other large industrial wage questions.

A 15 per cent increase in wage rates was given ostensibly to square the 15 per cent raise in the cost of living, but the employés receive 15 per cent plus 20 per cent for working 48 hours, plus 10 per cent for overtime, or a total of 38 per cent in weekly wages over what they received in January, 1940. This increase will rise to around 72 per cent when the labor shortage compels a 54 hour week. It is rulings such as this which make equality between the farmer, the wage earner, salaried men, and commodity prices utterly futile. E. L. MESSLER.

THE GOETHE STATUE.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—I have noticed a monument in Lincoln park to the German poet, Goethe. The inscription is to the "Master Mind of Germany" and the statue was erected by the "German people of Chicago."

In view of our great need for metals, it seems to me that this statue, before all others, should be removed and melted down for the urgent purposes of war.

I do not believe we should tolerate here in America any statue or monument to any of the "Master Minds" of any of our enemy countries. B. O. G.

ERSATZ COAT HANGER.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Referring to the requests of boys in camps for coat hangers: As a substitute on camping trips we found that a tightly rolled newspaper, tied in the center with a loop of twine to hang it up, worked very well. Of course, for trousers a couple of safety pins, pinned thru from side to side, will do the trick. We hope, however, that lots of regular coat hangers will soon be on their way to the camps.

THE FESTIVAL AIDS ARMY RELIEF.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—The recent Chicago Music Festival directed by you at Soldiers' field for the benefit of Army Emergency Relief and Navy Relief society was one of the outstanding activities in the entire United States in which Army Emergency Relief has participated.

The organization and the management of thousands of program participants of the Music Festival before an audience of more than 90,000 persons was done with such coördination and efficient management as to have elicited the greatest confidence of many of our officers who are familiar with the problems of so gigantic a task.

We feel that you have not only rendered a direct tangible benefit to Army Emergency Relief, but that you made a spiritual contribution to the morale of the community in helping to lessen the burden of the fathers and mothers whose sons are in the service by giving them, in a language they can understand, something in which to have faith.

Please accept our sincere but inadequate expression of appreciation for your wholehearted, unselfish, and patriotic coöperation in the matter of raising the necessary funds for Army Emergency Relief, and for the constructive publicity and spiritual contribution to the community which is so loyally supporting Army Emergency Relief.

HITCH HIKER PERIL.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Referring to C. M. Smyth's article of Sept. 13 pertaining to lone automobile drivers: No matter how many precautions a person takes nowadays it appears that he isn't safe anyway because he can never surmise what type of person he is picking up. Do you think that the two women who were brutally slain, just a week ago, had any idea that the man they were picking up was a murderer? This man was in uniform.

Just because precautions are taken by many citizens to protect themselves doesn't mean we are unpatriotic.

La Salle, Ill., Sept. 16.—In the Voice of the People Sept. 12 appeared an article, signed L. M. O., suggesting the sale of a special stamp by the government, such a stamp bearing the word "HELLO" or "GREETINGS." What a grand idea. A special drive for extra letters to the men in the service could be encouraged thru the use of such a stamp. Dec. 1 to Jan. 1 would be an appropriate period, as this takes in the holidays.

TIP TO REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES.

Pontiac, Ill., Sept. 17.—As I travel continuously in the midwest, I get a pretty good cross-sectional viewpoint of what the people are thinking. All the Republican aspirants to congressional seats have to do is announce that they are for having MacArthur return to head our complete war effort. Those who do this will be overwhelmingly elected.

The people know a real leader and organizer when they see one. I know that the people of this section are worried about having our soldiers scattered all over the globe, rather than concentrated where they can really protect this nation.

Was it as in reward for his sabotage of the Republican party these many years? Or was it for violating his oath of office as state's attorney for rendering some sub-rosa service to some Democratic big shot?

SENATORS VOTE 90% TAX LIMIT ON ANY INCOME

Slap at F. D. R. Plea for $25,000 Ceiling.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—No individual should pay more than 90 per cent of his net income in federal income taxes, according to a limitation approved today by the senate finance committee, which also voted to abolish notorization of tax returns.

The 90 per cent limit on federal income taxes would affect only those few individuals with taxable incomes of $1,000,000 or more, since combined normal, surtax and victory levies would not exceed 90 per cent for those in the lower income brackets.

No corporation salaries of $1,000,000 have been reported for last year in records furnished the government, but 44 persons paid taxes last year on 1940 incomes of 1 million dollars or more from all sources, including income from private businesses or partnerships and from investments. Government disclosure of income extends only to corporation salaries, bonuses, etc., above $75,000 a year.

Indirect Slap at F. D. R.

The action by the committee was interpreted as an indirect slam on President Roosevelt's request to congress, twice voiced, for a limitation of $25,000 on incomes after taxes. By today's limitation of 90 per cent on federal taxation the committee inferentially approved incomes of $1,000,000 or more, since that is the only group affected by the change. Under tax rates proposed in the pending bill a person with a million dollar income would pay $909,640 in federal taxes.

This limitation was voted, according to committee members, to conform with the limit of 80 per cent on corporation income taxes previously approved by the committee.

The action to eliminate the necessity of having tax forms sworn to before a notary public, will be of wider interest as it would apply to all of the prospective 43 million taxpayers under the pending bill to raise taxes by about 9 billion dollars over current levies.

Perjury Provided For.

Congressional tax experts informed the committee that the criminal code could cover persons who made false tax returns and they would be liable to prosecution for perjury even if the signed return is not notarized. This will expedite the handling of the millions of returns, and the change was made at the request of the treasury department.

In other clean-up actions on the pending bill before it is sent to the senate floor, the committee voted the following minor revisions in the measure:

Increased from 4 to 8 per cent the stamp tax on premium payments to foreign insurance companies.

Voted to give tax rebates to corporations which were compelled under a 1936 law to pay an undistributed profits tax even tho state or federal law prohibited the paying out of dividends because of the corporation's unsound financial condition.

Reduced the tax on "digger" machines from $100 to $10 a year. Digger machines are coin operated devices which give the player a chance to pick up a prize by manipulating the controls of a miniature hoisting crane.

Exempted reciprocal and interinsured companies from the 1 per cent tax on premium income.

Eliminated the import tax on denatured alcohol.

PRESIDENT ASKS NEAR 3 BILLIONS MORE FOR NAVY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP).—The President today asked congress for an additional appropriation of $2,731,154,308 for the navy, which would increase the total cash supplied to the sea service in this fiscal year to almost 17 billion dollars.

Among the items listed by the President were 100 million dollars for additional arming of merchant ships against the submarine menace and $820,000 for the procurement of helium.

The largest item in the new money asked in the President's letter was earmarked for the bureau of aeronautics, but details of how the 960 million dollars additional sought for this bureau would be used were withheld except for a notation regarding helium.

Also included in the request were the following items: $734,216,136 for pay, subsistence, and transportation of naval personnel; $204,448,642 for pay of the rapidly expanding marine corps; $250,000,000 for marine corps supplies, equipment, and miscellaneous expenses; $339,166,000 for pay and miscellaneous expenses of the coast guard.

FORBID TAXICABS IN N. Y. TO MAKE RACE TRACK TRIPS

New York, Sept. 21 (AP).—Drivers of one of New York's largest taxi fleets have been forbidden to accept passengers for trips to race tracks, the operators announced today.

E. A. Danneman, president of the National Transportation company, declared such trips were prohibited under any circumstances. Even tracks within the city limits, such as Belmont and Aqueduct, are included in the order.

Danneman said the order was issued at the suggestion of the Office of Defense Transportation.

THE QUESTION.
Did you ever make a promise that was hard to keep?

WHERE ASKED.
Lawrence avenue and Broadway.

THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. Edward Rodin, housewife, 1421 Farwell avenue — I promised my five year old son that he could take a trip to Canada with his father. When the time came I almost changed my mind. He seemed like such an infant and it didn't seem like his father could take proper care of him. But he made the trip.

Mrs. J. C. Dindinger, housewife, 4731 Kenmore avenue—I promised my mother that I'd name my first baby after her. I was sure of a boy but the baby was a girl and I didn't like any name I could think of—similar to my mother's. But I kept the promise to the extent that their names begin with the same letter.

Marilyn Ahnert, silver counsellor, Duluth, Minn.—I was going to be out of town for a month and promised my brother-in-law he could use my new car while I was gone. Just before I left he wrecked his own truck during some speedy driving. It wasn't easy for me to let him have the car, but I did.

Betty Nicholos, waitress, 4739 Kenmore avenue—Last year I promised my parents that I'd go back to high school even tho I had a good job this summer. After a substantial raise in salary I liked the job better and it was hard to give it up. I kept the promise that year, but this year I didn't make any.

Betty Mertes, telephone operator, 4501 Malden avenue—My landlord made me promise that I would get rid of my dog within two days. That was a difficult thing to do. I kept the dog until the last minute of the 48 hours and then had to ask one of my friends to take him away.

Adelaide Seiler, cashier, 618 Kemper place—It had been weeks since I had had dinner at my sister's home so we made a date a week in advance. I forgot all about it until I was out on the lake on a cruise on a small yacht. I hated to do it, but I asked them to turn around and take me back so I could keep the appointment.

LIMIT ALL INCOME (EXCEPT F. D. R.'S), WIFE SUGGESTS

Can't Live in White House on $25,000 a Year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt declared today that the proposed limit of $25,000 a year on a person's income, as requested by the President, should not extend to Mr. Roosevelt himself.

Mrs. Roosevelt's views were expressed in response to a request that she explain how the White House would be run on $25,000 a year. Mrs. Roosevelt said "the question is rather foolish because the White House is not the property of any private individual."

"It belongs to the people of the United States and those who live in it are there only temporarily," she said. However, she added, she thought she could run her own home easily on $25,000 a year.

Limit Proposed by CIO.

The Congress of Industrial Organization originally had proposed the limitation of $25,000 a year on all individual incomes, and Mrs. Roosevelt subsequently indorsed the CIO recommendation. Later, the President formally proposed to congress in his anti-inflation message of April 27 that congress limit all incomes to $25,000 after taxes. But both the house and senate considered the proposal ridiculous and ignored it.

In his Labor day message to congress the President repeated his request for action on the $25,000 limitation.

The President's salary amounts to $75,000 a year, and Mrs. Roosevelt's income as a lecturer, radio commentator, and newspaper columnist has been estimated as equaling and sometimes exceeding that of her husband, so she would be affected by the proposed $25,000 limit.

Mrs. Roosevelt, in answering the "foolish" question, said:

"If the question had been asked me in this manner—How are you going to adjust your life to an income of $25,000 a year in your own home?—I could have answered it with great ease. My home can easily be run on that sum of money."

Life Can Be Arranged.

"My life can easily be so arranged that I can live on whatever I have," she remarked. "If I cannot live as I have lived in the past I shall live differently, and living differently does not mean living with less attention to the things that make life gracious and pleasant, or with less enjoyment of things of the mind," she added with great profundity.

She said that congress provides for repairs, general upkeep, and official entertainment of the White House, but that "the President must pay for all food eaten by everybody in the White House except on official occasions, and that is sometimes a pretty expensive bill."

Congress provides the President with an annual appropriation of $30,000 for traveling and official entertainment expenses.

Two weeks after his appointment as head of the 6th service command in Chicago, Brig. Gen. Henry S. Aurand was nominated by President Roosevelt yesterday to be promoted to a major general.

Gen. Aurand served at supply headquarters of the army before being appointed to succeed Maj. Gen. George Grunert who was transferred Aug. 29 to Washington to direct a division of army services of supply as an assistant to Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell, commanding general of the supply service.

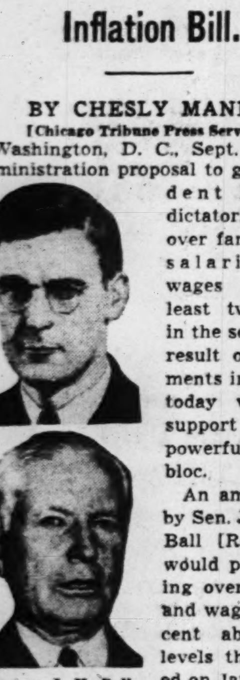
PAY AND PARITY FORMULAS FACE SENATE BATTLE

Start Efforts to Amend Inflation Bill.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—The administration proposal to give President Roosevelt dictatorial power over farm prices, salaries, and wages faces at least two fights in the senate as a result of amendments introduced today with the support of the powerful farm bloc.



Senators J. H. Ball [top] and Elmer Thomas.

An amendment by Sen. Joseph H. Ball [R., Minn.] would put a ceiling over salaries and wages 15 per cent above the levels that existed on Jan. 1, 1941. The other amendment, approved by a senate agriculture subcommittee and introduced by Sen. Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.], would rewrite the definition of parity in computing maximum farm price ceilings so as to include all farm labor costs.

The senate began debate on the so-called "cost of living" bill today and the house will take up a similar measure tomorrow. Administration leaders are striving to complete congressional action on the legislation this week because of President Roosevelt's Oct. 1 deadline in his "you do it or I will" ultimatum to congress on Sept. 7.

Opposed by Labor Organizations.

The wage "freezing" formula proposed by the Ball amendment is vigorously opposed by labor organizations and by the administration forces, who wish to give President Roosevelt a free hand in "stabilizing" wages. The President himself has expressed "unalterable opposition" to the proposal to include the farmer's labor costs in the computation of parity for price ceiling purposes.

Nevertheless, informed members of the senate believe that both amendments have a good chance of adoption. One of them commented cynically that "labor owns the White House, but the farmers have congress."

Leaders of the three principal farm organizations contend that consideration must be given to the farmer's increased labor costs in computing price ceilings to avert a serious food shortage next year.

Brown Admits Farm Issue.

Sen. Prentiss M. Brown [D., Mich.], manager of the administration bill, conceded in his opening statement that "farm prices must be permitted to go a bit higher" because of "the farm labor situation." He expressed the hope, however, that "discretion in that respect will be left with the President."

As reported by the banking and currency committee, the bill would forbid the establishment of maximum prices for farm commodities below the highest level between Jan. 1 and Sept. 15 or below parity, which is defined as a price that would give farm commodities the same relative purchasing power they had between 1909 and 1914. The parity formula, however, does not take farm labor costs into consideration.

The bill "authorizes and directs" the President to stabilize salaries and wages "so far as practicable" at their Sept. 15 levels, but the President would be permitted to make adjustments "to the extent that he finds necessary to correct gross inequities and to aid in the effective prosecution of the war."

Legalizes "Little Steel" Formula.

The Ball amendment seeks to "freeze" into law the "little steel" formula adopted by the War Labor board, which in the case of some three-fourths of the wage earners in manufacturing industries has permitted pay increases of 15 per cent to offset increases in the cost of living between Jan. 1, 1941, and May 1, 1942.

The Ball amendment would "freeze" salaries and wages as of Sept. 15. No increases could be granted without the approval of a government agency, and increases could not exceed 15 per cent above the Jan. 1, 1941, levels unless the government agency should find further increases to be necessary "to correct gross inequities."

The senate adopted an amendment by Sen. John W. Overton [D., La.] providing that nothing in the act shall be construed to prevent private employers from reducing salaries that are now above $5,000.

Hopes for 5% Limit.

Overton's amendment specifically exempts from any wage stabilization order the salaries of government officials and employés which are fixed by law. This would protect the senator's $10,000 salary from a possible reduction by the President.

Sen. Brown said that officials charged with administering the price control law "confidently hope" that price increases can be held to a maximum of 5 per cent during 1943.

Brown said he was talking about the cost of living, but in response to a question by minority leader Charles L. McNary of Oregon he expressed the opinion that the expectation of a 5 per cent limit on increases would include both wages and farm prices.

"That would be an achievement," said Sen. Brown.

"Precisely—a very great achievement," commented Sen. McNary, dubiously.

CHICAGO PUPILS FORM ARMY OF SCRAP HUNTERS

Children Open Metal Drive Oct. 1.

Altho their scrap metal collection drive will not start officially until Oct. 1, Chicago's 465,000 public school children will be organized for the crusade by the end of this week, William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, said yesterday.

The Chicago school children's drive, in which pupils of the Cook county and parochial school systems also will participate, is part of a national campaign sponsored by the War Production board. The nation-wide collection drive, mobilizing an army of 30 million other children, will start Oct. 5.

Assigned to Block Details.

Details for the active participation of each Chicago public school child were completed yesterday by Johnson and district superintendents of the board of education.

Functioning under the student governments of their respective schools, the children will be assigned to block details in the vicinity of their homes to hunt for scrap. It will be their duty to deliver whatever they can carry, directly to salvage depots to be established in the schools, Johnson said.

In addition, the children will be assigned to canvass neighborhood industries to find unused equipment that might be dismantled. Scrap which is difficult to remove will be reported to William L. McFetridge, metropolitan area salvage director.

Direct Disposal of Scrap.

Student governments likewise will direct the disposal of the scrap thru dealers. The pupils themselves will decide how the proceeds are to be used.

The scrap drive in the county schools will be combined wherever possible with drives of the various town defense organizations, Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent, said. Approximately 96,000 pupils will join in the scrap hunt in the county.

Msgr. Daniel F. Cunningham, archdiocese superintendent of Catholic schools, told McFetridge yesterday that the 150,000 Catholic parochial school children in the Chicago area will participate in the scrap hunt.

Scrap 7,300 Pound Cannon.

A twelve foot field cannon of the first World war, mounted in front of the Clearing post, American Legion clubhouse at 5649 West 63rd street, was ordered scrapped for conversion into modern weapons. The proceeds from the sale of this 7,300 pound relic will be invested in war bonds, Harold Cleland, adjutant, said.

Industry must provide 70 per cent of Illinois' quota of 17 million tons of scrap before the end of 1942, Harvey T. Hill, regional director of the WPB industrial salvage section, told the Illinois Manufacturers association's salvage committee. He urged the committee to request systematic searches of all plants to unearth obsolete machinery, unneeded tools, dies, molds and other materials that can be scrapped.

MAYOR'S ANNUAL 'NIGHT OF STARS' IS OFF THIS YEAR

Each Christmas since 1933, "Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit Fund," sponsored by Mayor Kelly and directed by Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel, has raised funds thru a championship football game between public and parochial high schools and a "Night of Stars" party in the Chicago Stadium. The funds were used to purchase clothing for needy children, and the clothing was distributed thru the Democratic ward organizations. Yesterday Mayor Kelly announced that because of the high price of clothing and the fact that "children seem to be pretty well dressed these days, there will be no such fund this year. He said the football game will be held, however, and receipts will go to the Service Men's center.

MOVABLE SPAN WORK BEGUN ON 5 CITY BRIDGES

Work has started on conversion of fixed bridges along the south branch of the Chicago river into movable structures, Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, said yesterday. The program, estimated to cost 2 million dollars, is being financed by the navy to provide for passage of naval vessels built in the Great Lakes.

Stephen Michuda, city bridge engineer, told Hewitt yesterday city workmen are busy on four city bridges to be altered and a contractor is at work on the fifth.

The major city bridge to be converted is at South Western avenue. A comparatively new structure, it has a fixed steel and concrete span from which, Michuda said, workmen already are removing the concrete. Ultimately towers will be erected at each end and the span will be disconnected from approaches so it can be raised and lowered. The job is estimated to cost $585,000.

Three of the other city bridges were built as bascule bridges but lack lift machinery. They are at Cicero avenue, Pulaski road, and California avenue. Conversion of each of those bridges is estimated to cost $50,000. The bridge at South Kedzie avenue is a swing structure but lacks proper power equipment. Work there is estimated at $45,000. Michuda said all work will be completed by Jan. 1.

IDAHO DRIFTING ON G. O. P. TIDE COVERING WEST

Farmers Voice Displeasure with Administration.

For the last 28 years in the biennial national election campaigns Mr. Henning has journeyed from coast to coast taking the political pulse of the country. He is now engaged in his 15th political survey, the fourth report of which is the following dispatch.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Boise, Idaho., Sept. 21.—The Republican ground swell that is encouraging the G. O. P. and worrying the Democrats is visible in Idaho as in the other western states I have journeyed thru so far.

Here, as elsewhere, the defections from Democratic ranks are chiefly noted among farmers who are manifesting in no uncertain way their dissatisfaction with the Roosevelt administration. As a result, there is little doubt that Republican United States Sen. John Thomas and Republican Rep. Henry C. Dworshak will be reëlected. And by the same token Democratic Rep. Compton I. White has a real fight on his hands for the first time since he went to congress 10 years ago, tho the chances are he will pull thru.

Complaints Crystalize.

Those mountain ranges are echoing with the objurgations of agriculture that have been elicited by the Roosevelt inflation policy, so harsh to husbandmen and so tender to the workingmen, as the farmers see it. The weekly press is full of it. Farmers organizations are crystalizing the complaint against the administration.

"Wages," said E. T. Taylor, master of the Idaho Grange, "must be regulated in the same federal legislation which reduces farm prices and must not be left to the optional decision of any one whomsoever.

"Roosevelt proposes to beat farm prices down and then he, himself, will take care of wages. The President brought out clearly his belief that if farm prices are controled and lowered, the danger of inflation is whipped. But to the contrary, uncontroled cost-plus contractors operating under contracts awarded by those in authority, have created a wage situation that makes it impossible for the farmers to hire help. The amount of food the farmer is able to turn out for the war effort depends entirely on whether farmers can hire help. If the President wants to secure food, it will be necessary to control wages and this must be made part and parcel of any legislation that is passed designed to control farm prices."

Help Shortage Balked Voting.

The shortage of farm help referred to by Taylor has been produced by the flocking of farm hands to get the high wages paid by government contractors on war construction projects Farmers were so short handed they couldn't get to the polls in the recent primary in which only 19 per cent of the eligible vote was polled. But they say there'll be nothing to keep them away in November with harvesting over.

Sen. Thomas recently hurled a charge at Democrats that they have not answered up to date.

"Except for the opposition of the President" said the senator, "congress would have adopted an over-all plan for control of wages in industry and agriculture. The President omitted wages from his recommendations to congress in July of last year. Bernard Baruch, foremost authority on price control because of his experience in successfully handling the same problem for President Wilson in the last war, urged congressional committees a year ago to freeze prices and wages at levels then existing. The President succeeded in killing the Baruch proposal as embodied in the Gore bill in the house."

Warns of Dictatorship.

Then the senator touched on the dictatorship angle of the President's message which has aroused the danger of the farmers.

"The President's warning that he will ignore statutory restrictions on farm prices if congress fails to act by Oct. 1 on a program, which means its abdication of constitutional responsibility, raises an issue of tremendous importance," said Sen. Thomas. "Congress must assert itself if it is not to be swallowed up in a dictatorship after the manner of totalitarian governments."

The Democratic candidate for the senate is Glen Taylor, a cowboy entertainer. Taylor likewise was the opponent of Thomas in 1940 in the election to fill the Borah vacancy. Tho riding on the coattails of Mr. Roosevelt who carried Idaho by 21,000, Taylor was beaten by Thomas by 14,000. Without the Presidential coattails this time Taylor is probably in for a worse beating.

Upholds His Policies.

Taylor agonizes over Thomas. prewar record of opposition to intervention tho in 1940 Taylor was an isolationist himself.

"In looking back upon my record," said Sen. Thomas, "I feel that it cannot be stated with fairness that any action of mine tended to make us less ready to meet our enemies when peace no longer was possible. On the contrary, I believe that if the policies which I favored had prevailed at all times our position would have been stronger. Our resources would have been less scattered. It might have been possible to avoid some of our early reverses.

"If we had not been diverting supplies to Libya and elsewhere in the fall of 1941 we would have been strengthening our forces in the Pacific area, as Winston Churchill conceded in his address before the congress last December. Gen. MacArthur's plea for assistance might have been answered. Our flag might still be flying over the Philippines and our boys might not be languishing in Japanese prison camps.

"From some of the current discussions, obviously intended to prejudice the political fortunes of those who have not at all times seen eye to eye with the administration, it might appear that members of congress would have been working in 1940 and 1941 toward our entry into the war at the earliest possible date.

"Are we to assume from such a promise that the President and the administration were not sincere in their pledges to keep the nation out of war? Such an assumption would bear out the charges frequently made that the administration was trying to force us into the war, despite its protestations to the contrary. For my part I accepted the President's professions of a purpose to keep us out of war and under no circumstances to send our boys to fight on foreign soil. In everything I did I sought to make good the President's pledge."

FREES GAMBLER AFTER FIGHT IN NORTH SIDE BAR

A nonsuit order was entered by Judge George L. Quilici in Chicago avenue police court yesterday in the disorderly conduct charge filed against Eddie Sturch, 42 years old, an ex-convict and gambler.

Sturch was accused of assaulting R. Hill Carruth, 51, of 179 Fuller lane, Winnetka, an insurance agent, in the Diamond Cocktail lounge, 660 North Clark street, Wednesday evening.

Sturch was not in court, but his attorneys, George M. Crane and Frank Loverde, appeared to argue that the charges should be tried in a civil suit. Detective Richard Martin told the court that Carruth, who was not present, could not identify Sturch. Judge Quilici said he believed Sturch should have attended the session. The court then ordered the nonsuit, which he said would permit the charge to be reinstated if new evidence is found.

FOUND HANGED IN BARN.

The body of Alex Kostuba, 50 years old, was found hanging from a rafter in a barn behind his home at 2452 South Christiana avenue yesterday.

DAY by DAY on the FARM By GAIL COMPTON

Bloating Kills Calf.

Sept. 21, 1942.

ONE of the young Hereford feeder calves died the other day from clover bloat. This is the first time there has been any trouble among the feeders since they came to the farm last May. There now are 76 steers left.

The manager took precautions to prevent any of the animals bloating, and they had run on clover before this without any difficulty. The steers were in the young clover field for more than two weeks at one stretch and showed no signs of bloating. This time they were placed on the field only after they had been allowed to get their fill on a bluegrass pasture.

The animals were moved to the clover late in the afternoon. The next day when the manager checked them they were in good condition. On the next morning, however, one of the steers was dead.

Move Animals Out.

The animals were moved from the field immediately, and now the manager is afraid to put them back on it. This is causing some trouble as the manager was depending on the field to furnish auxiliary pasture as most of the woodlots are grazed to the ground.

The field has a rank growth of new clover and furnishes ideal pasture. The clover was seeded this spring with the oats, and as a result of perfect growing weather has produced a lavish stand.

The men have been getting in the last of the third cutting of alfalfa. In between rains the mower has been moving along steadily, and as soon as the hay has dried it has been baled and stored in the barn. Several times rain caught hay in the windrow but no harm was done.

After the hay is finished the men still have the job of combining the clover. It is ready to go any time now and the men are waiting for a dry spell. There may be considerable trouble as there is a rank growth of weeds in the field to tangle up the machine. When the seed finally is threshed it will have to be cleaned as it will contain a large amount of weed seeds.

Guernseys in Demand.

The dairy master has had quite a few bids for some of the purebred Guernseys he is selling. The animals are in excellent condition and are heavy producers. Guernsey milk is noted for its richness and high butterfat content and commands a premium on the market.

The farm manager still has a few choice yearling rams left for sale. The sheep are purebred Southdowns and many of them carry blood of a ram the farm imported from the royal estates in England.

PETRILLO REALLY A 'PATRIOT,' AID TELLS SENATORS

Ban on Music Recordings Defended at Quiz.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP).—Counsel for the American Federation of Musicians today defended its president, James C. Petrillo, as a patriot after Thurman W. Arnold, assistant attorney general, accused the union of "attempting to destroy independent businesses which do not employ musicians."

Joseph A. Padway, attorney, also told a senate interstate commerce subcommittee investigating the union's ban against recordings and transcriptions for radio stations and juke boxes that the prohibition was voted unanimously by the union at conventions and that the union was not "dominated in any way" by its president.

Arnold told the committee the ban was "an attack upon industrial freedom," and that an order preventing broadcasting of music by high school students at Interlochen, Mich., was "an attack on individual freedom of expression."

Army Band Transferred.

Padway's unexpected appearance followed testimony from James Nemec, president of the junior chamber of commerce at West Palm Beach, Fla., that an army orchestra at Morrison air field was transferred to Texas a few weeks after its musicians played for civic groups in a bond selling campaign. Nemec made no direct contention that the union was influential in the transfer.

Padway testified that the union "never refused the President, the army, the navy or any military agency when they requested music for soldiers or for patriotic purposes."

Hearing Coming Up Oct. 12.

Arnold told the committee, headed by Sen. D. Worth Clark [D., Idaho] that a hearing has been set for Oct. 12 in Federal court for the northern district of Illinois on the justice department's motion for a preliminary injunction against maintenance of the ban and that he would "argue that motion personally."

Arnold termed the union's action an attempt to destroy small independent radio stations and other businesses.

Paul Williams.

Harry Demis, 7237 Lafayette street, a clerk in the grocery, and Robert F. Fischel, 7249 Coles avenue, said the picture of Williams was that of the man who fired three fatal shots at Papayanis after the grocer had herded five customers to safety and then attempted to trap the bandit by barring his escape.

Capt. Ray Crane of Woodlawn police, said Williams may have been accompanied on the robbery by his wife, Genevieve, 5759 Drexel boulevard. The two are being sought in an automobile bearing license plates which were found to have been stolen.

MANNING LEADS IN 38TH DISTRICT SENATE PRIMARY

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 21 (AP).—On the basis of nearly complete unofficial returns, former Rep. Howard Manning of Jerseyville held a slight lead tonight over former Rep. Raymond Richmond of Fillmore in a special primary race for Democratic nomination for state senator in the 38th district.

Returns from 127 of 145 precincts in Montgomery, Greene, Macoupin, and Jersey counties gave Manning 1,743 and Richmond 1,652. Unopposed for the Republican nomination, Rice W. Miller of Hillsboro polled 2,635. Thirteen of the missing precincts yet to be heard from were in Greene county, where Manning piled up his largest early majorities.

The primary was called after Sen. Elmer H. Droste [R., Mt. Olive] resigned to serve in the army.

FALL FROM LADDER FATAL.

James Baldwin, 63 years old, 6407 South Hermitage avenue, a watchman, died yesterday of injuries suffered Friday when he fell from a ladder while painting his house.

Spanking Charged

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 21 (AP).—Lieut. Thomas G. Somermeier Jr., grandson of the late Andrew Jergens, cosmetics manufacturer, spanked his wife because she refused to play poker with his guests, the first witness testified today in Mrs. Somermeier's separate maintenance suit.

The witness, Mrs. Bessie Price, said the chastisement was administered during a Thanksgiving party in 1939 at the ranch home of a friend.

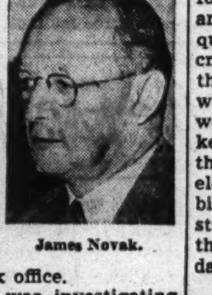
Mrs. Price told Superior Judge Ruben Schmidt:

"He dragged her upstairs to their room and I heard him spanking her. She screamed and called for help twice."

Mrs. Somermeier seeks $600 monthly separate maintenance. She and Lieut. Somermeier separated last May.

HOW CICERO COAL RECORDS BURNED IS TOLD TO JURY

Three officials and an employé of the Novak Brothers Coal company, Ogden and Cicero avenues, appeared before the grand jury yesterday, but about all the jurors were reported to have learned concerning mysteries of the Cicero school coal supply was that the records had been burned during a "clean-up" campaign at the Novak office.



James Novak.

The grand jury was investigating expenditures of the Cicero school board for 1939 to 1941. C. Vernon Thompson, assistant state's attorney who is presenting the evidence, said the board has paid the Novak company $80,256 for coal in three years. He said he will now call on the janitors of every school under the board's jurisdiction and see how much of it was delivered.

Edward Novak, treasurer of the company, was the principal witness yesterday. James Novak, president, also appeared, but his brother Joseph, vice president and secretary, was out of town. Edward is no relation to the brothers. The fourth witness was John Parlich, yard foreman.

POLITICS REARS HEAD AT STATE LABOR SESSION

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 21 [Special].—Denunciation of Gov. Dwight H. Green and State Labor Director Francis B. Murphy by Reuben G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor in his speech today opening the federation's 60th annual convention brought protests from many labor leaders against partisan politics in the convention activities.

Soderstrom assailed the governor for naming Murphy to the labor post and said the labor movement subsequently received a "double double cross" when Gov. Green promised thru an emissary to replace Murphy with a union man if the federation would halt its criticism but failed to keep the promise. Soderstrom said the governor promised before his election to support a wages and hours bill for interstate industry, but instead supported proposals for relaxing the women's 8 hour law and the one day rest in seven law.

Labor organizations friendly to Murphy will fight any anti-Murphy resolutions on the convention floor later in the week, it was indicated. Delegates representing the bakers, painters, and carpenters' unions and the Culinary Workers' alliance have taken preconvention action favorable to Murphy.

Mannequin Tea Is Arranged for St. Luke's Fashion Show

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALL of the debutantes of the season and three other young women who are spending their first year at home have been invited to tea at the Fortnightly next Monday afternoon by the mannequin committee of the St. Luke's Fashion show. The date is an important one for the young women who hope to model in this year's show on Oct. 28 at the Civic Opera house. During the afternoon each will give her height, weight, and dress, shoes, and hat size to the committee secretary, and at the same time the committee members and other officers of the show will have a good look at the budding models to decide which girls actually will appear on the runway, and which ones will be asked to help in other necessary ways.

Height and a good figure are important factors in selecting the models, of course, and the three young women added to the list for the tea should make the grade. They are Miss Ada Blanche Wrigley and Miss Barbara McNulty, debutantes of last year, and Miss Phyllis Thompson. Miss McNulty is a decided brunette and Miss Thompson a slender blonde. "Blannie" Wrigley is engaged to be married to William Hagenah Jr., who is in training with the army in South Carolina, and did not want to return to Vassar this winter.

Mrs. Richard K. Juergens is chairman of the mannequin committee. Serving with her are Mrs. Selim W. McArthur, Mrs. I. Newton Perry, Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mrs. John D. Ames, and Mrs. Herbert C. De Young. Mrs. John W. Gary is general chairman of the show.

Work Proceeds Full Tilt on Service Club Benefit.

Work is going ahead full tilt on a second autumn benefit that for many years has made demands on the leisure time of buds of the season, the Service club. More than once the dates of Service club and St. Luke's benefits have conflicted, for in the past the Service club has given revues, which meant many hours of rehearsals. This year, however, the club has taken over the opening of the "Ice Follies of 1943" on Oct. 13 at the Chicago Arena.

More than half the boxes already have been sold, and the rinkside seats are going fast. Some of those with boxes or seats are Mrs. James Norris, Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr., Mrs. Henry Faurot, Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley, Mrs. John Q. Adams, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. Aubrey H. Mellinger, and Mrs. Gary. Working daily at the ticket office at the Arena are Miss Mary Jane Brummel, Miss Barbara Hale, Miss Fifi Montgomery, Miss Priscilla Burr, Miss Jane Lucey, Mrs. Ralph Applegate, Mrs. George F. Getz Jr., Miss Dorothy Herbst, and Miss Carol Fox. The major portion of the tickets are being sold at no advance in prices, so that the gala first night performance will not be more expensive than others. The Army and Navy Relief societies this year will share in the proceeds, along with the 40 charities to which the Service club regularly contributes.

Infant Welfare Group's Benefit Set for Oct. 23.

The Kenwood Social Service club of the Infant Welfare society is making plans for a Yankee Doodle Cocktail party and tea-dance on Oct. 23 at the Racquet club. Mrs. C. V. Essroger is chairman of the party, for which Mrs. Nelson Utley and Mrs. Carl Defebaugh have charge of reservations. With them on the committee are Mrs. Kenneth MacLellan, Mrs. Kenath Sponsel, and Mrs. Keith Parsons. Mrs. John T. Harwood is president of the club.

Members of the Women's Faculty club of Northwestern university medical school are being asked to be responsible for donating at least one door prize for the club's annual card party to be held on Monday, Oct. 12, at the Lake Shore club. Mrs. Jacob Paschen, chairman of the party, is making the special appeal. Members all are doing some work for the war effort as well as for the club, so their days are busier than usual. Mrs. Leander W. Riba is president of the club.

From Louisiana comes word of the marriage of a former north shore resident, Lieut. David Roberts, United States army, to Miss Mary Belle Fuller, daughter of Mrs. Teressa Fuller of Lee Hills, Leesville, La. Lieut. Roberts is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Roberts, who resided in Glencoe until moving to Menominee, Mich., and a nephew of the Edwin C. Austins of Glencoe. The ceremony took place on Sept. 5, and Lieut. Roberts and his bride are stationed at Camp Polk. He is a graduate of the Colorado School of Mines.

Eastern Girl to Be Wed to William Pardridge.

From Garden City, N. Y., comes word of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth D. Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Snyder, to William De Weese Pardridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton E. Pardridge of Chicago. Miss Snyder, a graduate of Smith college, is a licensed pilot and has been engaged in aviation research for the war department in Washington, D. C. Her fiancé has been serving with the army air force in Washington. He has returned to the University of Chicago, where he formerly was a student, to direct research in aviation and to complete work for his doctorate.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott Spofford of Winnetka announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Ann, to Ensign John Clifton Hyatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton I. Hyatt of Austin, Tex. Miss Spofford attended the University of California at Los Angeles and the University of Texas, from which her fiancé was graduated in 1941. He also attended John Tarleton college. The wedding is planned for early October.

Completes Her Course as Nurses' Aide

Miss Josephine Carpenter, who has just completed a nurses' aide course at the Wesley Memorial hospital. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carpenter, she plans to take a business course this winter and to continue her nurses' aide work at the hospital, and has refused to be listed as one of this year's debutantes, altho she is of the proper age. "Junior Miss," revealed to Chicago in a second company at the Harris theater last night, is such a typhoon of merriment that it is an automatic smash hit, just as every one always supposed it would be.

The Messrs. Chodorov and Fields, who also were responsible for the dramatization of "My Sister Eileen," have turned Sally Benson's endearing exegesis of the growing pains of adolescence into a neatly contrived stage piece. In the process they have retained the simple family warmth which makes it a runner-up to "Life with Father" in its universality of appeal; yet they have not hesitated to gag it up with enough machinery of pure farce to keep it riotously amusing from start to finish.

These being the facts, "Junior Miss" does not need to worry about the box office, and you will not be unreasonable if you inquire about making a reservation for New Year's eve. I am not hurting anybody, therefore, when I reveal bluntly that the performance is by no means what it should be. A few harassed days in Buffalo clearly have not provided time enough to pull the playing together into the sort of ensemble Max Gordon has usually expected—and gotten—from his casts.

I personally cannot pay enthusiastic tribute to a performance that is given forth line by line, with great gaps between speeches, and with moments in which the actors wait painstakingly for longer laughs than those which actually materialize. It is sometimes a tonic experience in the theater to see good actors carrying a laborious play; but it is never any fun to see a good play carrying laborious actors.

Basically, however, I think it is mostly a matter of routining, and by a week from now the dialog and action may be moving on wings of light. Even now the two young girls, Lenore Thomas and Sandra Holman, are enormously diverting. Except for Doro Merande, who is hilarious as a dry, hatchet-faced maid, the adults were the ones who seemed to be feeling their way along.

Miss Thomas is a puffy little blonde moppet, who looks 13 instead of the 17 she probably is, and who carries along at a breathless pace her juvenile conspiracies with Miss Holman, a darker young person with a cracked baritone voice employed in effective imitation of Lenore Lonergan, the original Fuffy in New York. When the two girls are at work the comedy attains its best impact; consequently the central points of the play are in the main preserved.

In due time I believe Lois Wilson will find a confidence of delivery to match her quiet charm of person; that Harry Ellerbe, basically a fine actor, will seem less bewildered in such unaccustomed surroundings; that Eddie Nugent will find a way to lift his characterization of the father somewhat out of the rut of the commonplace.

When these improvements are made, Adrienne Marden's winning, unforced serenity will register better; Loring Smith will no longer want to tear his part to tatters with roaring; and Eileen Clarence will give up being so artificial and hard as the elder sister, Lois. All these things, I trust, will come to pass when the actors learn to understand their play.

Women in War Work

"Disillusioned" writes to ask us where we got the idea that nurses' aids do not use pails and scrub rags in hospitals. We mentioned that they did not when we wrote about Mrs. Arthur H. Spiegel, chairman of the nurses' aid corps of the Red Cross, and some of her co-workers washing windows in the new headquarters at 529 South Wabash avenue.

Our anonymous letter writer continues:

"I am an aid, and while I like taking care of sick people, making them comfortable, bathing them, feeding them . . . I am sick and tired of doing scrubbing and cleaning of beds, bedside tables and chairs, and utility rooms; in fact, all the cleaning that hospital maids are hired for. Naturally, we expected to clean the medicine cabinets and the various hospital trays . . . but we didn't count on the enormous amount of scrubbing and polishing we are called upon to do. The last straw was when one of the head nurses remarked, 'You don't know how much we appreciate all the cleaning and scrubbing you girls are doing for us.' Indeed!!!

"I wanted to do something for my country and believed in being a nurses' aid I would help to release a graduate nurse for army service; however, in the hospital where I am it seems to me that all I have done is to release a scrubwoman. . . . If the hospitals need maids, why don't they specify that—not train a girl to take care of a patient up to the point of actually giving medication and applying dressings, and then assign her to cleaning service rooms and polishing chrome.

"I dislike anonymous letters, but since I am an aid and shall continue to be, with limitations, I am not going to sign this—just wanted you to have an idea of what we are asked to do, so that when an article is written on the subject, it may be intelligent and correct. Some hospitals may treat them differently than others—maybe I picked the wrong one."

Perhaps "Disillusioned" did pick the wrong hospital, altho she was fortunate if she could pick the one in which she is serving, for a nurses' aid agrees to serve where she is needed, not where she chooses. But, perhaps our correspondent is more sinning than sinned against, to change the old quotation, for we doubt whether nurses' aids are asked to do anything that student or graduate nurses are not expected to do, upon occasions. Every one knows that a nurse has no easy task; there are many phases of her duties that are unpleasant and at times even revolting.

Cleaning service rooms and polishing chrome would seem to us to be preferable to "accompanying patients who pass out, to the morgue," which is one of the duties of nurses' aids who serve at the Cook County hospital, so a young woman in the nurses' office there told us recently. "Yes, nurses' aids are a great help," she said, and then she listed the things they do: Taking patients to operating rooms, clinics, X-ray rooms, etc.; feeding patients and making beds for those who are not critically ill, and doing some of the cleaning that the nurses do, but not what the maids do.

"No, our nurses' aids do no cleaning except what nurses do," said some one in the nurses' office at St. Luke's hospital, adding that they do many things to relieve the sorely pressed nurses, including most of the chores mentioned here, plus arranging flowers and helping with tub baths. We did not call any other hospitals, for we felt that these two were typical of all the 28 in the Chicago area that use nurses' aids, and that we need investigate no further along that line.

We did telephone a near north side resident, a veteran nurses' aid, to ask what she thought about the letter, and discovered that she is enjoying a vacation. But we talked to her daughter, who made her debut last winter and who also is an aid, and she said, "Of course, we do some cleaning that isn't altogether pleasant, but neither I nor my friends who are aids mind being asked to do such things. We do a lot more than this, however, and we expect to do whatever is needed. I think that letter is unfair, altho, of course, I do not know what hospital she serves in." Nor do we, so perhaps "Disillusioned" really does have a harder time than the aids we know.

It may be that in some hospitals volunteer nurses' helpers are asked to do menial work that they shouldn't be required to do, but our advice to our unknown correspondent is: Be a good sport, as you evidently are, and do whatever is necessary. Soldiers and sailors have duties to perform that are onerous as well as dangerous, remember that.

Serving as a nurses' aid undoubtedly has its horrid aspects, but being one is in reality being a little sister to an army or navy nurse, without whom our boys in uniform would suffer. So, all you young women who have leisure enough to give two or three hours a day for seven weeks of training, and 12 hours a week thereafter, go to the Red Cross headquarters and sign up for the next classes. You won't soothe the brow of a wounded soldier or sailor, but you'll be doing work that is essential, and four nurses' aids can feel that they are releasing one trained nurse for duty with the armed forces.

This afternoon in Orchestra hall leaders of the 946 Chicago and suburban units of the volunteer productions corps of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross will meet to learn details of the production program for the coming year. Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, chairman of the corps, will preside. The speakers will be Mrs. James C. Cathcart, Miss Marie Youngberg, Mrs. Josephe Driscoll, Miss Marguerite Brown, Mrs. Grace B. Pettengill, Mrs. Charles Krutckoff, Mrs. T. D. Matthiessen, and Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr. There will be a style show of the refugee garments that the Red Cross makes, after which tea will be served by the canteen corps.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, chairman of the board of the American Women's Voluntary Services, and Mrs. Watson McLallen, president, will speak tonight at the first meeting of the Chicago Negro unit of the organization. The meeting will be held at the Metropolitan funeral parlor, 4445 South Park way. Mrs. R. A. Cole and Mrs. Irene Gaines have been elected to the board of the Chicago unit of the AWVS.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN

A WAAC Comes Back.

A WAAC we know returned from Fort Des Moines for a brief furlough this week-end. She revisited civilian life wearing what she says is the badge of the WAAC, a deeply tanned V on her neck, and a great enthusiasm for the art which was her forte in civilian life—cooking.

This young woman enlisted in the WAACs when her husband went into the navy. She was one of the best cooks on the south side, but she wanted adventure. She wanted to be in the WAAC motor corps. Well, she now is an auxiliary in the cooks and bakers' school at Fort Des Moines.

The other night she and four other c.'s and b.'s started in at 10 p. m. under the supervision of two master bakers. By 8:30 a. m. they had made enough cornbread to feed 2,500 for breakfast, 3,000 white rolls, 60 or 70 ordinary cherry pies, and 10 sheet pies. She made four of the sheet pies herself and rolled a thousand rolls. Then she went to bed and slept for an hour. She could have slept longer, but a friend woke her up. She says she didn't mind that. The only thing she really minded was that all the rolls, pies, and cornbread had been eaten up by 6 p. m.

She is the most enthusiastic cook we've met in years. She says WAAC cookery is a "challenge," and the girl c.'s and b.'s already have made radical changes in the menus. They even put across a supper of cold cuts, salad, and relish one night. Last Saturday when the first c. and b. class graduated, they cooked roast turkey for the whole camp, row upon row of roast turkeys with sage dressing and giblet gravy. "Better than I've ever eaten at home," she bragged.

She says there is only one drawback. The c.'s and b.'s don't get a chance to drill. We had heard the WAACs love to drill, but we had doubted it. It is a solemn truth. "I love it," she says wistfully, "and eventually we do hope to get in an hour's drill in the evening. We feel it would be a very good thing for the morale of our company. Why, I haven't yet had a chance to be in a single Saturday dress drill. . . ."

INSTALMENT XLI.
WISDOM OF YOUTH.

Actually James learned a certain amount about Rosemary, and the generation she represented, too. Some of it startled him. They were sitting in the sun one afternoon up near S. Laurent de Cerdans, sucking oranges—Rosemary had bought herself a pair of the local espadrilles, made of black tape, down at the little factory, and sat with her slender legs stuck out in front of her, wiggling each foot in turn and admiring the set of her new footgear.

In her gay jumper and short skirt, with her elaborate curled head, she looked the very picture of the frivolous modern young who were so much condemned by the moralists in 1939. They had been talking about women in journalism, and Genevieve Tabouis and Dorothy Thompson and Virginia Cowles, and Rosemary had displayed her usual familiarity with the character and outlook of all three, to his amused surprise. At last, idly, he asked her what she meant to do?

"O, nursing, I think," she said, raising her right foot and bending it to and fro, while she admired it critically, her head on one side.

"Why nursing?" he asked. It was the last thing he would have expected to hear.

"Well, you don't have to be much educated for it—which I'm not," the girl said, "and it'll come in handy when the war comes."

"What do you mean?" he asked, startled, hardly believing his ears.

"O, just the war—us and Germany and everybody else—Armageddon or whatever they call it," she answered, sticking out her left foot now, and twirling that. "One will have to be in it, you see. And nurses are always wanted—with air raids and things, more than ever, shouldn't you think?"

"When do you expect it to come?"

"O—'any moment now, chaps; any moment now,' as the Western brothers would say," she answered cheerfully.

"You're certain it will come?" he asked, realizing, confronted with her certainty, how much he himself had still hoped that it might somehow be averted.

"O heavens, yes. Obviously. Why? Aren't you?"

He didn't answer her question. In almost horrified concern and surprise at her attitude, he asked her another himself.

"How long have you been thinking this—that war was inevitable, I mean?"

"O, I don't know—about three or four years. When did sanctions break down? '36, was it? Well, about since them. And all this performance"—she moved her hand over her shoulder at Spain—"has just pushed it along a bit faster. And then Munich—we all near as a touch had it then."

"And do all the others at your school think the same as you do about the war?" he asked. He was at once appalled and fascinated by the picture she conjured up, of a whole generation of youthful creatures growing up in clear anticipation of this menace, this horror, and remaining the calmly frivolous beings they to all outward seeming were.

"All the older ones, naturally. From about the upper fourth, I don't know what the brats think. But if you ask me, I think all ideologies are lousy," said Rosemary with emphasis.

* *

One evening toward the end of March when Rosemary and Milcom were discussing as usual where they should go next day, she said—"Why not Prats? I've never seen it, you know. The books say it's a good church."

"But we went to Prats, right at the beginning," Milcom objected.

"Only to Camp Jems—we never went to the town."

"Didn't we? All right—let's go to Prats."

"Shall we take lunch, or can we eat there?"

"O, we can eat there—there's a quiet decent little pub in the town."

"Oke. Eight to start?"

"Yes—eight."

They set out from the tilted little square by the fountain punctually; the low sun, shooting thru the gorge of the Mondony, as it did for fifteen tantalizing minutes every morning, caught the higher branches of the great plane-trees, lighting up the spiky balls of seed which still dangled from the bare twigs, and gilding the shabby fronts of the houses opposite. James glanced round him before kicking away a rock from under the wheel of the car—just so he had seen the square now, a dozen times, in the early light, in the keen morning air.

"I'm getting quite fond of the smell of sulphur," he said, as he settled into the car beside Rosemary: "I shall feel positively deprived of it when I go away."

She laughed. "And mimosa—don't forget that," she said gayly. He must never knew how it took the fun out of everything for her even to think of his going away. O, well—don't let's think about it, she thought. He had gone away before, she had thought she would never see him again, and yet here they were, driving up to Prats together! And anyhow today was today. She began to whistle "Un seul couvert, pliss, Jems"—it was her sort of theme song for him; the nickname she had latterly begun to use was based, altho he didn't know it, on that song. James vaguely liked being called "Jems"—it was a long time since any one had used a nickname for him. He never bothered to ask why. But the song corresponded to one that was beginning to sing itself in Rosemary's heart, a small song that had besides the grave shy tenderness of youthful love, an element of joy, almost of hope in it.

Naturally, after these weeks spent tête-a-tête, she was much more profoundly in love with Milcom than she had been at S. Jean de Luz. And, for all her realistic warnings and cautionings of herself, she could not quite prevent a feeling that, as she put it, she had a chance—only a small chance perhaps, but still a chance. He was so nice to her. Clearly, he liked being with her. It would be far, far ahead, of course, but it did seem to her that he was getting over the condesa a tiny little bit. So her heart sang, and she whistled a silly modern song as they drove together up the winding gray road, between the mountain woods, bloomy and heavy with the swelling buds of spring, toward Prats-de-Mollo.

They had coffee at La Tech, a small village with an extremely modest inn, and then drove on to Prats. They parked in the big open space outside the eastern gate, where weeks before James had seen the Spanish ponies tethered under the wall, and then proceeded to examine the walls of the miniature city, with charming little pepper pot turrets in pink brick projecting from the angles.

"Where does that go?" Rosemary asked, pointing to a broad and rather well built road which crossed the Tech by a stout modern bridge, and wound up into the hills beyond.

"No idea—we'll ask"—and he inquired of the two gardes mobiles at the city gate.

"To the Col d'Ares, monsieur. It is the military road. But to traverse it is forbidden."

"Even with a pass?" James asked. The policeman requested to see the pass, and James produced the sous-prefet's well thumbed chit. "Ah, well—possibly," the man said. All the same it would have to be countersigned by the capitaine here at Prats, or the sentries would not let one pass. It was a route militaire, he repeated.

"Do you want to go up there?" Rosemary asked.

"I thought we might. We ought to get a fine view from the top. Let's get hold of this capitaine and see about it—we can look at the church when we come down."

The captain was in his bureau, in the big building just across the open place; after a little conversation he readily countersigned the sous-prefet's permit, and they got into the car again and drove off across the bridge. At the far end they were halted by a sentry, and again a few hundred yards further on by two more, but on showing the paper they were allowed to proceed. The military road wound up over the southern slopes in great looped curves; it was broad and well engineered, with easy gradients and stoutly built bridges and culverts, but it had not yet been surfaced; great piles of road metal, mostly a sort of pinkish granite, were heaped along it at intervals ready for use, but the road itself at present consisted merely of grass and greasy mud, deeply rutted, on which the Peugeot skidded and shied sideways like a nervous horse. Driving slowly and carefully James coaxed her up to a point where it flattened out on wide grassy downs, with thickets of broom and juniper here and there; it ran level for about a quarter of a mile, and then abruptly stopped. Just stopped, as if cut off with a knife. There was a sloping edge about two feet high where the foundations of the road ended, and beyond a narrow mule or char track, winding away round a shoulder of the hill.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

Good defense requires more than a thoro understanding of the mechanics of play. It also requires some of that simple, but indispensible, quality known as nerve. Consider today's hand.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's hand was not precisely right for his chosen opening of three no trump. That bid should be based on 4-3-3-3 distribution, but in all fairness is would be hard to point out a better alternative. An opening suit bid of two is not particularly desirable on a four card suit, and since South had a tremendous number of top tricks and double stoppers in every suit it would be captious to criticize his three no trump selection. Moreover, I venture to say that the contract would have been fulfilled against 99 per cent of the world's players sitting East-West.

West opened the diamond queen. Declarer won, perforce, then cashed the heart ace and entered dummy with a low heart to the jack. Now, with only one club trick needed to bring him to his nine trick goal, he led the low club from dummy.

This was the crucial point of the play. As I already have said, 99 Easts out of 100 would follow suit with a low club. They would not even think the matter worthy of thought. And, after that, declarer would have clear sailing. A club honor would force out West's ace, and it would not matter what he returned. A diamond continuation would take out declarer's last stopper, but it also would take out East's last diamond, and West's hand would cease to play any material part. Declarer would knock out the club king, win any return, and quickly claim his contract.

All this, however, is what would happen against almost all defenders. It did not happen in this particular case. This East was not only alive to the probabilities of the situation, but had the vision and nerve to set up an impregnable defense.

He put up the club king on dummy's eight spot! Now declarer was absolutely helpless. A diamond return removed his remaining stopper, and when he persisted with clubs for his ninth trick, West won and cashed three diamond tricks, for the contract's defeat.

Mother Needs Patience with an Ailing Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The young girl and her friend were having one of those pow-wows that are such fun when you've both been away all summer. Suddenly she stopped.

"O, I must go!" she exclaimed. "I forgot Johnny. He has a bad cold and he's ringing bells [you know the table bell that mother gives you when you're sick and far off upstairs], and pounding on the floor, and keeping mother on the run. He's the best kid when he's well, but when he's in bed he's a terror."

It does seem that way, doesn't it, when one of the children is sick and you are nurse and housewife and generally "chief cook and bottle washer?" At least it does unless you've had something to bring home to you what it means to be a prisoner in bed. I did, not long ago, when a touch of flu with quite a temperature kept me actually laid up for several days.

"I need more paper. No, not the heavy bond. Well, see if there isn't some copy paper left. This bottle of ink is empty. I think there's another in the drawer of the little black table. Do you mind getting me a cool, wet face cloth and the lilac toilet water—and my comb and hand mirorr? My fruit juice pitcher is empty. . . . Please take all this work away and put it out of my sight, I'm so tired. Let me have that new book I got from the library, and perhaps you'd better move the lamp while you're upstairs and then, if it gets dark, I won't have to call you again. . . ." It seemed to me I'd done nothing all day but ask to be waited on, and at that I'd tried not to, and had cut my wants down to a minimum.

When her child is very sick a mother forgets in her anxiety everything but doing her utmost to nurse him properly and comfort him, too. But when he's only slightly under the weather, but still confined to bed, or is past the worst of the illness and is convalescent, many mothers grow impatient or even cross with their young invalid.

But they shouldn't. Most of the waiting on that they ask for is unavoidable, as you realize when you're sick yourself. And if you add to that the fact that they don't feel well themselves, you should be able to be patient and good natured. In addition, I'd like to add, that these getting-well days can be times of real companionship and doing things together for you and your son or daughter.

Before closing today I shall add three practical suggestions:

1. Enlist in service a table for the bedside on which many things can be placed.
2. On this, and elsewhere within reach, collect as many objects as possible that your child may want or need.
3. Make a "reacher," which causes giggles and is fun to use, of two old curtain rods tied together with one end bent, a cane with a curved end lashed to a length of stick, or any other reaching gadget you can devise.

Kisses Given as Date Fee? Never, Girls

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"My girl friends are horrified that I will not let boys kiss me. They say that I should at least allow my escort to kiss me goodnight in gratitude for the money he spent on me!"

So, that's the way the girls figure it out!

How utterly stupid of them! We are sure that the boys would agree to the stupidity, did they know that it wasn't their grand company, or their handsome demeanor that was earning the goodnight kiss, but just the fact that they had spent money on the girl. Old men with nothing else to offer have to accept the painful knowledge that they'd never get a kiss if they didn't have a full pocketbook, but we hardly suspect young men of responding kindly to this interpretation of girls' responses to their advances.

Ask some of them about it. Don't take our word for it. Ask them if the fellow would be satisfied with an explanation that he's kissed because he spent money on the girl. Ask if his heartbeats would be accellerated with such an explanation. We think the young escort would be furious were he let in on the mystery of why he is kissed.

Then, too, girls, there is the little matter of putting a value on yourself; being what they call the hard to get girl, which is a mighty intriguing rôle to play.

You spend money to get yourself all fixed up to go out with a boy, don't you, for hairdo and manicure, new frock, costume jewelry, etc.? Would you like to feel that he wanted to kiss you goodnight just because he summed up the total of your expenditures and felt it was his duty to reward you with a kiss?

Wouldn't that be a pretty state of romance? we ask you.

No, young women, don't be so full of gratitude for an evening out. Men don't like girls who are brimming over with gratitude. Be gracious, of course. Say you had a wonderful time if you had it, but don't feel that you must pay a tax on your date. Your own good company should be sufficient. Do a bit of rationing of your kisses.

When you buy eggs, demand them fresh. They should be refrigerated at your dealer's, for an unrefrigerated egg quickly loses freshness and flavor. At home you should keep them in the refrigerator at all times. When you remove the breakfast eggs from the carton, put the box immediately back into the cold temperature.

Egg whites whip best when warmed to room temperature, so in this one case it's permissible to let an egg sit around. Break the egg right out of the refrigerator, however, for a cold egg separates much more easily than a warmish one.

Chilled eggs keep well. Eggs which were put into cold storage in fine condition keep well for weeks and even months after they are laid. Don't try to keep fresh eggs in your refrigerator that long, tho. You can't control temperature, humidity and ventilation properly!

Keep eggs away from strong flavored foods, for their porous shells absorb flavors readily. If you have some country eggs which come to you a little on the dirty side, don't wash them until you are ready to cook them. You can wipe them off with a piece of rough cloth, but if you wash them you'll remove a protective coating which increases the tendency to absorb flavors.

You can tell a fresh egg from a stale one by the way it holds up or doesn't hold up, when you break it. A newly laid egg of good quality will have a firm round yolk which stands up, almost like a ball when broken, and a thick white which looks gelatinous and clings around the yolk. A stale egg flattens out all over, and has a runny white. The yolk of a stale egg is likely to break and run when the egg is broken.

Good, fresh eggs deserve the best in cooking. An egg is extremely sensitive to heat, and toughens up if it's cooked at too high a temperature. That's why you scramble eggs in the top of a double boiler [or don't you?], and bake angel and sponge cakes, which are very eggy, at 300-325 degrees. That's why you never boil an egg [or do you?].

A boiled egg is not a tender one, and it usually has a dark sulphur ring around the yolk. Eggs should be soft or hard cooked, never actually boiled. The water in which they are cooked should steam, but its surface should not be broken by bubbling. Some cooks prefer to use a double boiler for most of their egg cookery, placing eggs to be hard cooked in hot water over boiling water. It takes half an hour this way, usually, but the eggs will be ever so much more tender than they would have been had they been boiled rapidly for a shorter period.

A fresh hard cooked egg has a centered yolk. Eggs which aren't so fresh come out of the cooker with their yolks off center, perhaps even nestling against the shell.

Only fresh eggs should be poached or fried, for only fresh ones will stand up enough to look beautiful this way. An egg that flattens in the poacher or skillet looks unappetizing enough to disillusion any breakfaster.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 21.—Walter Brennan at last has got a part to his liking. In "Nothing Ventured" he finds, he thinks, his adopted daughter, Lana Turner, only she isn't. But during the picture Walter gets to kiss her twice as often as the leading man, Robert Young. And as Walter said, "And shucks! I'm getting paid for it." . . . We sure do strange things here. James Allison, who certainly looks alive, is playing the lead in "I Walked with a Zombie." . . . It's even money that Dorothy Lamour, Paulette Goddard, and Veronica Lake, singing their song, "A Sweater, a Sarong, and a Peek-a-boo Bang" for the army show at Madison Square Garden in New York will steal the spotlight.

Pioneer Days.

Jimmie Walker, former mayor of New York City, is New York bound after a much needed rest here. When his friend, William Gaxton, said, "Are you really going to act?" Jimmie replied, "What do you think I've been doing all these years? But I've done it without smearing grease paint on my face." . . . Jimmie stopped by Bob Leonard's table at Romanoff's, and they reminisced about a bit of picture history. About 20 years ago, Bob starred Mae Murray in "Peacock Alley." It was the first big silent dancing picture, so far ahead of its day no one wanted it. They had to do something to put it over, so gave a terrific showing in the Peacock room at the Commodore hotel. Squeezed 2,000 persons into a place which holds 700, served champagne and caviar, had Nubian slaves fanning the big shots with peacock fans, a fine orchestra, and John Steele singing. And just as the picture was going great guns, it stopped. Seems there was a sheriff to arrest them, because somebody claimed they'd stolen the title. What to do? It was Walker who came up with the suggestion they take the sheriff down the hall, give him a drink, and lock him up—which they did. The picture went on, and that got Bob a three year contract.

Ramblings.

A star-studded gallery turned out for the final day of tennis. I sat with the Bob Leonards in the box next to Cary Grant, and asked Cary when he was going to join the service. He said, "I'm waiting until they tell me what to do." In the meantime, David Hempstead is going right ahead with "Bundles for Freedom," which Cary's supposed to be in. . . . Barbara O'Neil completed the nurses' aid course in Santa Barbara, and she's now working in the general hospital up there. . . . Harry Carey, who's playing a flying sergeant in "Air Force," can't even drive an automobile. . . . Warners are working up to their own kind of "Devotion," hoping to star the two sisters, Joan Fontaine and Olivia De Havilland in it. I wonder if all those feuding stories that have been flying around weren't just a great big build-up. Could be. Funnier things than that have happened here.

On the Job.

Well, you can sit back and relax. Eddie Mannix of Metro is in Washington conferring with Donald Nelson about the war effort. When I asked Eddie what for, he said, "Search me! I suggested for scrap metal they take all front and back fenders off motor cars, and was told that wouldn't be a drop in the bucket." Well, if they really want scrap, why not take all those bumpy bits out of the center of roads, also those safety zone spikes, which rip your tires to pieces and pleased no one except tire makers. . . . Now that the play about Woodrow Wilson, "In Time to Come," will be written into "Goodbye, Dolly Grey," Twentieth Century-Fox is aiming to get Eddie Ellis for it. Had Eddie done the play in New York last winter, it would have been a different story. But he wouldn't leave sunny California.

War Did It!

Grace and Ray McDonald, brother and sister, were a dance team in New York. Since coming here, they've been signed by separate studios. Ray's now in the medical corps at Sawtelle. And the other night Grace got a bunch of her friends and went down to entertain veterans of the last war. Ray was in uniform, and this was the first time in a year he'd danced with his sister. . . . Attention, horse lovers, owners, and racing fans. Some time in February a group of American business men will open at Mexico City as fine a race track as Santa Anita, and will offer the largest purse in racing history—$125,000.

Gathers in the Sheaves.

When Ann Sheridan came back from that location at Del Monte, she discovered that her animal kingdom had fled, and there was Ann, out in the valley with a flashlight, trying to round up her donkey, dogs, chickens, etc. . . . We've had silly rumors, but the silliest I've heard is that Jan Struther author of "Mrs. Miniver," is the daughter of Dame May Whitty! . . . A patron at Slapsie Maxie's asked Ben Blue why he always wore a derby on the stage. Said he, "The only time I ever went on the stage without it was 15 years ago in Detroit. A sandbag fell on me head. Why should I take another chance like that?" . . . Princess Der Ling, author and former lady-in-waiting to China's dowager empress, is a new member of our colony and trying to break into pictures.

My Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

History is hazy regarding the short and turbulent life of Edgar Allan Poe. He was born in Boston in 1809 and died in Baltimore in 1849—but what happened to him in the interim has been more the guess than the knowledge of his biographers.

Twentieth Century-Fox makes no attempt at authenticity. From gleanings gathered here and there, the producers deal mainly with the women in his life and the effect they had on his career.

Four women there were—and all good, according to the movie. . . . His adored foster mother, Mrs. Allan; Elmira Royster, his first love; his aunt, Mrs. Clemm, and his cousin, Virginia Clemm, whom he married and who, from the time of their meeting, is supposed to have been the beat of his heart and the inspiration of his brain.

From wee boyhood Poe is shown to have been a sensitive and unusual child. . . . Asked in later years as to the recipe for his peculiar and completely original brand of writing he replied: "I combine the romantic, the bizarre, and the analytical."

The picture picks him up at the time of his adoption by the Allans, just after his mother's death, and has it that the narrowness and lack of understanding displayed by Allan greatly contributed to Poe's natural morbidness. . . . The movie follows Poe thru unpropitious days at college thru literary failures and successes, thru poverty and drunkenness—and complete moral breakdown after the death of his adored wife.

It is an interesting picture, beautifully acted. . . . John Shepperd was the perfect choice for the rôle of Poe. . . . He is so sure—so intuitive. . . . Never was there a finer bit of emotional acting than in the scene where he passionately takes his dying wife to task for even hinting that there COULD be another woman.

Linda Darnell is exquisite and appealing as Mrs. Poe. So is the blonde and slightly lisping Virginia Gilmore as Elmira. . . . You will love Mary Howard and Jane Darwell as Mrs. Allan and Mrs. Clemm, respectively. . . . Thomas Jefferson is briefly and memorably portrayed by Gilbert Emery.

The picture is brief and pleasingly lacking in histrionics. . . . Sets, costumes, and photography are effective, and the director showed a nice touch.

See you tomorrow.

Moisture laden air can cause mildew and mold in a short time, as many of us have found out during the recent tropically humid days we've been having here. If you want to rid the basement or a damp closet or storeroom of excess moisture put a new contrivance, a drying unit there. It draws dampness from the air and thus helps to protect clothing, furniture, leather goods, etc. This little invention which comes equipped with six refills costs only a couple of dollars and is well worth it.

Granny's Pets Go to Town in Fashion World

BY REA SEEGER.

Survivals and revivals are going strong! Wicked winking black jet jewelry beloved of our grandmothers, shines all over the town. Bracelets, chokers [of course], longer necklaces, chest pins, clips, and decorative buttons are lined up for extra accent duty on all your new fall and winter clothes.

This is the stuff that shines so enticingly against copper brown, goes gay '90 on cerise and scarlet, winks magnificently from dress parade jackets and dinner clothes of dull black. Some of the stuff even gets on shoes, and tiny sparklers glitter on veils and hats and gloves and bags.

Another pet of granny's day is any material that can be quilted and padded. You can now buy quilted and padded velveteen by the yard. Scarlet, cerise, Empire green lime, chartreuse, and royal blue are a few of the shades. This is the stuff for snug little daytime jackets to contrast a dull black dress or skirt. Or for wind repellent linings in your winter cloth coats and capes and for lounging outfits such as pajama coats that swing around the kneeline or for full length house coats for chilly mornings [when they do come].

This quilted and padded velveteen also is used for eye-catching small hats and matching bags or even muffs, or for cuffs and collars on a wool coat or jacket. Satin that gleams like patent leather is padded and quilted and can likewise be found in the yardage departments in a wide range of colors.

Fringe, ball and string type; braid, in all sizes, widths, and formations; jet and bugle beading on band by the yard and in decorative ready to sew on designs; pompous looking military braid; applique pieces, some long enough and wide enough to cover half a chest; frogs, of all sizes; tassels of beads, fringe, chenille, and silk—all are the rage of bygone eras of trimming splendor, and they have come back to be a sell-out for this year's fashions.

Capital's Social Battles Boom Beauty Business

BY MARTHA MURPHY.

Washington social feuds and teafights mean good business for Emile Beauvais, who has coifed the heads of Washington's greatest ladied for for than 30 years. Emile, a short, shy, gray-haired man, is past president of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists association now meeting in the Hotel Sherman. He will speak at an evening session of the convention tomorrow.

Emile has seen Washington social leaders come and go. When he opened his first shop [he now has six] in 1906, Teddy Roosevelt was President and his beautiful daughter, now Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, was the belle of Washington. Today, two other Roosevelts visit his elegant salons—young Sara Delano and Kate Roosevelt, daughters of Maj. James Roosevelt.

"It's been a long time since I've done any hairdressing for an inaugural ball," Emile said wistfully yesterday. "Washington women today ask for short, easy-to-care-for bobs. They have many parties to attend and much war work to do and haven't much time for fancy coiffures. However, the beauty business in the capital is booming and shops are booked solid with appointments daily."

Mrs. Lawrence W. Robert, wife of the former secretary of the Democratic national committee, is the loveliest lady in Washington today, Emile said. "She is one of the few who still have long hair and it's a perfect complement to her exquisite features."

Another Washington woman who clings to her long locks is Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, widow of the late senator from Illinois. Many, like Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the former governor of Pennsylvania; Mrs. Harry Hopkins, and Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, owner of the Hope diamond, prefer short hair cuts.

For 35 years Emile has dressed Mrs. McLean's hair. It was bright red when her mother first brought her into the shop. Now it is gray.

"She let me hold the Hope diamond once," Emile recalls. "It was just before a big party at Friendship, her estate, and I had waited to brush her coiffure after she finished dressing. I used to design many special arrangements for the costume parties she used to give. Now the only entertaining she does is a luncheon party for 100 or 150 guests every Sunday."

Visiting royalty always causes a flurry in the social circles of the capital and often open feuds develop over who gets to entertain the "lions" first, Emile said. And feuds always bring a rush of calls for appointments in beauty salons, he added.

Emile met the duke of Windsor this summer when he was called to the British embassy to dress the hair of the duchess.

"The duke said, 'Sit down, M. Beauvais. I've heard so much about you from my wife,'" Emile recalled yesterday. "And so I sat down and we talked of the World war and my experiences in the Argonne. The duke and his wife—she calls him Don—are charming."

Thru the Looking Glass

Not all the troublesome little skin outbreaks are caused by functional skin disorders. A surprising percentage of them are due to just one thing—dirt infection.

It may very well be that shoulder straps that are less than immaculate or dark clothes that don't journey often enough to the cleaner's have a great deal to do with the blackheads and pimples that appear on so many backs and shoulders. A great many of us aren't as fastidious as we'd like to think we are, and we're inclined particularly to cheat on cleanliness where it doesn't show. The first step in clearing up the back marred by eruptions is to scrub it furiously and frequently. The friction is good "exercise" for the skin that will help normalize the flow of oil. And the thoro removal of grime will be beneficial too.

But that isn't enough. Everything that touches the skin should be perfectly clean. In cases of extreme sensitivity, where the skin flares up in pimples almost constantly, it's often a good idea to tack clean white cloth across the back of dresses that aren't washable. The cloth should be changed daily, of course.

And daily cream and soap and water cleansings aren't enough for the skin of the face either. Remember, especially if your skin is sensitive, that fingers, handkerchiefs and, above all, powder puffs can carry grime that causes simple infections. Antiseptic cleanliness of everything brought in contact with the skin is as important as medication for outbreaks. And there is an excellent chance that the antiseptic cleanliness may make medication unnecessary.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Male Insight.

"What," pondered the vice president of a Chicago store which has just opened a business girls' shop, "is the difference between a career girl and a business girl? They both want to get married!"

Pleasure and Profit.

"May a has-been white collar girl add her contribution to the discussion about what to do after work hours? I spent mine learning to play the organ and 'to sew a fine seam,' both a pleasure and profit these war days. The church music is a welcome interlude in a seven-day schedule with two small children, and the sewing a dollar-clipper on the clothes side of the budget. Chicago offers endless opportunities to learn new things, and a look-see over the Tribune school ads may give an idea of what to do with those valuable hours."—Alice.

Clothes as Usual.

A survey of 57,000 young women employed in Chicago business firms to determine tastes and preferences in clothes is resulting in more and more right-priced things within the reach of the girl who earns her living. A surprising uniformity of opinion was found in these questionnaires supervised by Charm Magazine. Most of the girls like suits best and are willing to pay more money for a suit than for any other single garment except a top coat. The girls agree pretty well too that shoes rank near the top of expensive purchases; they'll spend three times as much for a pair of shoes as, for example, for a hat; five or six times as much for shoes as for gloves. Stockings, of course, are still the bugbear in the story of how the business girl spends her money.

Time, it was revealed by the survey, is almost as precious these days as money, so noon-hour shopping must be confined to a well-arranged, compact department. Colors, it was learned, are the popular choice for the office [black for dates], so the boss who doesn't like brightness mixed with Big Business will have to put on his sunglasses!

Does the young business woman react favorably or unfavorably to her co-workers' costumes? She certainly does . . . claims she feels better . . . works better . . . finds her job more interesting when attractive outfits are worn around her.

War or no war, it's business clothes as usual.

Women Wanted.

Civil Service is busily recruiting junior graduate nurses, graduate nurses, and assistant nursing education consultants—at salaries from $1,620 a year to $2,600 a year. No written examination is required; and there's no age limit for applicants for these jobs, which will be in federal agencies and dispensaries.

Women for public health work are also needed [$2,000 a year] and staff dieticians [$1,800 a year] for army hospitals thruout the country. Hospital attendants [not required to have previous experience] are also in demand. They must pass a physical test.

For full information write or go to the United States Civil Service Commission, Room 1107, New Postoffice, 433 West Van Buren street, Chicago.

Men who go into service can rightfully expect that those who are equipped to fill these essential positions will do so, promptly and willingly. If you know any one who can qualify, ask her to get in touch with the Civil Service commission at once.

Not his great wealth—but the string of more than 1600 public libraries which he built across the country give Andrew Carnegie his most enduring fame.

READING meant more to him than all his millions

BOBBIN BOY in a Pittsburgh cotton mill at 13, working from daylight till after dark for $1.20 a week.

Telegraph messenger at 14—"lifted into Heaven," he said, at being able to bring home $11.20 a month to his mother.

What chance had such a boy to get an education?

He told, years later, what it meant to him, a shabby, ambitious youngster, when Col. James Anderson opened his private library to working boys, lending them a book a week to read in their spare time.

"To him," Andrew Carnegie wrote, "I owe a taste for literature which I would not exchange for all the millions that were ever amassed by man."

TODAY this taste for literature, this priceless democratic habit of reading, is cultivated and developed in more than 7,300,000 homes in this broad land by the greatest "circulating library" in the world.

Into these homes there goes, every week, the equivalent of a full-sized book, in the pages of The American Weekly—the magazine distributed from coast to coast through 20 great Sunday newspapers.

These "books" have a unique character. They have achieved what every publisher dreams of: a nearly universal appeal in a magazine that knows no barriers of age, sex, class or taste.

The American Weekly gives genuine recognition to the hunger for romance, adventure, sensation and excitement in the lives of millions. Its stirring stories from real life—its pages rich with tales of love, crime, intrigue and emotional adventure bring color and glamor to multitudes of busily occupied and hard-working people.

Its articles on the thrilling advances in science, the little-known or newly discovered facts of history, biography, medicine, art and religion, are presented with a simplicity and vividness that make them easily understood by all; yet so complete is their authenticity that copies are used every day by instructors in schools and scientific institutions all over the country.

Who can calculate the influence of such a library of the people? Who can predict how many Andrew Carnegies are in the making in its 7,300,000 homes!

The national advertiser who associates his product with such a tremendous "circulating library" is tying it up with the greatest force known in advertising. He is making his advertising message, like the rest of The American Weekly, the reading habit of more than 7,300,000 American families.

THE BIGGEST BUY IN ADVERTISING

A cycle of 13 BIG COLOR PAGES in The American Weekly at $18,000 each, or a total of $234,000 (less 4% discount), to run every fourth week throughout a year, represents the greatest consumer and dealer force in the entire field of advertising.

CARDS MAINTAIN 2½ GAME LEAD; FIVE TO PLAY

HIGBE FANS 11 AS BROOKLYN BEATS PHILS, 3-1

Si Johnson Suffers Another Loss.

If——

HOPES of the Brooklyn Dodgers to capture the National league pennant grew dimmer yesterday despite their victory over Philadelphia, for the St. Louis Cardinals also won to stay 2½ games in front.

If the Cardinals win only three of their remaining five games, the Dodgers must win their remaining six to gain a tie.

If the Cardinals win only two of the five, the Dodgers can win the pennant by taking their remaining games. In this case the standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Brooklyn	104	50	.675
St. Louis	103	51	.669

Remaining schedules:

St. Louis—Sept. 22, Pittsburgh; Sept. 23-24, Cincinnati; Sept. 26-27, Chicago.

Brooklyn—Sept. 22, New York; Sept. 23, Philadelphia; Sept. 24-25, Boston; Sept. 26-27, Brooklyn at Philadelphia.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 21.—The distraught Dodgers this afternoon kept alive their frail National league pennant possibilities by beating the earnest but inadequate Phils, 3 to 1. All the runs were made in the first inning, giving the spectators a chance to watch the St. Louis-Pittsburgh score board, which, however, showed nothing but zeros when Pinch Batter Chuck Klein ended the game by becoming Kirby Higbe's 11th strikeout victim.

The losing pitcher was that willing native of Marseilles, Ill., Si Johnson, who, at the age of 34, has been playing quite a part in this Cardinal-Dodger pennant business. Last Tuesday Si pitched 14 sterling innings against the Cards, only to be nosed out, 3 to 2. Saturday, in a relief rôle here, he lost in the 11th by walking four Dodgers for the winning run.

Phils' Errors Aid Dodgers.

Today, after the Dodgers had made their three first inning runs, all of which were unearned because of errors by Lloyd Waner and Nick Etten, Johnson yielded only four hits, and only one between the first and the seventh inning.

Higbe, tho he was confronted with loaded bases before he witnessed the game's first putout, was in excellent, albeit rather wild form as he registered his 15th victory. He yielded four hits—an infield scratch by Ron Northey in the first inning, an outfield single by Northey in the third, a single by Waner in the fifth, and Northey's third in the eighth inning. The last two safe ones were nullified by double plays.

At the outset it appeared the Dodgers still were suffering from the choking fits that have made breathing so difficult for them these last two weeks.

Higbe Runs Into Trouble.

Higbe, in the doghouse for 10 days, started out by walking Merrill May. Waner then bounced to Camilli, but Dolph, in an attempt to get a double play under way, hit the advancing May in the back. Northey caromed a single off Bill Herman's glove and the bases were loaded. The three gents stayed on base while Danny Litwhiler and Etten popped to Peewee Reese and Higbe threw two strikes past Bill Burich. Then Higbe cast a wild pitch, May scoring. Burich struck out.

The Dodgers, while far from happy, seemed pleased when they made those three unearned runs in their first inning. With one down, Etten mishandled Vaughan's slow bouncer, after which Arky was forced by Pete Reiser. Camilli singled to center, putting Reiser on third. When Waner threw the ball to the stands in attempting to get Reiser at third, Pete

MOON MULLINS—DIRTY WORK

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

OFFICIALS of the Cincinnati baseball club were thrown into a dither when they received reports of a sandlotter across the river in Kentucky who had batted .568 in 40 games and had made 27 home runs. . . . Scouts were rushed to the scene. . . . They returned with the information that the big leaguers would have to wait a spell for the phenom. . . . The average age of the sandlot club was 10 years. . . . Don Faurot has turned out two Big Six conference champions and two bowl participants in his seven year tenure as coach at Missouri, but Bob Waldorf, younger brother of Northwestern's Lynn, is the only one of his products who is coaching at this writing. . . . Bob was head man at Simpson college in Indianola, Ia., before joining Tom Stidham's staff at Marquette. . . . Merv Pregulman, 207 pound junior center on the Michigan varsity, proved himself the Hercules of the squad last week when the boys, coaches included, took turns on a grip-testing machine. . . . Merv registered 98, Clarence [Biggie] Munn, assistant coach, 95, and the average for the squad was 60. . . . Ward Bond, who played football at Southern California, portrays John L. Sullivan in the movie "Gentleman Jim." . . . Errol Flynn has the name rôle, which, of course, represents Jim Corbett. . . . Jock Sutherland's Pitt coaching staff in 1935 included the following who now are head coaches: Bill Kern, West Virginia; Dr. Eddie Baker, Carnegie Tech; Howie Odell, Yale, and Charley Bowser, Pitt. . . . Bill Werber claims an injured toe which refused to heal influenced his retirement from baseball, but the boys "on the inside," whatever that means, insist the heat generated by Bill's smart alecky magazine article had a lot to do with it. . . .

Big Six conference schools have had 23 head football coaches in the last 12 seasons. . . . The Newark Bears, who won the International league pennant by a comfortable margin, had a club batting average of only .270. . . . Jimmy Grant came to the White Sox on a trial basis, but the south siders seem to be sold on him. . . . Jim sports the No. 5 which was retired when Jim Dykes quit third base for bench duty. . . . Tony Musto, Chicago heavyweight, weighs 199 pounds, altho he is only 5 feet 7½ inches tall. . . . Batting star for the last place Rome club in the Canadian-American league was Johnny Lasplaces. . . . Eight members of the Marquette university starting eleven, as it now lines up, are native Milwaukeeans. . . . Pvt. Johnny Grodzicki, former Cardinal, has won 13 games while losing only three for the Fort Knox nine and is batting .403. . . . Pitcher Jim Turner, acquired by the Yankees from Newark, played 12 years in the minors before getting his first chance in the majors.

MARQUETTE TO USE 8 SOPHS IN KANSAS OPENER

Stidham Rates Starting Eleven Satisfactory.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 21.—In the middle of the 1941 season Tom Stidham, then in his first year as head coach of the Marquette university football team, concentrated on development of a group of sophomore players. Now as Marquette prepares for its opening game with the University of Kansas in Lawrence Kan., Saturday afternoon, eight of these boys are members of the varsity.

Marquette's starting eleven, which Stidham rates as satisfactory after two weeks of double drills, is completed by one senior and two juniors. Apparently Marquette will have one good team, altho this group already has lost the services of Melvin Maceau, junior center, by injury. Maceau fractured his ankle last week. While the team physician says he will not return for two or three weeks, the coaches hope he can play part of the game against Wisconsin a week from Saturday. Stidham, however, is immediately concerned now with development of Marquette's reserves.

7 Sophomores on 2d Team.

"For our kind of a schedule, a team is no stronger than its replacements," Stidham observed today. "Our second eleven is made up of seven sophomores, three juniors, and one senior. What Marquette accomplishes this fall depends as much on them as on the boys who will open the season in Lawrence, Kan."

Like all football coaches, Stidham takes each game as it comes and worries about each. Kansas was overwhelmed Saturday by the Iowa Seahawks, but Stidham pointed out the caliber of the cadet squad as self explanatory. Moreover, he is particularly concerned because when he coached at the University of Oklahoma, Kansas frequently upset his well prepared plans. He fears this has become a habit, altho Marquette defeated the Jayhawks last season, 33 to 7. Actually, of course, Stidham is pointing for the all important Wisconsin game as well as subsequent contests with Michigan State, Detroit, Great Lakes, Manhattan, and other opponents.

First Four Games on Road.

Marquette plays its first four games away from home base and then meets five rivals in Milwaukee. Announcement was made yesterday that, in view of local employment conditions, the Manhattan and Great Lakes games will be played on Sunday, Nov. 8 and Nov. 15, respectively. The Manhattan game will be homecoming for Marquette graduates.

While the Hilltoppers won only four games last fall they were not beaten badly except by Duquesne and Oklahoma, two of the nation's top flight teams. Detroit managed a one point victory and Mississippi and Michigan State were held to one touchdown margins. In the course of the campaign Marquette established three all time national collegiate records. Marquette completed a record number of 96 forward passes, had an average of .589 for percentage of completion of all pass attempts, and Jimmy Richardson set an individual national record for completions with a mark of .637.

Richardson has been graduated and so were the regular 1941 full back and right half back. Whether Marquette can develop an air threat comparable to 1941 depends on inexperienced left half backs and full backs. Ray Carlson of Milwaukee, who started each 1941 game at right end, has been shifted to right half.

Strzykalski Is Key Man.

Marquette's attack will center around John Strzykalski of Milwaukee, and Wayne Johnston of Lubbock, Tex., who now are rated one and two, respectively at left half. According to Ted Carpenter, Marquette's efficient director of publicity, Strzkalski and Pat Harder, Wisconsin's full back, are the "finest football players developed in Milwaukee High school since the days of Ed

They Have a Right to Be Happy!

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Happiest of the happy Cardinals are these three who played leading roles in yesterday's 2 to 1 ninth inning victory over the Pirates to keep the St. Louis entry two and a half games in front of Brooklyn in the National league Derby. Left to right: Martin Marion, who scored both runs; Ernie White, who pitched a six hit game, and Jimmy Brown, who drove in Marion each time.

JAX GIRLS BEAT CHICAGO, 4-1, FOR SOFTBALL TITLE

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21 [Special].—The Jax team of New Orleans became national girls' softball champions tonight by defeating the Garden City Maids of Chicago, 4 to 1, in the tournament final in University of Detroit stadium.

It was the Jax girls fourth straight victory of the meet, and Pitcher Nina Korgan barely was deprived of her fourth consecutive shutout. She missed when Shirley Jameson doubled to right in the seventh inning, and scored when June Bradley threw wildly to second.

Clinch Victory in First.

The New Orleans girls clinched the ball game and the title in the first inning when they scored all their runs. After Miss Korgan had retired the Chicagoans on strikeouts, the Jax girls put together two perfect bunts, a fielder's choice and two long singles for their tallies.

Shirley Dressander started on the mound for the Garden City Maids, but was relieved in the first inning by Joan Winter who allowed only two hits in the six and two-thirds innings she pitched. Score:

Chicago Garden City	000	000	1—1	3	3

Batteries—Shirley Dressander, Joan Winter and Gloria Olson; Nina Korgan and Dotty Pitts.

Oilers Win Men's Title.

The Deep Rock Oilers of Tulsa, Okla., were crowned men's champions after winning two games tonight, 2 to 0, from the Zollner Pistons of Fort Wayne, Ind., and the Briggs Bombers of Detroit.

Sig Lawson, star of Tulsa's pitching staff, hurled both games for the new champions, yielding only four hits in the first and one in the second. He struck out 11 in the title contest with Detroit.

Tulsa also aided in dethroning the Bendix Brakes of South Bend, Ind., by defeating them, 3 to 2, Friday night.

A double, a walk, a sacrifice and another double scored the winning runs for Tulsa in the third inning against Detroit:

Tulsa Oilers	002	000	0—2	4	1
Detroit Briggs Bombers	000	000	0—0	1	4

Batteries—Sig Lawson and Elbert Conaway; Harold Blumpke, Ed Figelski and Adam Filpczak.

JAX TO PLAY ROCKOLA.

The Jax Girls will open a four game series with the Rockola Music Maids in Rockola stadium, 4200 N. Central avenue tomorrow evening.

Cards' Coach Has One Track Mind After Second Victory

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The Chicago Bears came home yesterday from their wanderings in the east. They——

"Yes, it's a great feeling to be on top," said a smiling Jimmy Conzelman yesterday, still slightly slaphappy over the Cardinals' 13 to 0 shutout Sunday night over the Detroit Lions in Comiskey park. The Cards thus became the first National Football league team to win two games this season.

The Bears will start practice today for their league opener Sunday with the Packers in Green Bay. George Halas, coach——

A Unit for Only Two Weeks.

"Never had such a bunch of boys," declared Conzelman. "Reminds me of my 1938 team at Washington university, down in St. Louis. We won 6 out of 9 that year. Just think, this team I've got now has been a unit for only two weeks. Honestly, if four All-Americans were to come up and offer their services I'd still have to give preference to these boys who have given the Cards their best start in years."

Coach Halas is hopeful that Sid Luckman, his No. 1 quarter back, will be ready to turn loose his play magic on the Packers, and——

"When did we last win our first two games, Motsy?" asked Conzelman of Phil Handler, his coaching aid, who as player and line instructor, has been with the team for a dozen years.

"I don't think I can remember that far back—maybe 1935," answered the one time Texas Christian university player. "But I'll tell you about something more important. After the game, Gil Duggan and Chet Bulger, the big tackles, came up and asked if they had charged right. I'll say they charged O. K., but what I liked better than that was their attitude."

Bears Win 13 in Row.

The Bears' winning streak now has reached 13 straight games. A previous long string of triumphs was broken on Nov. 2 last season when the Packers won, 16 to 14, in Wrigley field. The Bears followed this setback with five league victories, then decisions over the Packers in a play-off for the western title, the New York Giants for the league crown, and the league All-Stars. In this new season they have won five exhibition games, rolling up 145 points to——

"Ray Apolskis will be ready for our game in Pittsburgh next Sunday," said Conzelman. "And you can bet he's going to be the captain again. He's been our captain in the last two league games. When he's out of there, Marshall Goldberg's the captain. The line of succession ends with Conway Baker.

"Banonis? Sure, Vince played a great game at center after Ray got that kick on his left thigh. A week ago, I said I'd settle for six wins in our 11 league games. I'm not so sure that would satisfy me now. We need only one more victory to tie our 1941 record and we've got nine to play."

Four with Packers and Bears.

Four of those nine are with the Packers and the Bears. Last year the Cards came close twice against the Packers and once against the Bears. It's a good bet that they'll win at least one of the four, if not two. Curly Lambeau, coach of the Packers, saw the Cards hold down the Lions' strong running attack to 58 yards, and he was impressed. He brings his Packers into Comiskey park a week from Sunday night.

The Bears—"Oh, let the Bears go out and get a reputation," rasped Conzelman with a make-believe snarl, and then started all over talking about his league leaders, using such words as terrific, stupendous, speedy, artful, opportunists, and powerhouse.

Cubs End Home Season Today in 2 Games with Reds

The Chicago Cubs will end their home season this afternoon by playing two games with the fourth place Cincinnati Reds in Wrigley field. The Cubs have no chance to dislodge the Reds, rather their problem is to stay ahead of the sixth place Pirates.

After today, the Cubs will rest until Saturday and Sunday when they play single games with the Cardinals in St. Louis.

Two rookie pitchers will be employed this afternoon, Ed Hanyzewski and Henry Wyse. Hanyzewski, the South Bend sandlotter who was with the Cubs early in the season, was a star with the Milwaukee Brewers. Wyse has been impressive in two big league starts since coming up from Tulsa. All these youngsters have to do is face Paul Derringer and Johnny Vander Meer as mound opponents. This also is a special ladies' day. The first game will start at 1:30 o'clock.

The Cubs, by winning two of their four remaining games, will duplicate their 1941 record when they won 70 and lost 84 games.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 21.—The Cardinals, who despite a scarcity of base hits, are running themselves toward a world series on sheer leg power, shaved 24 hours from the remainder of their task today by skimming off a last minute 2 to 1 triumph in a combat with Frankie Frisch's Pirates.

The leg power today was furnished by Martin Marion, the slat-like shortstop. In the fifth inning he dashed home all the way from second to score on Jimmy Brown's infield single.

In the ninth these two again collaborated to dissolve a 1 to 1 tie achieved in the seventh by the Pirates. With one out in the ninth, Marion was passed by Hank Gornicki, himself a refugee from the Cardinal chain gang. While Pitcher Ernie [Lefty] White was at bat, Marion set out on a steal of second and beat Al Lopez' throw with yards to spare. The Cards' leg man trotted to third on White's infield out. Then Brown looped his single into right. Marion went home and so did 4,894 fans.

38th Victory in 47 Games.

So the Cards remained two and a half games ahead of the frantic Dodgers, those once delightful bums who on the morning of Aug. 6 were breathing easily with a 10 game lead. Since then the Cardinals have captured 36 of 43 games, 13 by one run margins.

Altho the Pirates were able to hang on doggedly, they finally had to reveal their long standing dislike for southpaws—in this case White, who until today could boast of only a 5 and 5 record for the season.

The Pirates learned quickly that White was easy to hit, but at the same time exceedingly tough. Jim Wasdell lined a double to left center with one out in the first inning, but White set down the next two batters without the ball leaving the infield. Gornicki then began his day's work by fumbling a bunt with which Brown opened the Cardinals' attack. All that followed were three outs. However, the pacemakers did break in with a hit at the start of the second, a double by Walker Cooper. He still was on second when the inning closed.

Marion Starts Running.

The Cardinals came up with their second hit in the third inning. Harry Walker singled to right, but two were out at the time, and the third out appeared with the next batter—Enos Slaughter. The Pirates' second hit was a single with which Bob Elliott opened the fourth, but Walker put on a high speed gallop to grab Elbie Fletcher's short fly, and Vince DiMaggio bounced into a double play. Then Lopez singled with one gone in the fifth and this completed the hitting until a few minutes later.

Whitey Kurowski fanned in the fifth before the Cardinals began to

DEVALUE RUNS PAST MORDECAI IN STRETCH RUSH

Pays $7.20 to Backers at Hawthorne.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Devalue came thru with a strong stretch run to win the Gallant Fox purse yesterday at Hawthorne. Steve Brooks had Mordecai out in front by two lengths at the head of the straightaway while four rivals were lined up head and head in an effort to catch the old fellow.

For a time it seemed possible Brooks might be able to keep him running long enough to win, but then Devalue moved up from the ranks of the pursuers and overhauled the leader about 200 yards from the finish. Freddie Smith drove him on to beat Mordecai by a length and a quarter, Emolument being third.

Emolument Made Favorite.

Emolument, a 3 year old filly which has delivered something in performances in her own class during the last few weeks, was established as the 6 to 5 favorite against the colts and the older handicap performers she encountered yesterday. The job was a bit too hard for her, however, and she was unable to put over her customary strong finish.

Devalue, the 5 to 2 second choice, returned his backers $7.20, $3.80, and $2.40 across the board.

Emolument and Devalue raced side by side at the rear of the pack while Royal Crusader was making the early pace in this mile and a sixteenth gallop. Going into the turn out of the back stretch the leader began to weaken and Mordecai took command on the swing around the curve. Meanwhile Emolument, Devalue, and Haichow were moving up on even terms with Royal Crusader, these four being side by side as they came into the stretch. From his position on the extreme outside Devalue then launched his winning drive.

Breaks Up Parade of Favorites.

Distant Isle broke a steady succession of victories by favorites. This 4 year old filly scored at a little less than 7 to 1 in the fifth race of the afternoon, a 6 furlong dash which drew a field of eight sprinters.

While Ballinderry and That-a-Boy were fighting for the lead, Don Hauer was rating Distant Isle along in the second flight. Saving ground on the turn into the stretch, Distant Isle moved up on the inside, took command without much effort and then drew clear to beat Ballinderry by two lengths. Yesteryear was third. Ariel Bird, the favorite in this event, finished fifth.

The prices on Distant Isle were $15.40, 7.60, and 4.60.

COLUMBUS WINS A. A. PLAY-OFFS IN 4 STRAIGHT

Toledo, O., Sept. 21 (AP).—The Columbus Red Birds, third place club in the American association during the regular season, tonight won the championship in the Governor's cup play-offs, beating Toledo, 6 to 1. It was the Red Birds' fourth straight victory over the Mud Hens in the final round of the play-offs. George Munger was the winning pitcher.

The Red Birds eliminated Kansas City, which finished the regular season in first place, in the first round of the play-offs, while Toledo's fourth place team had advanced at the expense of second place Milwaukee. Columbus will now play the winner of the International league's play-offs in the Little World's series. Syracuse is leading Jersey City, three games to none in the International series. Score:

LA GRANGE COACH REGRETS JOB OF DEFENDING TITLE

West Suburban Champs Lose with Consistency.

Coach Charles H. [Chuck] Bennett ordinarily is not a superstitious man, as members of his La Grange High school football team will testify. But, when he contemplates the ill fate of defending a West Suburban conference title, he shudders.

Chuck Bennett.

He is fully aware no West Suburban team has successfully retained its championship in recent years. In fact, Bennett says, during the three year period, from 1938 to 1940, the defending title holders—Maine, Glenbard, and Downers Grove—succeeded in acquiring a combined total of one conference victory among them.

Has Good Backs.

To combat this jinx, La Grange will utilize the talents of a trio of backs whom, it is Bennett's admission, compare favorably with any in the conference. At full back, he will call upon versatile Chuck Wallner. As a sophomore, Wallner was named all-conference tackle. Last season, he was selected all-conference guard. Today, as a candidate for all-conference full back, the 178 pound Wallner is the fastest member of the squad.

Sharing the back field with Wallner will be Phil Spina, a triple threater, and Art Sandusky, a reserve back from last season. Spina, another all-conference selection, throws, runs, and kicks with equal efficiency. Sandusky, an understudy to Bob Bischman, all state half back last year, weighs 160 pounds.

Line Presents Problem.

It is in the line Coach Bennett is finding most of his problems. The left side will include a pair of returning regulars, Frank Hopper, a 6 foot end, and Tom Finch, a 250 pound tackle. From the left guard position on, Bennett concludes, the line will be comprised of inexperienced players.

Bennett won THE TRIBUNE's Most Valuable Player award in 1928 when he was captain and all-conference half back for the Indiana university eleven.

SMILIN' JACK—GETTING A FOOT-HOLD ON THE SITUATION

INTEREST PICKS UP IN ALL-STAR BOWLING MEET

Rules to Reach Managers Tomorrow.

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

Interest is growing among the Chicago and suburban bowlers who believe they can battle their way thru local and national preliminaries and the national finals to the individual match game championship held by Ned Day.

Bowlers are among the world's most optimistic contestants, and most of the eligibles—those who averaged 190 or better in sanctioned league play last season—feel they can not only survive the Chicago preliminaries, which run Oct. 17-18, 24-25, Oct. 31-Nov. 1, but can fire their way thru the trials of the All-Star tournament in the Auditorium Theater service men's center, Dec. 5 thru 10 and into the field of 10 finalists, which shoots Dec. 11, 12, and 13.

Tribune Charities Sponsors.

The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America are to sponsor the All-Star tournament.

Members of the Bowling Proprietors Association of Greater Chicago, which is underwriting the installation of the 12 alleys in the service center, are asking about rules for the preliminaries. Those rules will be in their hands tomorrow, the committee of Barney Hochstadter, Jack Samuelson, Jerry Peck, Lee Johns, and Louis Petersen having finished work on them.

The proprietors wishing to hold preliminaries in their houses to determine the eight Chicagoans who will go into the All-Star competition will have to notify Math Luecker, secretary of their association, by midnight a week from tomorrow. The houses will be selected the next day at the proprietors' meeting.

Oct. 10 Deadline.

Bowlers intending to enter will have to file their entries with Luecker at his home address, 1738 Addison street, by midnight Oct. 10. The preliminaries open a week later. The entry fee is $25, plus bowling. Each entrant will roll 28 games. He will be grouped with seven other entrants and will meet each of them in a four game match. Scoring will be by the Petersen cumulative point system.

Bowlers in cities thruout the country also have been making inquiry about the All-Star event. Newspapers in a number of cities already have written they will hold preliminaries similar to Chicago's. Among these is the Detroit Free Press. The Free Press expects Detroit to provide next year's champion. Its entry includes Johnnie Crimmins, who is to battle Day for Ned's title during the All-Star preliminaries, and if successful will go back into the final field. It also has Joe Norris, who finished first in the preliminaries last year and was runner-up to Crimmins in the final. In all, Detroit is to furnish 12 men for the All-Star preliminaries.

Urge Hunters to Eat Ducks, Save Feathers

BY BOB BECKER.

Every duck and goose hunter in the middle west can render a service to Uncle Sam during the next few months by saving all down and small body feathers of wild ducks and geese bagged this hunting season as a reserve against a growing scarcity of commercial eiderdown. By bringing home every waterfowl shot and using it for meat in the home [thus saving our fresh meat supplies] and by conserving feathers from these birds, sportsmen can help in two ways when they unlimber their shotguns next month.

Eiderdown [normally imported] is used to line high altitude aviators' garments, sleeping bags for troops in Alaska, etc. Imports now have been curtailed by the war and all available supplies frozen by WPB order.

Aid of Sportsmen Needed.

Government contractors declare ordinary waterfowl down, usually thrown away, is a good substitute, but legally unobtainable except thru the coöperation of sportsmen during the hunting season.

Ducks Unlimited, which is behind this movement urging hunters to save duck and goose feathers, says that the 1942 bag of waterfowl would provide enough down and feathers for 300,000 aviator's pants and parkas, more than 150,000 sleeping bags and 500,000 subzero down jackets for service men and civilians alike.

Here are the specifications on goose and down feathers required for garment use: all duck and goose feathers LESS than 2½ inches in length and plucked DRY. You can ship sacks of these feathers to Ducks Unlimited, 83 Columbia street, Seattle, Washington. Name and address of donor should be written on the shipping tag.

Double Barreled Purpose.

Ducks Unlimited has agreed to do this: It will forward the feathers to manufacturers as needed. All money received from sales to these manufacturers will be turned over to a fund for the establishment of waterfowl refuges. Thus the money from feather sales serves a double barreled purpose of building up a feather reserve and aiding waterfowl restoration.

2 ERRORS IN 6TH HELP TIGERS BEAT SOX, 6-4

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21 [Special].—Profiting by two errors in the sixth inning, the Tigers took the first of a two game series from the White Sox in Briggs stadium this afternoon, 6 to 4.

The margin of Tommy Bridges' victory over Joe Haynes could easily be traced to two wild throws by the Sox. First, Jimmy Grant, recruit third baseman, pulled Don Kolloway off the bag after fielding a grounder by Dutch Meyer, who led off for the Tigers in the sixth. A single by Don Ross and a pass to Pinky Higgins loaded the bases with none out.

Trouble Develops for Sox.

Dixon Parsons tapped the ball to the mound and Haynes threw Meyer out at the plate. Then, trouble developed for the Sox. George Dickey, trying for a double play at first base, threw the ball almost to the right field screen. Ross and Higgins scored on the error.

Earlier, the Tigers had earned three runs. In the second inning Ross sent a home run into the lower left field seats and in the third, Barney McCosky drove the ball into the lower right field pavilion after Doc Cramer had singled.

The Sox started their scoring in the fourth. Thurman Tucker opened with a triple to center and went home on an infield out.

Two More for White Sox.

Two more Chicago runs developed in the seventh. Bill Mueller and Don Wells singled. As Dickey struck out, Mueller was caught trying to steal third. A pass to Haynes and an infield single by Kolloway filled the bases. Heim singled to center, scoring Wells and Haynes.

A pass to Higgins and singles by Parsons and Bridges gave the Tigers a surplus run in the eighth. Kolloway added one for the Sox in the ninth when he hit into the lower left field stands for a homer.

Greenwood Lake, N. Y., Sept. 21 (AP).—Sgt. Joe Louis was given the day off by his trainer, but the heavyweight champion, accustomed to the hardy life of a soldier, ran six miles before breakfast and later faced four different sparring partners in the outdoor ring. After all this activity, Louis weighed 213 pounds.

find their way into the run column. Marion beat out a roller to Frank Gustine close to second and White sacrificed. Gustine dashed back onto the grass to his left, scooped up a legitimate hit by Brown and whipped it to first, but too late to get the decision. Marion kept on sprinting toward the plate and Fletcher wasn't prepared for the unexpected. He finally threw, but Marion's feet arrived simultaneously with the ball and there wasn't even room enough for Lopez to make the catch.

Pirates Pick Up a Run.

Elliott opened the seventh with his second hit and Fletcher complicated the job for White by singling off the right field screen, Elliott taking third. DiMaggio hoisted a fly into center, not far enough to assure a runner an easy dash from third to the plate. Nevertheless, Elliott made the break and scored the tying run. The Cards didn't think about intercepting Walker's peg, so Fletcher tore down to second. White got out of it, however, by fanning Gustine, passing Lopez, and nailing Gornicki on a fly.

Looks Like John Beazley Will Be Host at Series

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 21 (AP).—All because of a promise made jokingly six years ago, Johnny Beazley is likely to have guests for the world series if the St. Louis Cardinals win the National league pennant.

Back in 1936, long before he entered professional baseball, the young Cardinal pitcher penned this promissory note:

"I promise to send tickets to the first world series I pitch in to Wop Elliott, Bill Riggins, and Joe Howard."

The three played with Beazley on a Nashville high school team then. They still have the note. When reminded of the promise, Beazley said, "I'd sure like to have to make good on that pledge."

SWEET TO LEAD N. U. CLUB GOLF FIELD THURSDAY

Art Sweet, the defending champion, will lead a field of 300 in the annual golf tournament of the Northwestern university club of Chicago at the Tam o' Shanter Golf club Thursday. Sweet, a former Wildcat golf star, has won the title four times.

He will encounter stiff competition from four members of the present Northwestern team including Capt. John Stoltz, Manuel de la Torre, Burt Abrahams, and Edward Greer. These players, along with Coach Ted Payseur, round out one of the strongest fields ever entered in the tournament.

The football coaching staff, headed by Lynn Waldorf is entered, but may limit its activity to the evening dinner.

You like its taste... because it's PRIME * MATURED

Experts of another era knew that the choicest whiskies were those aged in barrels placed high on the top racks of the warehouse, where air temperatures were favorable and constant. Those whiskies were prime in quality because they matured evenly... more softly and luxuriously. Today's experts prefer Ancient Age for the same reason. Every drop is *prime*matured* by a scientific duplication of this "top-racking" process. Prime*maturity explains why those in the know prefer the flavor of Ancient Age... sip by sip, from bottle to bottle...

Have you tried Ancient Age straight...or in a highball?

The "prime*maturing" process is just one of the many costly flavor-controls designed by Ancient Age experts to assure its consumers of continuous quality and luxurious, yet modestly priced, good taste.

SCOUTING REPORT CAUSES WALDORF GRAVE CONCERN

Seahawks Strong as 61 Points Indicate—Rusness.

Coach Lynn Waldorf's worry over Saturday's inaugural between Northwestern's Wildcats and the Iowa Pre-flight eleven was increased yesterday by the scout report submitted by Coach Litz Rusness, who saw the Seahawks roll over Kansas, 61 to 0, Saturday.

Coach Bierman's team is every bit as powerful as the score indicates, Coach Rusness said, and there is little to distinguish between the first two teams the Seahawks sent against Kansas. Rusness was particularly impressed with the Seahawks' strong passing attack which accounted for three of their nine touchdowns.

Four former Wildcat stars are members of the Seahawk eleven and will see action Saturday. They are Cadet George Benson, full back, a member of last year's team, and Ensigns John Haman, center; Bob Daly, end, and Bob Swisher, half back. Don Heap, captain of Northwestern's 1937 team, is assistant coach.

The Wildcats dropped their double practice routine yesterday in favor of a single afternoon drill. Most of the period was devoted to dummy scrimmage as the players concentrated on assignments and signals.

EVASHEVSKI MOVES UP.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 21 [Special].—Ensign Forrest Evashevski, the former blocking star for Tom Harmon at Michigan, drew favorable comment from Coach Bernie Bierman for his efforts in the 61 to 0 rout Iowa's Seahawks administered Kansas Saturday.

Evashevski, noted for his blocking, played an important pass catching part in this game and took over the starting quarter back duties from Iowa's Al Couppee.

FORDHAM DEFENSE PLANNED.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 21 [Special].—Methods of stopping the Fordham offense led by Steve Filipowicz were outlined in detail here this afternoon by Coach Elmer Burnham as the Boilermakers prepared for the intersectional opener with the Sugar bowl champions here Saturday.

Burnham pointed out Fordham has enjoyed a reputation as a defensive team, but last fall, for the second straight year, the Rams were the leading offensive eleven in the east with a 327 yard average. The Rams were also the leading forward passing team in the east last season, completing 45 of 125 attempts for an average 114.3 yards per game.

Purdue's problem of developing a capable defense was complicated by casualties in Saturday's game with the freshmen. With Ewell O'Bryan, letter man from Terre Haute, on the sidelines with a shoulder dislocation, Bruce Warren remains as the lone left tackle of experience.

RAMS DRILL FOR PURDUE.

New York, Sept. 21 (AP).—Following Saturday's scrimmage, Fordham took it easy today as it went into the final week of practice for the opening of the season against Purdue in Lafayette.

The linemen were given individual instruction in tackling and blocking which Coach Earl Walsh sent the varsity thru a short signal drill and then called his players together for a blackboard talk after dinner. Benny Babula, reserve full back held out of the scrimmage by a knee injury, was back in uniform. The team will entrain Thursday night.

Jankowski." Johnston, who was headed for Texas Tech at Lubbock, Tex., when Pete Cawthon was coach there, but who has preferred to play under Stidham after Cawthon entered military service, is rated on the same level.

Strzykalski runs and kicks as well as he passes and he has keen competitive spirit. In the first backfield with him are Carlson, Bob Dams, Milwaukee junior quarterback, and Carl Schuette, sophomore full back from Sheboygan, Wis. Dams quit the team in mid-season last year to enlist in the army air corps, but returned to the university when he failed to get a pilot's wings. After this season he will try for a commission in another classification in the air corps. Because of his place kicking he gets the starting assignment at quarterback over Alois Vogt, another Milwaukee High school graduate.

Battle for Full Back Post.

Schuette is engaged in a fight with another sophomore, John Rudan, for the full back post, and at this time he has an advantage in condition. Rudan has been injured but he is expected to be of great value in the attack and in backing up the line.

Marquette will have extremely capable ends. Ray Kuffel, Milwaukee junior, will start at right end, altho he played the opposite flank last fall. This change advances John Harrington of Reedsburg, Wis., to the starting left end assignment. Harrington, on the second eleven last year, was Marquette's leading scorer because of his pass catching skill. Other ends are John Hildebrandt, junior from Milwaukee, Orlando Palesse, Pittsburgh, Pa., sophomore, Frank Schweers, and William Caldwell. Schweers is one of two seniors on the two top teams. The other is Al Klug, left tackle on the starting eleven.

Klug is hailed as one of the finest linemen in Marquette football history. Bob Korda, sophomore from De Paul High school, Chicago, is his understudy. Leslie Kalchik, a junior, is the starting right tackle. The varsity guards are George Groves of Hammond, Ind., and Charles Reger of Toledo, O., two of the group on which Coach Stidham concentrated his efforts after early 1941 games. Bob Fritz of Milwaukee, has replaced the injured Maceau and he would be a greater center if he weighed 20 pounds more. James Sullivan, son of the former White Sox pitcher, Lefty Sullivan, is a center prospect, and Martin Silovich of De Kalb, Ill., has been moved to this position from left guard because of Maceau's injury.

Coach Stidham Ill.

Coach Stidham also was a casualty today because of a severe cold he contracted while scouting the Camp Grant-Wisconsin game last Saturday, but he drove to the stadium to watch his assistants put the squad thru drill.

Personnel of Marquette's first and second teams, with asterisks denoting sophomores, follows:

Center—Mel Maceau [injured], Robert Fritz, James Sullivan.

MARY HARDWICK TO PLAY TENNIS FOR RED CROSS

Miss Mary Hardwick, famous English tennis player, returned to Chicago yesterday from a season of exhibition matches in the east to prepare for the Red Cross relief program at the Chicago Town and Tennis club Oct. 4. Dorothy Round, twice world's singles champion, and Bobby Riggs, former amateur and professional title holder, will be among the headliners who will compete. This will be Miss Round's first appearance in Chicago. Officials expect to make $1,000 for the Red Cross fund.

WILKINS NAMED COACH.

Manhattan, Kas., Sept. 21 (AP).—Lysle Wilkins, Kansas State's football captain last season, today was appointed to coach the freshman team, which will play a brief schedule with service elevens from Fort Riley.

3d Year at Center

Greencastle, Ind., Sept. 21 [Special].—Bill Becker, senior veteran who played high school football for Maine Township High, Park Ridge, Ill., again will be the starting center for the DePauw university Tigers.

Altho he weighs only 160 pounds, he has been regular center for the Old Gold squad for two years. Five feet ten inches tall, Becker makes up for his lack of height and weight by his fast play. As one of the six returing letter men, he is certain to see plenty of action.

During his senior year at Maine Township he helped the team win the West Suburban conference title. This year he is concentrating on helping the Tigers win the Monon bell from Wabash.

Badgers Lose Seelinger for Irish Contest

Madison, Wis., Sept. 21 [Special].—Coach Harry Stuhldreher drove the second and third string Wisconsin teams thru a lengthy scrimmage today as the opening move in the Badger preparations for their contest against Notre Dame in Camp Randall Saturday.

Wisconsin hopes for defeating the Irish for the first time since 1928 took a severe blow when Len Seelinger, who started at left half against Camp Grant, did not respond to treatment for his badly bruised hip. Seelinger's loss is keenly felt as the Badgers lost their third prospective left half Saturday when Frank Granitz was declared ineligible.

The one optimistic note for the Badgers was the reappearance of high scoring Pat Harder in scrimmage. The star full back saw only field goal kicking activity against Camp Grant, but he exhibited some of his 1941 form in today's scrimmage.

EVANS, MILLER RETURN.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 21 [Special].—The hospital list at Notre Dame took on a note of distinction today when Coach Leahy reported with a stiff back and what appeared to be the beginning of a case of flu. He nevertheless directed a practice in which plans for Saturday's Wisconsin game at Madison predominated.

Freshmen who demonstrated Badger plays in dummy scrimmage were selected on the basis of their physical resemblance to such Cardinal stars as Pat Harder, full back; Elroy Hirsch, Len Seelinger, and other talented half backs; and lineman Dave Schreiner, all-conference end last year. They also wore jersies bearing the numbers of the most dangerous Wisconsin stars.

Owen [Dippy] Evans and Creighton Miller, half backs who missed spring drills and then got hurt in the first scrimmage this fall, may be able to appear, according to Trainer Eugene Young.

TWO BLOCKING BACKS REPORT.

Two new blocking backs—Edward Lesnick, formerly of Illinois Normal, and C. E. Jacobson of Central, Oklahoma—yesterday reported to Coach Paul Hinkle as Great Lakes naval training station opened its final week of preparations for the opener against Michigan in Ann Arbor Saturday.

Lesnick, whose home is in Berlin, Wis., was captain of the 1938 Normal eleven. He also was a member of the 1939 Chicago Tribune All-Star team which played the New York Giants. He is 6 feet tall and weighs 195 pounds.

MICHIGAN POLISHES PASSING.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 21 [Special].—Michigan had a light workout this afternoon as it polished its passing attack for Great Lakes Saturday in the opening game of the season for both teams.

Coach Fritz Crisler sent the squad thru a lengthy signal drill before getting down to contact work which was sparked by triple-threat Half Back Tom Kuzma.

Still handicapped by a bruised arm, Tackle Jack Karwales, Chicago boy being groomed for starting right tackle, was in uniform today but did not see action. Full Back Don Boor is definitely out of the Great Lakes game because of his knee injury.

Eric Tipton of Reds Will Be Inducted on Oct. 2

Petersburg, Va., Sept. 21 (AP).—Eric Tipton, outfielder for the Cincinnati Reds, will be inducted into the army from Petersburg on Oct. 2, his draft board announced today. The former Duke university football star will report to the Richmond induction station for final examination.

GOPHERS REGAIN SIKICH, ECKBERG FOR PITTSBURGH

Panthers to Practice in Minneapolis Friday.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 21 [Special].—As the University of Minnesota football squad started its final week of practice for the opener with Pittsburgh here Saturday it gained two important additions. One was Carl Eckberg, six foot five inch junior end who is regarded as one of the best pass catchers on the squad, and Rudy Sikich, tackle who was injured last week. Eckberg was delayed in his practice start by service with an engineering school surveying squad.

With registration coming up, the Gophers will concentrate on one practice a day hereafter.

The Pittsburgh squad will arrive Thursday night after having breakfast in Chicago and will work out in the stadium Friday afternoon.

BOWSER NAMES 33.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 21 (AP).—Coach Charley Bowser announced he will take a squad of 33 University of Pittsburgh football players to Minneapolis for the opening game of the season Saturday. He intimated Walter West, Bill Dutton, Jack Stetler and Frank Saksa will make up his starting back field.

McMILLIN SEEKS RESERVES.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 21 [Special].—The search for reserve replacements at the end and tackle positions was renewed here today as Indiana started its final week of preparation for the opener Saturday with Butler, which lost to Xavier, 21 to 14, last Saturday.

ELIOT INDICATES SHIFTS.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 21 [Special].—Two possible shifts in the Illinois starting lineup were indicated today as Coach Ray Eliot began preparations for the opening game against the University of South Dakota here Saturday.

Ray Grierson, junior letter man, appeared at left end instead of Jim McCarthy, and Buck Correll at right half back, which has been filled by Steve Sucic. Correll, a junior, was a reserve full back last season. Correll's punting ability may be a factor in winning him a position in the starting backfield.

South Dakota, runner-up in the North Central conference last year, uses the T formation which was demonstrated to the varisty today.

QUARTER BACK INJURED.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 21 [Special].—Bob Lauterbach, senior center of the Iowa team, may miss this week's Nebraska game due to a badly bruised knee suffered in the first play Saturday against Washington university of St. Louis.

Coach Eddie Anderson indicated Iowa's lineup is due for some radical changes this week, especially in the line. He had praise for the work of Tom Farmer, veteran half back, and Sophomore Full Back Chuck Uknes in the Washington game.

HUSKER CENTER INJURED.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 21 (AP).—Nebraska's chances of victory over Iowa Saturday were clouded today by the possibility Forrest Bachman, only experienced center, may miss the game.

He suffered a sprained wrist in practice and is taking it easy in hopes the rest will permit him to see action. Wayne Stranathan of Glenwood, Ia., a guard, may take over the center assignment.

BROWN FAVORS EXPERIENCE.

Columbus, O., Sept. 21 [Special].—Ohio State started its final week's preparation for the 1942 season opener here Saturday with Fort Knox, Ky., on a one practice a day basis.

It appeared certain, despite performances of several sophomore candidates on the squad, Coach Paul Brown will stick to his original first team selection, stressing experience. Hal Dean returned to his regular guard position, deposing Bobby Jabbusch. The rest of the probable starting line against the soldiers will be: Bob Shaw and Dante Lavelli at ends; Charles Csuri and Bill Wills at tackles; Lin Huston at the other guard and Bill Vickory at center. In the backfield, the improved Paul Sarringhaus will be at half back with Les Horvath, Gene Sekete at full back and Capt. George Lynn at quarter back.

WORLDS BEATS ALTUS ALLEN IN MARIGOLD BOUT

Clayton Worlds, former Chicago Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, was awarded a split decision over Altus Allen, in a 10 round bout in Marigold Gardens last night. Referee Walter Brightmire voted for Allen, but Ed Hintz and Carl Witt, the judges, scored for Worlds.

Worlds piled up a big margin in the early rounds with long left jabs and right crosses to the face. Allen weighed 195 pounds and Worlds, 193.

Alvin Gomez, south side lightweight, won a decision in six rounds over Henry Gowatch of Detroit. The 1,114 spectators, who contributed to a $1,588 gross gate, booed Gowatch's showing.

In other bouts Al Walker, Chicago welterweight, stopped John Kardos, also of Detroit; Dickie Cook, Peoria, 130 pounds, beat Pete Bolas, Detroit, and Jimmy Martin, Hines, Ill., junior welterweight, conquered Sam Scully. Each of these matches went four rounds except the Walker-Kardos encounter, which ended in the third.

FIXES NORTHERN LUMBER PRICES AT 1941 LEVELS

OPA Order Also Affects Canadian Producers.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP).—Northern hardwood and softwood lumber producers were ordered today by the Office of Price Administration to roll back their prices to approximately the levels of October, 1941.

The regulations, effective Wednesday, bring under specific price control one of the few remaining branches of the lumber industry not now under special price orders.

Specific dollars and cents prices for virtually all standard and near standard grades of northern lumber were set forth, as well as a formula for pricing special grades and items.

The regulations cover hardwood and softwood lumber produced in Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin, and certain softwood lumber produced in the Canadian provinces of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba, and shipped to buyers in the United States. This affects Canadian producers indirectly by setting a limit on the prices United States buyers may pay.

Restores Competitive Basis.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson said the new regulation will tend to restore normal competitive relationships between northern lumber and lumber from other areas, most of which already is under price ceilings fixed levels of Oct. 1-15, 1941.

The regulations apply only where shipments originate at the mill, with sales from distribution yards remaining under the general price ceiling. Concentration yards are treated as mills.

For administrative convenience in fixing ceilings, Canadian lumber produced in Alberta and British Columbia has been assigned a Spokane, Wash., basing point, while lumber produced in Manitoba and Saskatchewan has been given a Baudette, Mont., basing point.

Fruit, Jelly Formula Set.

The official formula under which packers will figure their higher prices on the 1942 pack of fruits, jellies, jams, and preserves also was announced by OPA.

Adjustments in wholesale and retail prices, expected to increase the cost to consumers by about 15 per cent, will be authorized soon.

The packers' regulation, which parallels those for canned vegetables, fruits and berries, and frozen foods, is effective Sept. 26 for most fruit preserves, jams, and jellies, and Oct. 1 for apple, boiled cider, crabapple, grape, and quince flavors.

BREWSTER AERONAUTICAL.

What information do you have on Brewster Aeronautical corporation? Was this company taken over by the government recently and has it since been returned to private management?—F. S.

Answer: This company was formed originally to manufacture aircraft engines and parts. These operations became of secondary importance in 1939, when the company began to produce training and observation planes for the armed forces from designs provided by Consolidated Aircraft corporation. In 1941, facilities were devoted almost completely to production of dive bombers. An expansion program has been financed by company and government funds.

The navy department last April took over operation of company plants at Long Island City, N. Y., Newark, N. J., and Johnsville, Pa. The navy gave insufficient production as the reason for its action. Several weeks later the navy relinquished control of the plants.

Brewster Aeronautical was incorporated in 1937 in New York as a consolidation of a company of the same name formed in 1932 and the Work Engineering corporation. Capitalization at the end of 1941 was 521,756 shares of $1 par common outstanding and a mortgage obligation of $318,750.

A record of recent financial results follows:

	Sales.	Net Income.	Div.
1941	$27,482,961	$ 12,808	$0.30
1940	10,112,301	280,057	0.25
1939	960,591	9,976	0.20
1938	1,490,339	223,879	0.30
1937	712,824	19,328	0.05

Brewster stock is listed on the New York Curb exchange and ranged in price from 2 to 17⅝ from 1937 thru 1941.

PENNSYLVANIA P. & L.

Do you have the earnings figures for the 12 months ended July 31 for Pennsylvania Power & Light? How many times were fixed charges covered?—T. Y.

Answer: Pennsylvania Power & Light had a profit of $5,041,657 in the 12 months ended July 31, compared with $8,268,756 in the fiscal year ended July 31, 1941. The company covered fixed charges 1.89 times in the 1942 fiscal year, against 2.44 times in the preceding year.

IN RECEIVERSHIP.

What percentage of class I railroad mileage in the country is in receivership?—R. D.

Answer: About 30 per cent.

U. S. ECONOMIC SYSTEM CALLED WORLD MODEL

Stolper Warns Tax Perils Reserves.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The social and economic system that emerges in the United States after the war will be the model on which other countries will rebuild their societies, Dr. Gustav Stolper, a leading economist in pre-Hitler Germany, predicted yesterday. Stolper spoke at the opening session of the convention of the Controlers' Institute of America. More than 900 controlers, treasurers, and other financial officials of American corporations are attending the three day meeting.

In making its choice, America decides for the world, Stolper asserted. Any choice other than the retention of the capitalist system seems out of the question, he declared. He warned, however, that dangers beset the free enterprise system in the United States because of economic blunders that have been made. He emphasized the importance of a sound system of taxation that will not prevent business enterprise from accumulating adequate reserves.

Capital Need to Be Vast.

"The need for capital after the war will be greater than ever before," he said. "We must see to it that we do not destroy our own future productivity by making it impossible for business enterprise to survive. If we do so the demands upon the government will be multiplied."

Mass unemployment will not be permitted to return after the war, Stolper said. It is merely a question whether the government or private enterprise will be called upon to prevent it. Until the war ends, he said, the government will encroach further and further upon the private life of the people.

"We may be certain," he said, "that by the end of the war people will be fed up to the limit with all restrictions, limitations and government interference and will yearn for the first chance to get rid of them.

Predicts Real Opportunities.

"Opportunities will be of unprecedented scope. By 1944 every American household will be depleted largely of its accumulated stocks of apparel, shoes, furniture and the like. Thirty million homes will have to be re-equipped, and several million new ones built. At the same time, our productive machinery—outside of special plants for war purposes—will be worn out. American industry will have to rebuild from top to bottom, with new machinery for new and old lines of goods."

By the end of the war, Stolper predicted, the United States will be the only great industrial power with its physical facilities and social fabric intact. Large scale American help will be needed to rebuild other countries.

"Only private enterprise," he declared, "can do this job in a free society. The alternative to the free society is the gestapo [German secret police]. Men either act under the rules of generally accepted reasonable behavior—this alone is meant by the profit motive—or they must be told by an outside force what to do. There is no doubt how the American people, faced with this alternative, will decide."

Sees Victory Next Year.

Stolper predicted that the war in Europe will end with a military defeat for Germany in western Europe in the spring or summer of 1943. It will end by military action, not because Germany cracks within, he said. The war in the western Pacific, he added, may last longer.

Stolper has been in America since 1933. Before that he was economic advisor to several large European banks and had served as a member of the German reichstag from 1929 to 1932 and as a member of the German delegation to the league of nations in 1931. He left Germany when the Hitler government came into power.

Another speaker at the same meeting expressed the belief that another 12 to 18 months will bring the war "to an end or very near it." The speaker, A. W. Zelonek, president of the International Statistical bureau, said the end will be hastened or delayed, depending on when a decision is made to create a unified military command.

Asserts Germany Fails.

Germany failed, he said, to defeat its enemies singly by blitz methods. Now against her will, she is fighting a war of attrition, a type of warfare she cannot win.

T. C. McCobb, controler and director of the Standard Oil company [New Jersey] was elected president of the institute. He succeeds John A. Donaldson, vice president and treasurer of Butler Brothers, Inc., Chicago. Donaldson presided at yesterday's convention sessions. Edwin W. Burbett, controler and assistant secretary of A. B. Dick company, Chicago, was elected a vice president of the institute.

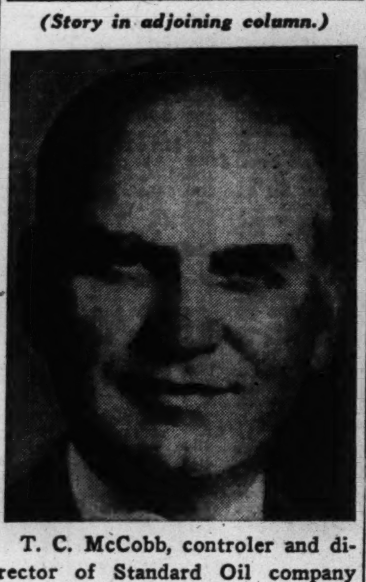
(Story in adjoining column.)



T. C. McCobb, controler and director of Standard Oil company (N. J.), who was elected president of the Controlers Institute of America yesterday.

Fewer, More Informative Reports Urged

The multiplicity of reports that the business man is called upon to fill out in war time and the financial problems involved in working for the government occupied the attention of delegates to the Controlers Institute of America convention in the Palmer House yesterday.

Dr. Stacy May.

Dr. Stacy May, statistical director of the War Production board, assured the convention that everything possible was being done to eliminate unnecessary and duplicating government reports.

"The government," he said, "is not getting too much information, but too little. But some of the information is superfluous.

Blames Ex-Businessmen.

"We are doing our best to eliminate duplicative requests, or requests for which there is no clearly defined need. But it should be recognized that those responsible for policy determination and administration of operations are the ones who define information needs."

Ninety per cent of these executives, he added, are men fresh from the ranks of private business and their first action is usually to order a questionnaire on some subject.

Stuart A. Rice, assistant director of the bureau of the budget in charge of the division of statistical standards, was not optimistic concerning the future volume of government form reports required of business and industry. He asserted flatly such forms are a "tide which will rise higher still," despite efforts to reduce their numbers.

Stuart A. Rice.

Discussing the program of the budget bureau for simplification and standardization of business reports to the government, Rice declared that every statistical proposal should be judged by its importance to the war program. It it does not meet this test, he said, it should be "killed or deferred to a time when we can afford the luxury of disputation over peacetime goals."

Renegotiation of government contracts as early as possible was urged by H. T. McAnly, partner of Ernst & Ernst, accountant firm.

Losses Can Be Offset.

Concerns holding fixed-price government contracts, he said, should determine as soon as possible the profit trend. When future profits can be projected, immediate renegotiation can start.

Altho the renegotiation law, he said, does not specifically provide for upward and adjustment in contract prices, if losses occur they may be used as offsets against other contracts when such contracts are considered collectively.

CIO-AFL Peace Parley May Be Delayed Month

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP).—The opening of peace negotiations between the AFL and the CIO may be delayed for another month, union sources on both sides indicated today. More than a month ago, the spokesmen for the negotiators tentatively agreed to begin conversations in the latter part of September. No definite date had been chosen as of today.

Sales Representative Wanted

A fine opportunity is offered by one of the large corporations of the country to a highly qualified sales representative selling to railroads.

To qualify the man should have acquaintance among railroad executives, knowledge of railroad operation, and ability to present sales story convincingly to operating officials. Technical background would help.

Position offers attractive future to man of ability, who is willing to work hard.

TRADE VOLUME WITH AMERICAN NATIONS RISING

Business with Six Countries Shown.

A steadily increasing growth of trade among American nations was disclosed yesterday in publication of part 1 of the Annual Economic Survey of Latin American for 1941, compiled by the division of economic information of the Pan-American Union. The report emphasized the increased participation of the United States in the trade of Argentina Bolivia, Brazil, Colombia, Costa Rica, and Cuba.

A survey of the remaining Latin-American nations is to appear in the two subsequent parts of the report.

In all except one instance, the United States' share of total exports and imports of the six countries for 1941 exceeded those for the preceding year.

Trade with Argentine Up.

The United States' share of Argentina's imports last year dipped to 28.7 per cent of the total, compared with 29.2 per cent in 1940. However, our share in Argentina's exports more than doubled, from 17.8 per cent in 1940 to 36.9 per cent in 1941.

Participation of Germany and Italy in Argentine foreign trade was negligible last year, while that of Japan, Spain and Russia increased over 1940, the report said. Japan's purchases of Argentine exports jumped to 43 million pesos from 23 million in 1940, and Argentine imports from Japan rose from 23 million pesos in 1940 to 26 million last year.

Large Purchases in Bolivia.

Bolivia's imports of manufactured products, comprising 62 per cent of the value of her imports of 1941, were practically all purchased in the United States, while 54 per cent of the value of Bolivian tin exports, which represented 77 per cent of her total exports, were sold to this country.

"While it is true that these six Latin-American nations were largely able to absorb the shocks of trade dislocations in 1941," said the report, "a growing scarcity of shipping space and the increasing difficulties experienced by these countries in obtaining essential import requirements due to priority ratings, have tended to make economic conditions more critical."

10 CENT A PARCEL EXPRESS BOOST GRANTED BY ICC

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce commission today granted a flat 10 cent increase per package on less than carload shipments by express, effective Oct. 1.

Based on 1941 shipments the increase would net the Railway Express Agency, Inc., $1,853,395 annually toward offsetting increased labor costs, pay roll taxes, materials, and supplies, the ICC said. A table of earnings for the first five months this year, however, showed revenue off sharply. The company said this resulted from restriction on manufacture of consumer goods.

Commissioner Charles D. Mahaffie dissented, altho he said an increase in express revenue "is clearly justified." He contended that applying a flat 10 cent increase on all packages, regardless of value, weight, and the charge to which the 10 cents is to be added, "is close to default in rate making."

KENNECOTT COPPER'S 6 MONTH PROFIT CUT BY BIG TAX INCREASE

An increase of more than 7 million dollars in federal and foreign income and excess profits taxes cut earnings of Kennecott Copper corporation three-quarters of a millon dollars in the first half of the year, the company announced yesterday.

The firm, which is the nation's largest producer of copper and one of the leading factors in the world copper trade, had a net profit for the six months ended June 30 of $22,000,075, equal to $2.03 a share on the capital stock, compared with $23,785,672, or $2.20 a share in the corresponding period last year.

Provision for federal and foreign taxes was $22,927,700 in the six months' period, compared with $15,800,000 a year ago. In addition a reserve of $1,600,000 was set aside for contingencies.

OPA Calls Retailer Meeting to Eliminate Frills, Cut Costs

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP).—A "retail assistance" program to take the "frills" out of merchandising and help store keepers cut the cost of doing business under price ceilings was announced tonight by the Office of Price Administration.

Administrator Leon Henderson disclosed the creation of a committee of 35 retailers who will meet here next Monday and Tuesday to discuss the elmination of some superfluous retail services and the curtailment of others for the duration of the war.

Reduction of deliveries will be studied, as well as the extent to which stores should be permitted to reject returns of merchandise.

May Limit "Lay-away" Plans.

A limit on free toll telephone service for customers and on "lay-away" plans—the holding of goods on a small deposit for delivery some time in the future—also are to be studied.

Trade circles expected an OPA directive would be issued to eliminate some services, while agreement among retailers would suffice for curtailment of others, with the government's blessing.

In announcing the retailer conference with the OPA retail trade and services division and industry council next week, Henderson declared a war-time economy "has no place for frills and furbelows" like the business attracting services which were started when customers were hard to get.

"Picture Changed"—Henderson.

"Today the picture has changed," the price administrator said. "We are at war. Time and many materials are short. Retailers are experiencing numerous difficulties and are operating under price ceilings that make control of costs a real, live problem."

The OPA said that among those invited to attend were:

S. P. Carson of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., Chicago; B. C. Slavin of Bullocks, Los Angeles; Milton L. Brown, of Jenny's, Inc., Cincinnati; Stanley Marcus of Neiman-Marcus, Dallas; Irving Edison of Edison Brothers, St. Louis; John Lee, Harrisburg, Pa., and Rivers Peterson of the National Retail Hardware association, Indianapolis.

Pour in Scrap, Is New Appeal Made by WPB

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP).—The War Production board put it up flatly to the people today:

Unless they do an "exceptional job" on harvesting iron and steel scrap this fall, the country's blast furnaces will have to cut down on steel output this winter.

Deputy Director Paul C. Cabot of WPB's conservation division said that there was on hand only about half of the 7 million tons of scrap which must be available to furnaces by the year's end to tide steel makers over the winter months when collections normally fall off.

Cabot predicted the 3½ million ton shortage could be filled by the people, under the leadership of newspapers and local salvage committees, "if there is immediate intensification of scrap collection programs."

The hardest task will be finding trucks for the collection from householders, Cabot said. The government can offer no help in this respect, he made it clear, and some means of providing trucks must be found locally.

However, trucks volunteered by their owners for collections, will not be penalized under war time gasoline and transportation regulations, WPB announced. Service rations for trucks under OPA rules are based on the mileage of each vehicle. Cabot said this statement was issued in the hope that truck owners in local communities would lend their vehicles for the scrap collections.

URGE EVERY MAN TO BE HIS OWN FIRE WATCHER

Every householder as his own "fire watcher" was urged yesterday as one of the important needs of civilian defense by Col. Clarence Goldsmith, chief consultant of the fire defense section of the Office of Civilian Defense, Washington, D. C. He spoke at the annual convention of the National Association of Mutual Insurance companies in the Drake hotel.

The convention, which extends thru tomorrow, is being attended by approximately 600 representatives of auto, casualty, fire, windstorm, and other firms.

NO INTENTION TO RULE SAVINGS ACCOUNTS, SAYS RESERVE BOARD

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 [Special].—Commenting upon a published report that action may be taken to control savings accounts, the board of governors of the federal reserve system today issued the following statement:

"The board of governors of the federal reserve system wishes to deny a report printed in the Wall Street Journal of Sept. 21 to the effect that federal reserve officials are contemplating some form of control of savings accounts. This report may be interpreted to mean that federal reserve officials are considering some interference with the individual's freedom to use his savings account. This is not true."

WALKOUT BY AFL HALTS REHIRING ORDERED BY NLRB

Flint, Mich., Sept. 21 (AP).—About 300 members of the United Automobile Workers [AFL] walked off their jobs at the Marvel-Schebler Carburetor division of Borg-Warner Corporation here today.

S. W. Gray, president of the division, said the walkout followed the fourth attempt by the management, at the direction of the National Labor Relations board, to reinstate a woman employé who was a member of the UAW-CIO.

This woman, Mrs. Harriet Stitt, originally was discharged in March, 1940, and the NLRB later held she was dismissed because of nonmembership in the AFL. On orders of the board the company attempted to reinstate her last February, but three attempts led to as many work stoppages by AFL employés, Gray said, and she was indefinitely laid off.

AMA ADVOCATES RISE FOR CHICAGO MILK PRODUCERS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP).—The Agricultural Marketing administration today recommended an increase in the producers' price for milk in the Chicago area under the provisions of the federal milk marketing order.

Based on the August prices of milk and skim milk powder, the administration estimated that the fluid milk price would be increased from $2.67 to $2.84 a hundred pounds; milk for cream and ice cream, from $2.29 to $2.46, and milk for evaporation, from $1.97 to $2.14.

The milk order does not set retail prices, it was said. Exceptions to the increases may be filed thru Oct. 2.

FAILURE RATE AMONG SMALL FIRMS SLOWED

But Bank Says Dip Is Momentary.

The mortality rate among small businesses in the United States was reduced in the first half of this year from the corresponding 1941 period despite problems of survival created by the war, a New York Trust company study disclosed yesterday. However, the critical period for small business is just beginning, and the problem of adjusting little enterprises to war production has not been solved, the review asserted.

The publication cites a survey by Dun & Bradstreet showing that 903 manufacturing companies, both large and small, failed in the first half of 1942, compared with 1,069 in the 1941 period; 438 wholesale firms, against 610, and 3,600 retail establishments, against 4,389.

Small Firms Fare Best.

Among these, the companies of the smallest size, having liabilities of less than $5,000, showed a 20 per cent decline in mortalities; those in the $5,000, to $25,000 class a 12 per cent decline; those between $25,000 and $100,000 an 11 per cent decline, and those with liabilities of $100,000 or more, a reduction of only 6 per cent in mortality.

"While these figures showing a lower mortality rate among small business are encouraging, it should be noted that the critical period is just beginning," the bank said. "The integration of small business into the war production program has not yet been accomplished to the satisfaction either of most small business men or of those in charge of the war program."

The review showed that small business normally accounts for about a third of production in the manufacturing industry, and that "a considerably increased share of this output may be needed to insure victory in the war."

Definitions of Small.

Classified as small are manufacturing plants with 100 employes or less; wholesale firms with less than $200,000 of annual net sales, and retail stores, service establishments, hotels, amusement places, and other firms having annual sales or receipts of less than $50,000.

Of the total, about 169,000 are manufacturing companies, 72,000 are wholesalers, 1,614,000 are retailers, 638,000 are service organizations, 200,000 are construction companies, 40,000 are amusement places, and 25,000 are hotels.

Only about 45,000 of the 168,814 small factories can convert to war work, Index estimates. The small plants make up the bulk of the 184,230 manufacturing plants in the nation.

Perpetuation Important.

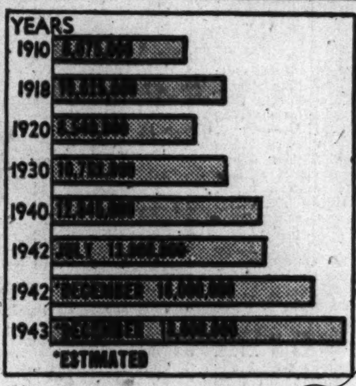
"The perpetuation of these small plants and other small businesses is of national import, because small business has long been considered a bulwark of the American system of free enterprise," the study said.

"Successful operation of small businesses thruout the nation is generally accompanied by a diffusion of economic power, normally gives to both producer and consumer a wider latitude of choice, and insofar as it affects political power, helps to make possible the continuation of civil liberties."

100 Million in Short Term Notes Sold by New York

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 21 (AP).—The state of New York sold 100 million dollars worth of short term notes today to 91 banks and bond firms. Issued in anticipation of taxes levied but not collected, the notes will finance general state expenses. They will be paid in cash March 22, 1943, Controler Joseph V. O'Leary said.

Women's Job's Increase



The chart compares the yearly totals of women gainfully employed. In the years prior to 1942 the figures are as of the time the census was taken. In 1942 and 1943 the month of the federal estimate is indicated.

It is estimated that by the end of 1943 women employed in the United States will reach a total of 18 millions, or more than double the total in 1910, the last census prior to the World war. The total that year included all female workers over 10 years of age, but later census enumerations begin with those of 14 years.

The number of women employed in gainful occupations has risen steadily, and this year and next is expected to increase sharply. In 1918, during the closing months of the World war, women employed in war industries reached a peak of 2,225,000, compared with the 1,750,000 in war work in July, 1942. This latter total is expected to rise to 4 million by the end of this year and to 6 million by the close of 1943.

ABBOTT RECEIVES ARMY-NAVY FLAG FOR WAR OUTPUT

Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago pharmaceutical manufacturer, was awarded the Army-Navy E pennant yesterday for excellence in war production. The company is making medicinal products for the armed forces.

Nearly 2,000 persons, most of them employés, attended the presentation. Participants included Gov. Green, Rear Adm. John Downes, commandant of the 9th naval district, and Col. F. C. Rogers, commanding officer at Fort Sheridan. S. De Witt Clough, company president, accepted the flag from Adm. Downes.

The army-navy E, in recognition of outstanding performance in war work, was awarded last night to employés of the incendiary bomb division of the United Wall Papers Factories, Inc., at a banquet at the Palmer House, Brig. Gen. Paul X. Engling, chief of the industrial division of the office of chief chemical warfare service, Washington, D. C., made the presentation.

People and Events

Members of the Illinois Engineering council will meet tonight in the Engineering auditorium, 205 West Wacker drive. Speakers will include Lieut. Comm. Thomas White of the Chicago office of naval procurement, and Dr. J. R. Van Pelt, assistant to Brig. Gen. William O. Hotchkiss, deputy director of the army specialist corps, Washington. T. G. LeClair, supervising development engineer, Commonwealth Edison company, will preside.

Harry Abbott, for 10 years managing supervisor of Bond Stores, Inc., in the Chicago area, has resigned to enter the armed forces, Vice President I. W. Connors announced yesterday. During the World war he was a captain in the Red Cross. He will be succeeded by William Loftus, manager of the Halsted street store.

AGENTS WARNED OF U. S. CONTROL OVER INSURANCE

National Rules Made More Liberal.

The National Association of Insurance Agents was told at its annual convention at the Palmer House yesterday that the industry faces a threat of government control. At the same time, the organization, representing fire and casualty insurance agents, amended its constitution to permit it to function more democratically by giving members of its state affiliates a larger voice in policy making activities.

R. W. Forshay, of Anita, Ia., president of the association, said in his administration report that the insurance business has been complacent for years about the future of regulation, and he cautioned members about what is going on in Washington, D. C.

"The capital is a steaming, boiling cauldron, where every day decisions are being made affecting our national business life," Forshay said. "It is to be expected that such a condition might have its repercussions on the business of insurance. It has.

Federal Control or Take Over?

"We are told by a member of congress that there are two schools of thought in high official circles in Washington concerning the federal government's treatment of the insurance business.

"One school believes that it should be cracked wide open and federally controled. The other school believes that the federal government should go into the insurance business and take it over in its entirety.

"It seems to us that there is contained in these expressions sufficient information to warn those who have in charge the destiny of the insurance business.

"We are in the midst of a national change, and this change will not miss insurance. It is hard to understand why there has not been an effort to show that this business should be preserved unimpaired in the hands of capable men with initiative and ingenuity."

Big Change in Constitution.

The changes adopted in the association's constitution were so extensive that they practically amounted to the writing of a new one, spokesmen said. The two principal results, however, are these:

1. A new national board of directors, consisting of one representative from each state association, is created, with the power to "act in the formulation of statements and policies, and draft resolutions to be presented to meetings of the membership of the national association."

2. An executive committee is created to carry out the policies of the association as determined by a meeting of association members or the national board of state directors. This committee is given power, however, to act on policy matters in an emergency and in the intervals between membership meetings. The provision was aimed at making quick action possible in case of some wartime development relating to insurance rates, new regulations, and other matters.

Members Number 75,000.

The association has a membership of more than 75,000 agents in 16,500 agencies. The convention is scheduled to end at noon Thursday. About 800 members were reported registered yesterday with the number expected to reach 1,000, officials said.

Today the Illinois Association of Life Insurance Agents will hold a short meeting at the Palmer House. Otherwise, the state association is merging its convention activities with those of the national group.

TRADE IN LOWER PRICED STOCKS PACES MARKET

International Telephone at Two Year High.

New York, Sept. 21 (AP).—Low price stocks continued to dominate light trading in today's market as most leaders idled in a narrow range.

Persistent speculative popularity of the "penny" performers again was attributed mainly to reports of growing earnings and other supposedly favorable prospects affecting them.

The list was uneven from the start, and closed mixed. Variations generally were in minor fractions, altho there were a few wider movers.

Scant bullish influence was found in news of the war, taxes, or the inflation control campaign. Another Jewish religious holiday cut attendance in Wall street, and the few customers who appeared were inclined to go light on extending commitments in pivotal issues.

Average Stands Unchanged.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 37. Transfers of 320,290 shares were aided by the turnover of sizable blocks of issues quoted at under $10 a share. The total compared with 417,470 in the preceding full session last Friday.

International Telephone again was the most active stock. It touched a new two year top along with the common and preferreds of Colorado & Southern. The rail issues came to life on a brightening revenue and traffic outlook.

Texas & Pacific railway made a new high since 1939, while peaks for this year were reached by Goodyear and Western Union.

Engineers Public Service common was up ⅛ on heavy dealings. The utilities 5 and 6 per cent senior issues jumped more than 6 points each on negligible turnover.

The sale of a New York Stock exchange seat was arranged today at $20,000, a drop of $1,000 from the preceding sale on Sept. 17.

CHICAGO STOCKS GAIN.

Prices advanced slightly on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday on turnover of 13,000 shares. Of the 82 issues traded 34 advanced, 23 declined and 25 were unchanged. Volume leaders included Chicago corporation, Commonwealth Edison and Katz Drug, all unchanged; Wisconsin Bank Shares, up ⅛, and General Finance corporation, up ¼.

Cotton futures closed yesterday 25 to 75 cents a bale lower. Last week's hedging and liquidation, attributed to trade uncertainty over the final form of the anti-inflation measures now in preparation, were held responsible for the decline. Hedge selling by spot interests and commission house liquidation in October depressed wool top futures which closed 1.1 to 1.4 cents lower.

DECLINE IN RYE TOPS 1 CENT AS GRAINS WEAKEN

Warns of Regimentation Thru Control Bill.

Grain futures turned lower on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, and many traders were reported inclined to even up commitments as debate on the price control measure started in the senate. Profit takers and hedgers also were disturbing influences.

Rye led the decline with a break of ⅞ to 1¼ cents, the close being near the day's low. May sold at 79 cents, off 4⅛ cents from the week's high, and has lost more than one-third of its recent advance. Wheat lost ¼ to ⅝ cent and corn was down ¼ to ⅜ cent. Liquidation developed in September oats, and futures finished ⅛ to ⅝ cent lower. Soy beans closed 1¼ to 1⅜ cents lower.

Status Termed Unchanged.

Grain trade leaders expressed belief that unless numerous revisions are made in the draft of the proposed price control measures that farmers will be no better off than before. H. S. Austrian, vice president of the Chicago Board of Trade said in his analysis that farmers already are receiving a loan of 85 per cent of parity plus soil conservation and parity benefit payments which bring his total income to 100 per cent of parity on wheat and corn.

If a new 90 per cent loan rate is established by law, and soil conservation and parity benefits are reduced to 10 per cent, said Austrian, the producer's position will be unchanged as far as money received from the federal government is concerned unless the parity formula is revised upward.

Sole Buyer and Seller.

Under the proposed legislation a large part of the grain pledged for loans may go to the government, said Austrian, because a 90 per cent loan rate plus insurance, storage, and other charges would almost equal 100 per cent of parity. This would mean regimentation of agriculture, he added, and the government would become the sole buyer and seller of grain.

Demand for flour was said to be light with buyers awaiting the outcome of anti-inflation measures before taking hold.

HEAVY TRADING IN LOW PRICED RAILS CONTINUES

New York, Sept. 21 (AP).—Continued heavy trading in low and medium priced rail issues kept bond market volume at a good level today. Some of the carriers showed market strength while others fell back under profit selling.

Favored groups included the New York Centrals, St. Louis Southwesterns, Rock Islands and Denver & Rio Grande Westerns.

Armour of Delaware 4s were among the best of the industrials at 101¾, up ⅝. Utility bonds were steady.

Activity continued low in United States government and foreign bonds. Transactions totaled $10,466,000 face value compared with $12,903,200 last Friday.

BUTTER FUTURES REACH SEASONAL HIGHS IN CHICAGO

Butter futures advanced to new seasonal highs on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, gaining 0.25 to 0.30 cent a pound. The November delivery closed at 42.95 cents. Transfers totaled 136 cars.

Eggs were unchanged to 0.05 cent lower, the October delivery ending at last week's final price of 35.40 cents a dozen. Gains of 1 to 2 cents were registered in the Idaho potatoes market, the November delivery ending at $2.93 a hundred pounds.

AVERAGE PRICE OF HOGS CLIMBS TO 22 YEAR HIGH

Advance for Lard Types Ranges to 40 Cents.

Abnormally small supplies and widespread demand for heavy hogs as a result of the acute lard shortage combined to send the average price of hogs to a new 22 year high of $14.65 at the Chicago stock yards yesterday. This was 5 cents above the previous high set this year, altho best young hogs sold 45 cents under the 22 year peak established last month.

Most classes of hogs sold 25 to 35 cents above last week's close, with the heaviest butchers and sows 40 cents higher. The heavyweights have moved rapidly toward the top of the price list because they furnish the lard needed.

The price range was the narrowest of the season. Top young hogs sold up to $14.85, which was also paid for 300 pound butchers.

Hog Price Shifts.

How hog prices have narrowed during the last few weeks is indicated by the following top prices by weights:

Hogs.	Yesterday.	Aug. 17.	Gain.

†Loss.

The belief that current hog prices will not be effected much by any ceiling action taken by the congress or the administration was said to have caused reduced shipments by farmers to all leading packing centers. Only 63,000 arrived at 11 major points, compared with 88,000 a week earlier, 69,000 the corresponding day last year, and 76,000 two years ago.

Cattle Market Recovers.

An abrupt letup in the farm liquidation of cattle cut receipts to 11,000 head, the smallest Monday supply since the middle of July. Twenty markets handled 104,000 head, against 137,000 a week earlier. Best steers and yearlings rose 25 to 50 cents. Others were strong to 25 cents higher.

Sheep and lambs were steady, with top natives at $14.50. About 1,500 old ewes from the range brought $5.50 to $6. Solid mouth breeders went at $7.50.

STANDARD GAS UNIT FILES PLAN TO RECAPITALIZE

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 21 (AP).—The Southern Colorado Power company proposed today in an amended application filed with the Securities Exchange commission to reclassify its outstanding securities into $4,521,600 of $10 par common stock to enable the company and its parent, Standard Gas and Electric corporation, to meet corporate simplification provisions of the holding company act. Hearing was set for Oct. 6.

The 452,160 new common shares resulting from the reclassification would be distributed as follows: Two shares of new common for each share of 7 per cent cumulative preferred, one-fifth share of new common for each share of the present class A common stock, and one-fifteenth share of new common for each share of present class B common.

A resultant capital surplus of $3,230,000, together with earned surplus, would be used for redemption and financing purposes, the application said. Colorado also has filed a proposal to refinance $6,763,400 of 6 per cent first mortgage bonds due in 1947.

ARMY TO RECRUIT NEW COMPANY OF AUTO MECHANICS

Army ordnance officers, with the cooperation of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, today will start recruiting skilled men for the fourth heavy maintenance company to be formed in Cook county, Samuel B. Shapiro, general manager of the association, announced yesterday.

A wide variety of skills and trades is required, he said, including auto and truck mechanics, machinists, artillery mechanics, armorers, instrument repairmen, parts clerks, welders, electricians, chauffeurs, and cooks. Men between the ages of 18 and 45 with technical experience and able to pass army physical tests will be eligible for technical ratings. Shapiro said the company will be officered by men selected from the automotive trades in Cook county.

Men selected will be returned for a short time to their regular civilian duties and will be placed in the enlisted men's reserve corps. They will be called into active service about 30 days later, Shapiro said. Recruiting will take place at the association's office at 100 East Ohio street between 9 a. m. and 10 p. m. daily until a company of about 215 men is formed.

AIRCRAFT

Men between the ages of 18 and 50 should face the facts of war; either help secure the war material required by our armed forces or join the armed forces.

This shop training plant has enrolled 3,841 men so far this year. . . . Why?

BECAUSE

[1] Our graduates receive actual shop training in all branches of aircraft manufacture.

CAPTAIN KELLY'S BOMBARDIER

This is a reproduction in its original colors of a painting of Sergt. Meyer Levin by John Doctoroff, Chicago artist. It was Levin who, as bombardier of Capt. Colin P. Kelly Jr.'s plane, released the bombs that destroyed the Japanese battleship Haruna off the coast of the Philippines early in the war. Levin was one of a number who were awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for a trans-Pacific formation flight from Hawaii to the Philippines more than a year ago. Since his escape from the Philippines on "Friday the Thirteenth" of last March he has seen much thrilling action, in the battle of the Coral Sea and other encounters. He has taken part in more than 50 important missions and has been forced to bail out twice to escape death.
